MAN-LOADED MISSILE

Monetary Policies Main Socred Election Plank

EDMONTON (CP)—Social Credit Leader Solon Low today outlined a 10-point election program placing first emphasis on basic Social Credit monetary policies.

"The present economy demands reforms," he said at a press conference, in outlining a program that he said was "hammered out" by three regional conferences in Ottawa, Vancouver and Brandon, Man.

Central point of the monetary program would be "a directive to a finance commission and the Bank of Canada" to keep in balance the effective purchasing power in the hands of the people with the value of the wanted goods and services available for sale.

"This would maintain dollar-for-dollar value and coupled with other measures end the boom-and-bust cycle."

The Social Credit program also proposed an immediate "objective" investigation of the tax structure to eliminate discriminatory taxes and reduce consumer prices.

Other points:

Social Credit would establish a "partnership principle" between federal and provincial conferences to ensure just sharing of available revenue. More university scholarships would be provided.

Long-term credit and reasonable interest rates would be given small business so they could compete with larger concerns.

Unemployment would be relieved by a large-scale federal project to build storage facilities for farm surpluses until they could be sold.

Old age pensions and disability payments would be commensurate with individuals' need and the amount of money available. Social Credit would not "try to outbid the other fellow."

LOW-COST FARM LOANS

Mr. Low said Canada would accept foreign currencies in return for its farm products. Farm policy would include low cost, long-term loans to farmers for general purposes, and cash advances against farm-stored grain on a minimum of six bushels an acre. A two price system would be established for farm products, at parity prices for those sold on the domestic market. Products would be sold abroad at the best prices obtainable, but supported at levels which ensured the farmer a fair share of national income.

Grain growers would have the right to deliver grain to the elevator of their choice and flax and rye would be brought under the Canadian wheat board marketing system.

An all-risk national crop insurance act would be instituted. Social Credit financial policy would make available money for home building at lower interest rates and smaller down payments.

LAING CHARGE:

Gaglardi Let Road Builder Double Price

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Liberal Leader Arthur Laing accused Highways Minister Gaglardi Thursday night of allowing a contractor to double the estimated price on a piece of road work.

Mr. Laing, speaking at the Vancouver - Quadra Liberal nominating convention, said Mr. Gaglardi "implored" the contractor to get started on the job.

"The contractor couldn't handle it because he was loaded with work from the highways department. So he just looked up the old estimate, made in 1956, and doubled it. Within 12 hours, Mr. Gaglardi had given him the go-ahead."

The Liberal leader refused to name the contractor, but he told reporters later facts of the case are "all over town and may be used publicly soon."

Ike Cables Winnie

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower today sent a telegram to Sir Winston Churchill expressing pleasure at his progress in recovering from pneumonia and pleurisy and that the Eisenhowers are looking forward to seeing Sir Winston in Washington in April.

U.K. Missile Gets Highest Priority

LONDON (Reuters)—Highest priority was announced today for work on a British ballistic missile as the United Kingdom's main future "nuclear deterrent."

Air Minister George Ward said in the annual air estimates that meanwhile Britain's present deterrent power has been "greatly increased" as a result of her successful hydrogen bomb program and the current build-up in high-speed multi-jet bombers.

The estimates ask £467,000,000 ($1,307,000,000) for the coming financial year, a reduction of £20,000,000 from last year.

Ward said Britain's "ability to reinforce the Western deterrent will be increased by the acceptance of U.S. intermediate-range ballistic missiles." Agreement on bases in Britain for these missiles is expected to be announced next week.

'WRONG MAN' GOT PRIZE' —PEARSON

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Lester B. Pearson said with tongue in cheek today that he may have to suggest to the Nobel prize committee that they gave the 1957 peace prize to the wrong man.

He was referring to a speech by Transport Minister Hees at Fort William, Ont., Thursday. Mr. Hees claimed the Liberal leader got the prize by taking as his own a proposal by Prime Minister Diefenbaker that the United Nations set up a police force in the Middle East.

"Yes, I saw that report," Mr. Pearson said.

Perhaps I may suggest in my speech tonight that the Progressive Conservatives nominate Mr. Diefenbaker for the 1958 peace prize. Or perhaps the Nobel committee ought to be told they gave the award to the wrong man.

New York State on Emergency Basis From Snow, Hunger, Cold

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The entire state of New York was on an emergency basis today following an appeal by Governor Averell Harriman for federal aid to the cold, hungry and sick stranded across snowbound wastes.

The weather began to cooperate today, too, as winds slackened and temperatures crept up into the 20s.

The discovery of an asphyxiated family of five on a farm home, sending the state's death toll in last weekend's storm up to 44, added emphasis to the governor's call for help for uncounted marooned residents imprisoned by snowbound roads.

In a telegram to federal defence officials, Harriman asked for military helicopters for food drops and for army and air force snow-removal equipment.

CRAWL TO FOOD

Many people "are in desperate condition," he said. "Their fuel and food supplies are near exhaustion. They are without feed for farm animals. All state and local snow removal equipment is being used."

Meanwhile, marooned families were told by radio to stamp distress signals in the snow to attract attention from planes flying over today.

In the Ginger Lakes region, the Red Cross, the air force and police teamed to organize a gigantic rescue effort. Drifts were reported piled to the second-storey windows of some homes.

A helicopter pilot who dropped food packages to isolated farms Thursday said "people scrambled out of their homes like ants — some crawling on their hands and knees — and ripped open the sacks to devour the food on the spot."

Indonesian Planes Hit Rebel Town

SINGAPORE (AP)—Padang radio said tonight two Indonesian Air Force planes this morning dropped seven bombs on the town of Parnau, about 45 miles south of Padang.

The broadcast from the rebel regime's stronghold on Sumatra said the bombs fell near a mosque where villagers were going to pray. The bombing was reported one hour after President Sukarno threw his support to the determination of Premier Djuanda's government to crush the rebels.

No casualties were reported. The broadcast also said a bridge at Saledo also was machine-gunned by attacking planes.

OUSTER DEMANDED

The rebels, who are demanding the ouster of Djuanda, have shown nervousness over the possibilities of air attack.

Padang broadcasts have carried repeated warnings to the people of central Sumatra to prepare for aerial blows from the small central government's air force.

The government destroyer Gadja Mada and some corvettes appeared off Padang Thursday in blockade position.

The rebel regime has neither planes nor warships.

In Jakarta, President Sukarno rejected an ultimatum from Sumatra and called for action to eliminate the rebel government.

Djuanda threatened an economic squeeze and said there might be shooting because "to carry out an economic blockade we must employ the army, air forc and the navy."

Angry Moves Hit Tunisian Peace Hopes

TUNIS (AP) — More angry moves by the Tunisian government and French troops have clouded prospects for British-American efforts to conciliate the North African dispute.

Tunisia pulled five French consuls out of their posts and hurried them to Tunis, enforcing a "get out" order by President Habib Bourguiba that had lain dormant for 10 days.

The action against the consuls was in retaliation for the overnight detention by French troops of the top local official and two Tunisian national guardsmen after a land-mine explosion in the south Tunisian village of Remada which blew up a French jeep and wounded two soldiers.

SUDAN DISPUTE HOISTED

Egypt, Syria Merge, Nasser President

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Egypt announced today that it has agreed to postpone settlement of its border dispute with the Sudan until after the Sudanese elections of Feb. 27.

The announcement came as voters in Syria and Egypt cast ballots on the plan to merge their two countries into the United Arab Republic and elect Gamal Abdel Nasser president. The vote was large in both countries and there was no doubt the merger was approved and Nasser elected.

The official Egyptian position was disclosed just hours before the United Nations Security Council was to meet in New York to consider the Sudan's charge of "Impending Egyptian aggression." The Sudan made its charge because of Egyptian efforts to include the disputed frontier areas in the plebiscite.

In its statement, Egypt again denied that it had military forces on its southern border with the Sudan, "Apart from normal frontier patrols." It noted that its armed forces have been built up not "to invade the Sudan but to help it stand up to the common enemy."

SIR WINSTON IMPROVES; PNEUMONIA 'RESOLVING'

ROQUEBRUNE CAP MARTIN, France (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's physician today reported "a very definite improvement" in his condition.

The daily medical bulletin this afternoon said there are signs that the 83-year-old statesman's pneumonia is resolving. It added that his progress is so far satisfactory.

Court Told Of 'Dinging'

(Special to The Times)

VANCOUVER—Charles Eversfield, chief crown witness in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy hearing, testified today that his former boss, H. W. Gray, kept him informed on details in connection with an alleged three-way split of certain funds.

The 46-year-old former bookkeeper of Pacific Coast Services Ltd. testified that Mr. Gray, president of Pacific, gave him details of "the whole picture" in instructing him about funds that were to be retained for former Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers.

He recalled one instance when Mr. Gray returned from meeting Mr. Sommers in Victoria and remarked: "I am in charge of the dinging department" or words to that effect.

He said there was no explanation by Gray of the remark.

"Is that a slang word or what," asked Magistrate Oscar Orr. "Spell it out."

The witness spelled the word dinging but said he didn't know what it meant.

The crown this morning completed its examination of Eversfield, now on the stand for the fourth day in the preliminary hearing of charges against Mr. Sommers, three other individuals and four companies.

DEFENCE PROTESTS

The Crown alleges that Mr. Sommers received considerations to a total of more than $15,000 in a conspiracy involving the issuance of certain forest management licences.

Cross examination of Eversfield by the battery of eight defence counsel was to begin this afternoon. During the morning the defence repeatedly objected that prosecutor Stewart McMorran was asking Eversfield leading questions.

Under questioning Eversfield said he knew of no work done by Pacific for the monies it received from various sources.

The Crown charges that some of these funds were split three ways between Pacific, the C. D. Schultz Co. Ltd. and Mr. Sommers while he was minister. Sommers resigned his portfolio in 1955 but still sits in the legislature as a private member.

LIFE OF PARTY?

Man, You're Sick

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Want to be the life of the party?

Dream of tossing off uproarious quips?

If you do, man, you're sick.

That diagnosis comes from a psychiatrist, Dr. Martin Grotjahn of the University of Southern California.

"A wit," says Dr. Grotjahn, "is an angry man in search of a victim. A witticism is his way of releasing repressed hostility. If he doesn't find a victim, he will probably suffer from a migraine headache attack.

"A witticism starts with an aggressive tendency or intent — an insult - like, shocking thought. By clothing the insult with the veneer of laughter and the convention of a joke, the wit brings his bottled-up hostilities to the surface in a manner acceptable to society.

"If the wit didn't have this outlet, a headache might occur. Thus, a thought murder (the witticism) a day keeps the doctor away."

Free-for-All As Whitbys Top U.S. 9-2

OSLO, Norway (CP)—A wild free-for-all broke out in the second period of an exhibition hockey game between the Canadian and United States world hockey entrants today as players and spectators swarmed onto the ice and traded punches.

Canada won the game by a score of 9 to 2.

The outbreak started near the Canadian net with Canada leading 4-1. Bill Christian of the U.S. skated in on the goal and was grabbed by George Gosselin. They started wrestling and two Norwegian policemen jumped over the boards to separate the combatants.

A group of Norwegian fans swarmed onto the ice and around the penalty box. One fan was arrested after he punched Gosselin in the face.

Unconscious 21 Months

By PETE LOUDON

A noted London medical specialist and faith healer, Dr. Christopher Woodard, will arrive in Victoria Saturday to attempt to revive Dr. Anne Steel from a 21-month coma.

A Harley Street specialist, Dr. Woodard, told the Times from Vancouver today:

"I'm not seeking to command God to heal her or bring her out of her coma, but to come as an act of faith, because I believe God can heal any sickness at any time."

BY MOTHER

It is understood, Dr. Woodard was brought here by Dr. Steel's mother, Mrs. C. I. Cookes, 1560 Despard.

Mrs. Cookes was in bed with flu today and unable to comment.

A friend of the family said Mrs. Cookes had exchanged several letters with Dr. Woodard.

Dr. Woodard said his "doctor patient" was the "main thing that brought me here," but he is combining his visit with a lecture tour. He speaks in Vancouver tonight, and has five speaking engagements here between Sunday and Wednesday.

He said regarding Dr. Steel, "I'm likely to see her quite a lot."

He said also he welcomes the prayers of people in Victoria in his task; "If we believe, we shall see our belief fulfilled."

BRAIN INJURY

Dr. Steel suffered a brain injury May 16, 1956, when her horse fell on her during a vacation near Osoyoos, B.C. She was riding with her children, Phillipa and Tony, at the time.

Surgery was performed by a top Victoria brain specialist, Dr. John E. Harvey, but despite every treatment, she has never regained consciousness at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Dr. Steel is 38. She was born in Scotland and graduated from Edinburgh University, later taking a Canadian medical degree at Vancouver and interning at St. Joseph's Hospital.

She was in practice here eight years prior to her accident and was in partnership with Dr. Charlotte Dohan. Dr. Steel's husband, Philip, is a school teacher.

Dr. Woodard arrives here by air at noon Saturday. He is a graduate of Trinity College, Cambridge. His great grandfather was founder of the famous Woodard Schools in England.

Victoria Lessons in Living Group and interdenominational religious study group of Victoria told The Times:

Flares Seen Raise Hopes For Aircrew

HALIFAX (CP)—The search for a missing United States Navy plane with 22 men aboard was intensified today after lights were sighted in the Atlantic near where it disappeared.

Fifty planes joined in criss-crossing the area 600 miles east of Newfoundland where the lights were seen.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Yakatat said a red flare was seen Thursday night about 400 miles north of the plane's last position. Early today a U.S. Air Force plane reported seeing small lights on the surface of the ocean about 150 miles from where the flare was sighted.

Portuguese, Canadian and U.S. aircraft joined in the search. U.S. aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, a cruiser and 16 destroyers also took part. The carrier sent 17 planes into the hunt.

The four-engined Super-Constellation disappeared Thursday on a radar patrol flight from Argentia, Nfld., to the Azores.

Storm of Criticism Hits Selwyn Lloyd

LONDON (CP)—The reputation of Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd stands at a low point today, leading to renewed speculation about his political future.

Newspapers of left and right are equally harsh in their appraisals of Lloyd's speech in Thursday's House of Commons debate on foreign affairs. Words like "flop," "fiasco" and "disaster" are freely used. The Times calls his speech "one of his more inept performances."

A common interpretation is that the speech was so barren—there was silence on the Conservative benches when he sat down — that Prime Minister Macmillan decided at the last moment to wind up the debate himself and try to restore some of the bipartisan spirit which prevailed in the opening stages.

This is the second time that Lloyd's removal has been widely predicted. The first was after Sir Anthony Eden's resignation as prime minister 13 months ago in the aftermath of the Suez invasion, but Eden's successor, Macmillan, kept Lloyd in the foreign-policy post.

EGGS, TOMATOES, FLOUR THROWN

Duke, Cabinet Minister Pelted By Scottish University Students

GLASGOW, Scotland (BUP) — Glasgow University undergraduates pelted Britain's Home Secretary R. A. Butler with eggs, tomatoes and toilet rolls, and sprayed him with a fire extinguisher at his installation as Lord Rector of Glasgow today.

Thursday, the Duke of Edinburgh smilingly underwent a similar bombardment at Edinburgh University where, as Chancellor, he was robing actor James Robertson Justice, as the new rector there.

Today, more than 2,000 students packed St. Andrews hall at the university for more than an hour before Butler's arrival.

The riots started when Butler was on the platform being robed. Two ripe tomatoes squelched against his chest, and he made no movement to remove the mess.

As he began to speak the students rained firecrackers, flour bombs, eggs and toilet roll streamers onto the platform.

Trumpets blared, and the continuous cheering and catcalling drowned Butler's words.

Within 10 minutes, every person sitting on or near the platform had been hit.

A huge, solid cabbage heaved from the gallery, hit a photographer on the head. He was carried unconscious from the hall.

Several college professors walked out of the hall a few minutes after the installation started, commenting "disgusting, "just hooliganism" or "really the worst."

Shortly before the end of the ceremony a male student sprayed Butler with a fire extinguisher. Butler, his clothes soaked and stained, ignored the attack and carried on with his speech.

Several robed professors walked out.

Then a fight broke out in the gallery, and one student was pulled back after he almost fell over the gallery rail.

As Butler ended his speech a flour bomb burst in his face. He sat down.

Almost immediately university principal Sir Hector Hetherington signalled for the national anthem.

Outside dozens of police stood by, to break up the massed students milling around waiting for the home secretary to appear.

NORMAN CRIBBENS
IN THE LEGISLATURE

In Victoria, it is said, everything stops for tea. And the habit seems to be catching on in the Legislature, even among MLAs from those fast-moving places where they haven't time for such frivolities.

Noticing a drift towards the restaurant Thursday afternoon, Arthur Turner, the fatherly CCF member for Vancouver East, broke off his speech and said:

"If the government members want to go to tea, I will address the Liberals first."

"Thank you," smiled Premier Bennett. "But before we go, I would like to hear some of those constructive ideas you have promised us."

At which George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) looked up eagerly and asked:

"Can we go and have OUR tea then?"

"Certainly," bowed Mr. Turner in the manner of an olde English tea shoppe proprietor.

"How long will you be polishing off the government?"

"About 20 minutes."

"Thank you—you are very accommodating."

The two Liberal members — Mr. Gregory and Archie Gibbs —then left the House amid laughter.

★ ★ ★

Just before the Liberal tea break, Mr. Turner advised the government to throw away a cracked old record it had been playing since 1951—that nothing constructive ever comes from the CCF.

"It's getting a bit scratchy," murmured CCF leader Bob Strachan.

"We give you many constructive suggestions," pursued Mr. Turner, "but you never acknowledge them."

He said when the B.C. Socreds came to power in 1952 they were shrewd enough to catch up with a backlog of public projects that had been shelved, ignored and bypassed.

"As a result you have won a lot of favor in this province."

He added that the government had lots of money to spend on these things and there was no trick to spending money.

A famous statesman, he said, always carried around a pocketful of dimes to give to children.

"It was a nice gesture but nothing to what he had taken off their fathers in taxes," Mr. Turner said.

Premier Bennett led the applause when Mr. Turner decared the test of a government was whether it could function as well in not-so-good times as in good times.

"Those are wise words," said the premier.

The CCF veteran wouldn't be put off with these equivocations. He said prominent Canadian financiers had warned them the boom would not last.

"As this government did," said the premier, determined to have the last word.

★ ★ ★

After many years as an MP in Ottawa, debonair Harold Winch returned to the House where he began his political career as CCF member for Vancouver East in the hungry 30s.

Mr. Winch sat on the floor of the House as a guest and, in welcoming him, CCF Leader Strachan said it was ironical he could not address the assembly.

Associating himself with the welcome, Premier Bennett said he had always admired the skill and knowledge Mr. Winch brought to debate.

He is author of three books, "A Doctor Heals by Faith," "A Doctor's Faith Holds Fast," and "A Doctor's Faith Is Challenged."

"His great aim is to found centres in various places where there can be complete co-operation between doctors and clergy."

ABSOLUTE POWER

In such centres "the whole staff believes in the absolute power of Christ to heal all disease."

The Lessons for Living Group adds: "It is hoped that as many doctors as possible will take the opportunity of meeting with him for a friendly discussion, while he is in Victoria."

His address tonight in Vancouver will be at Collingwood United Church. After an indeterminate stay in Victoria, he also plans to speak in Seattle.

In Victoria, Dr. Woodard will preach at St. John's Church Sunday morning and at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday evening. The morning service at St. John's will be broadcast for benefit of shutins.

Monday he will speak at 8 p.m. at First Baptist Church and Tuesday at 8 p.m. to the Lessons In Living Groups at St. John's.

Wednesday night at 8, Dr. Woodard will again be heard at St. John's.

Physician Nominated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Lyon Ward, a Vancouver physician, was nominated on Thursday night as Liberal candidate for the Vancouver Centre seat held by former defence minister Ralph Campney until his defeat in the June 10 election. Mr. Campney did not stand for renomination.

'Dirty, Despicable Thing,' Says Winch

Greater Victoria got off to an old-fashioned, name-calling, arm-waving, hot-under-the-collar federal election campaign Thursday night with a guest appearance by the CCF's most fiery advocate, Harold Winch.

Mr. Winch, 50, MP for Vancouver East, exhorted an overflow audience of 250 at Douglas CCF Hall, to throw down the Liberals and Conservatives and start thinking about ". . . who owns Canada."

He accused Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of ". . . one of the most dirty, despicable things in the political history of Canada," in his sudden dissolution of government.

He said the dissolution meant the freedom of the cabinet to spend $1,300,000,000.

"When the new parliament meets, your members can't do a thing about it. Mr. Diefenbaker can thumb his nose at parliament. You think Bennett is arrogant, and so do I, but Mr. Diefenbaker can give him lessons."

Mr. Winch compared it to the dissolution of the B.C. legislature by the minority Social Credit government in 1952. In both cases, he said, opposition parties had pledged and given co-operation.

He said "Dief the Chief" on the final day attacked the parties which had supported him, and then usurped the rights of Parliament.

"When the opposition leaders got up to speak, Diefenbaker said "Parliament is dissolved, sit down." He denied the right of any member to speak except himself. You don't have to take my word for it. Get a copy of Hansard.

"Yet, last year, during the pipelines debate, Mr. Dienfenbaker promised to return the rights of Parliament."

Mr. Winch blasted the Conservatives for promising $500,000,000 in tax cuts then creating tax reductions of $178,000,000.

He said the Conservatives promised to pay half the cost of tubercular and mental hospitals, but later in office said such costs would be deducted from financial payments to the provinces.

He said that contrary to Canadian law, Canadian natural gas sells at 22 cents a unit in the U.S. and 32 cents in Canada.

"The Canadian consumer is subsidizing the Americans."

He attacked mortgage vendors—department stores which take 54 per cent above purchase prices in interest and charges, small loan operators who take 24 per cent on loans in a year, house mortgagors who take 15½ per cent interest.

"It's going on in Victoria . . . and the government says it's good business."

And finally, he warned against Canada . . . "becoming the Belgium of a new world war."

"I think this might be possible if there is a blind following of John Foster Dulles whom I consider to be one of the most dangerous men in world diplomacy today."

He said Canada should take the lead in opposing a diplomacy of "antagonism and insult."

Speaking on the "economic crisis of Canada today," he said

"You hear the Conservatives blaming the Liberals and the Liberals blaming the Conservatives. It's like two little boys arguing over who broke the window. They both know they both did it, because they both stand for the same system."

There just have to be more schools

Right now, over 3 million children are registered at elementary and secondary schools in Canada. During the next 10 years enrollment will grow to at least 4 million. Accordingly, many new schools will have to be built.

The financing of new schools is undertaken by school boards and municipalities with Provincial Government assistance, and they usually issue debentures in order to spread the cost over a period of years.

Life Insurance Companies have supplied a large part of these funds and today they hold 25% of all outstanding municipal bonds in Canada. Thus, part of the money paid by you in Life Insurance premiums may return to your community to help build schools for your children.

Such investments by the Life Insurance Companies in Canada on behalf of their policyholders contribute to Canada's growth and progress, important to everyone.

CCF Role Defended

Coldwell Says CCF Recognized As Goad to Rouse Old-Line Parties

By The Canadian Press

Should Canadians support a third party in the March 31 federal general election in preference to the Progressive Conservatives or Liberals?

Contradicting Works Minister Howard Green on the point, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell says yes, they should because his party has been the only "really effective voice of the people" in Parliament.

Green Wednesday referred to the CCF and Social Credit parties as "niggling" minorities.

It was all part of the continuing trek through wind and snow for Prime Minister Diefenbaker as he wound up a two-day visit to Newfoundland and for Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson in southwestern Ontario.

Mr. Coldwell discussed his party's contribution to Canadian politics as he spoke at Elbow, Sask., in his home constituency of Rosetown-Biggar. He moves into British Columbia next week.

The Socialist leader said credit for any gains won for Western Canada in the last Parliament must go to the fact the CCF party had more members from the West than any other party.

The only hope for Western Canada "in these troubled times of agricultural crisis, trade deficits and widespread unemployment is to elect a solid contingent of CCF members," he said.

"Allied with greatly expanded CCF representation from Eastern Canada, this would be the only group committed for agriculture and to full employment."

"The old-line parties have always wanted to eliminate the CCF. Over the years, the CCF has been recognized as the goad to rouse the old-line parties out of their complacency."

In Grand Falls, Nfld., Diefenbaker said his Conservative government's policy of encouraging more Canadian industrial processing of natural resources is "the only policy that could be justified" in the light of Canada's vast resources.

Defending himself against the Liberals' charge that he ran from his governmental responsibility by calling the election, he said the Liberals had described the Conservatives all through the last Parliament as unfit to govern.

"Now they're saying we should have stayed longer to govern the country without seeking recourse to the people."

In Kitchener, Mr. Pearson said the way to provide jobs is to reduce taxes. But Mr. Diefenbaker instead had announced a $1,185,000,000 works program.

As an emergency unemployment measure that was "nonsense." Many projects in the program were merly routine works that would have been undertaken whether there was unemployment or not. And many of them were started by the Liberal administration.

Hees Says Pearson 'Stole' UNEF Idea

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (BUP) — Transport Minister George Hees Thursday claimed the idea for a United Nations force for which Liberal Leader Lester Pearson was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, was not his own but taken, without credit, from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

Hees claimed that Pearson had "picked the brains" of Mr. Diefenbaker in January, 1956, He said Mr. Diefenbaker, then opposition member for Prince Albert, had advocated a United Nations emergency force, an international police force to maintain peace where force was necessary.

He followed this up with a quotation from a speech by Pearson the next day in which he had rejected Mr. Diefenbaker's idea.

However, Hees continued, Pearson kept Mr. Diefenbaker's idea in his mind, and when the Suez crisis provided the opportunity, "adopting Mr. Diefenbaker's idea as his own, Mr. Pearson made his world famous suggestion," and was rewarded with the peace prize.

The transport minister charged that as a result of his 30 years as a civil servant and minister of external affairs, Pearson has had little time to concern himself with the urgent matters confronting the Canadian economy.

REFLECTOR TAPE ISSUE SATURDAY

Bicycle riding youngsters will rendezvous at six city schools Saturday morning to receive reflecting tape for safety purposes to be used on their bikes.

From 9 to 11 a.m. the tape will be distributed at Willows Elementary, S. J. Willis Junior High, Central Junior High, Lansdowne Junior High, Mount View High and Esquimalt High schools.

The campaign to back safe bicycle riding is sponsored by the Victoria Noon and Evening Optimist and Opti-Mrs. Clubs. Cost will be about $500.

There will be enough of the safety tape for 1,500 bicycles. Distribution will be repeated later if demand is high.

CCF Whip Dares Bennett to Call Election

CCF whip Arthur Turner challenged Premier Bennett in the legislature Thursday to call a general provincial election after the current session is over.

The people of B.C. are "disgusted" with the government, the Vancouver East MLA said.

"You'll have a noisy election next time," he told the premier.

"Do you want one now?" the premier taunted.

"I challenge you now to call an election immediately after this session," Mr. Turner replied.

Mr. Turner cited a number of incidents which he said showed the people are displeased with the Social Credit government.

"This government is in a sorry mess," he said. Public relations between the government and the people had broken down.

The recent demonstration at UBC against Attorney-General Bonner was a straw in the wind, Mr. Turner said.

He also referred to the public clamor over cuts in government welfare services, which he said had forced the government to take on more staff in the mental hospitals.

The veteran CCF member said that of the 1,000 members in the B.C. Psychiatric Nurses' Association, only 600 are actually working in the profession.

Others have taken other jobs because of the poor pay in the provincial mental institutions, he said.

Mr. Turner said that because the government chose to take the credit for the recent boom years, it now must bear responsibility for the "not so good times."

Education Raises Its Voice

CRITICS OF CANADIAN EDUcation, not all of them unkindly, are addressing a larger audience now than ever before in history. They are speaking in a louder voice from such rostrums as the Canadian Conference on Education held in Ottawa this week.

Their opinions are amplified by the sounding board of Russian advance in science and technology and the intensive Soviet drive to produce more university graduates. The ascendancy of the Russians gives a new urgency to the subject. The ability of the West, including Canada, to produce enough skilled university people could spell survival for the democratic way of life.

Hence the attentive ear given to those discussing education. The results of that public attention should be generally beneficial. But if the heightened interest in the subject is new, various points in the argument are not.

On the one hand are those who say, in effect, that Canadian education is soft and flabby. On the other are those who declare the school systems need relatively minor amendment and a great deal more money.

Some argue for a return to a stiffer curriculum with emphasis on the humanities, mathematics and sciences. Others contend that the educational job is one of fitting the young person to the world in which he will live — primarily a matter of adjustment.

Less is heard these days from those who believe the whole process of education is too expensive and that society would benefit by reversion to the Three Rs and the little red school house.

The variety of opinion is disclosed by the remarks of a few distinguished figures.

Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, director general of technical assistance administration for the United Nations, told an open meeting at Queen's University that Canada will soon become "an educational slum" unless drastic steps are taken to improve the country's educational system.

Dr. Eugene Forsey, economist for the Canadian Labor Congress, called for a return to the old fashioned hard work, discipline and keen competition of school, saying "Canadian high schools are in danger of becoming play-pens for adolescents."

Dr. A. W. Trueman, chairman of the Canada Council, urged the Canadian Conference on Education not to be afraid "to admire brains, to value intellectual achievement, to reward men of learning and to give the teacher the place in our community which, at our peril, we are now denying him." And to that he added: "There is nothing wrong with Canadian education that a great deal of money, properly applied, would not set right."

His latter comment paralleled that of Dr. Wilder Penfield, distinguished Montreal brain specialist, who says Canadian education needs a big financial boost, particularly in the higher field of education where "it is clear that the financial support must be doubled."

Dr. A. Lucas, director of the London, Ont., board of education, points to the obstructions in trying to separate the intellectual student from his fellow of less ability.

Dr. Claude T. Bissell, president-designate of the University of Toronto, has called upon the universities to give the public a much more accurate estimate of operating costs and to be more "positive and assertive" in making their money needs known.

These are views of men highly placed in Canadian education. At lower levels controversy continues on the jobs the school and the university are expected to do.

But no matter to which part of society criticism or appeal is addressed, the fact remains that education in Canada today is the type of education it is because the public has largely made it so.

For the best of motives, parents in this age seek to push their children higher up the educational ladder. With very unequal appreciation of the child's capacities, the parents want to equip their children for the best of occupations. And the parents are invariably the persons who pay taxes and as taxpayers are entitled to call their share of the tunes.

The result is basic. Schools, elementary, secondary and, to a degree, universities are being submerged in waves of mass education. Until university at least, it is extremely difficult for the best educators to apply selective processes to the students under them. They have a mass to cope with and they do the best they can. The best is frequently less than excellent because there are so many students that good teachers cannot be found for all of them.

It is the fortunate class in Canada which can be limited to the number of pupils considered the maximum for most efficient teaching. And it is in the lower grades where the work and study habits of those who eventually knock at the university's door are formed.

One thing seems clear: Education, costly as it is today, will have to become infinitely more costly if a more thorough job is to be done.

All the people seem to want more education for their children. Educators want a chance to give the best to the brightest. Before selection can be accomplished, either the mass will have to be reduced — lowering the numerical potential — or more money must be found to do a more adequate job on all types of young people.

That is where the taxpayer steps in.

To an Area Near Omsk

REPORTS FROM MOSCOW INdicate that Doukhobor representatives have found a location near Omsk suitable for settlement by Sons of Freedom now resident in British Columbia.

It is to be hoped that arrangements can be made for the return of members of the sect to the country from which they came. Over the years British Columbia has failed to assimilate these people whose beliefs have led to unending friction, occasional violence and resultant disciplinary action.

Neither British Columbians nor other Canadians have found any grounds for satisfaction in the almost unique and un-Canadian inability of one group to get along with the others.

If negotiations can be carried through to success and the Sons of Freedom move to the region near Omsk, British Columbians will be grateful for the removal of an element of the population with which it has been impossible to come to terms.

But it is something less than gratifying to think that in preference to this province, the Sons chose Siberia.

Tomorrow and Tomorrow . . .

IT WAS REASSURING TO HEAR from the lips of Mr. Chant in the Legislature this week that a new courthouse will be built in Victoria. It was reassuring when he first announced it several years ago, and it has been reassuring — although diminishingly so — to hear it announced periodically during the intervening period.

Mr. Chant at one time went so far as to specify in what year the badly needed building would be erected. But usually he confines himself to heartening reiterations that IT will be built, it WILL be built, or it will be BUILT.

Obviously this work is being held in reserve for some special emergency. Perhaps the old building will burn down. Perhaps a real super-duper recession will occur, with 90 per cent unemployment requiring a works program. Perhaps Mr. Chant is awaiting an opportunity when he can personally do the job himself at a saving to the taxpayers.

Whatever the reason, it quite evidently is a much better one than merely needing a courthouse to replace a venerable and out-grown structure. We'll get it, of course. But when?

Early Come to the Frolic

RELUCTANTLY, AS IF IT DID not quite trust this precocious spring, the red currant has sidled into bloom at the foot of the border.

There is a bashfulness about the flower's opening, like the shyness of a young girl come early to the ball and not sure she should step onto the floor yet. The blossom clusters which appeared tightly curled two weeks ago are only now unfolding to show the white markings of their throats. The leaves are still in the miniature wrinkle of new birth.

But if there is anxiety in the red currant, a feeling that it should have waited for a warmer sun, there is an unwillingness, too, to remain asleep when the crocus, snowdrop, hyacinth, violet and early daffodil are so merrily launched on their springtime frolic.

THEY SAY — By B. A. TOBIN

What Lies Between the Lines

ONE of the most curious forms of literature—and certainly one of the most curious ways to earn a living—is the so-called gossip column so often found in big-city newspapers and syndicated by them to less sophisticated publications. It takes a special sort of mentality, a highly particularized talent, to produce such works. It takes an equally specialized talent to enjoy reading them. The catty remark, the provocative allusion, the innuendo and the hinted inference—these are the stock in trade of the gossip columnist. And they make very readable stuff—of a sort.

Tobin

You may learn, for instance, among a score of short and pithy paragraphs, that "Miss Mavis d'Allure, star of the new film, 'The Face on the Sputnik Floor,' was conspicuously absent from the McGurks' cocktail party yesterday afternoon."

That's all. Just the simple statement of fact. But, oh the implications! First, that Mavis should have been there; secondly, that there is a particular reason why she wasn't there; thirdly, that this involves McGurk or his wife in some way, preferably the former; fourthly, that the reason is known or suspected by the columnist and other folks in the know and how come you haven't heard about it you poor hick.

It's highly condensed writing. In about two dozen words the columnist flings in enough ideas, suspicions and juicy speculations to fill a couple of pages. If you don't get anything more out of it than the two dozen words, then that's your fault—the writer has done his or her feline best.

Running Start

Then there's the more positive type of communication. You read that "Joseph Doakes and Mamie Daks are seen more and more together in McGulp's Seafood Cafe."

This is a standard cliche, of course, which takes the place of a Hollywood engagement announcement. People who are two-soming, or partnering, or tabling, or being seen, etc., etc., in a public restaurant or night club are assumed to be (a) in love; (b) contemplating marriage; (c) contemplating divorce if this must be carried out before the marriage can take place.

Whether or not these suppositions are correct, matters not. Once the item is made public the fact is accepted. The columnist has made the news and it is up to the persons involved to play their part by making it come true.

If, as is highly likely, the dining-out together had no romantic or matrimonial significance from the start, this will provide the gossip columnist with another equally titillating item.

When it becomes obvious to everyone that the columnist's original suggestion was miles wide of the mark, a complete bust on all counts, we will read another hot disclosure from the same typewriter. This time it will be: "Rumors are that the affair between Joseph Doakes and Mamie Daks has gone phttt. They dine separately these days."

Our eagle-eyed and pointer-nosed newshound has brought us the living facts again. Often, by a process of making up stories and then denying them, a gossip columnist can live for months without going outside his or her apartment. And there is the further advantage that if you think up your own news items you'll always be first with them.

Getting into the seamier side of unseemly speculation, you will occasionally read an item to the effect that "Mrs. Richard Zilch was seen in San Bernardino yesterday. Mr. Zilch remained in Los Angeles."

Aha, thinks the reader, there's something there. It matters not that Mrs. Zilch was visiting her aunt or buying Christmas cards or antique furniture, while Mr. Zilch was at his office just as he is every day. She was there and he wasn't. Obviously something is cooking and you can bet it isn't good. At least so says our columnist between the lines.

Now it is surprising that this system of imparting knowledge, of revelation by implication, has not long ago been adapted to other fields. Surely the actions, significant or otherwise, of the inhabitants of cafe society should not be the only ones to be made known to us in this fashion.

Inspired Logic

May we not read some day that "Mr. Diefenbaker was in Winnipeg this morning. Mr. Pearkes was not with him."

Just that—nothing more. The rest would be easy for the constant reader of gossip columns. Difference of opinion, pique, split within the party, disagreement over policy, possibly imminent open break between the two men—it's all there if you have enough imagination.

Or some day the press would note that "Mr. Lester Pearson was seen passing an Ottawa real estate office yesterday. This particular real estate firm specializes in farm properties."

Aha again. The experienced gossip column reader could make no mistake with an item such as this.

Mike was seen near the office. Obviously we are supposed to believe he had been in it. Therefore he is buying or has bought a farm. Therefore he foresees early retirement from politics. Therefore he does not expect to be elected in March. It all follows naturally.

Or perhaps we might read an item like this: "Premier Bennett says he will not resign from office at the end of this session."

So! says the gossip reader. He won't, eh? Then obviously he is going to. And of course it can't be just a resignation, the party must be forcing him out. Obviously there has been a tremendous upheaval within the party. I wonder how these columnists find out all these things?

So it would go. It's a wonderful world, the world of whole rumors, half-truths and quarter-facts. But as I say, it takes a special talent.

DENNIS THE MENACE

From Our Files

Feb. 21, 1898: The members of the local corps of the Salvation Army are already making preparations for the welcome of their commander, General Booth, expected here March 8, accompanied by his daughter.

Feb. 21, 1918: Ottawa: Approximately 22,000 men have been drafted under the Military Service Act up to noon Feb. 18, and 2,523 apprehensions made of persons failing to register or report.

Feb. 21, 1938: Berlin: Chancellor Adolf Hitler gave Europe's troubled capitals no hint of his next move as leader of a rearming Germany, and he declared, Sunday, Germany "is entitled to equal rights" with other powers.

As Our Readers See It

More Splinters?

Although the provincial legislature is in session and will not prorogue until sometime in March, the events of the past week which included forceful criticism of cabinet members from members of the government side of the House and the crossing of the floor by one of its members, will doubtless make many citizens of B.C. consider that all is not well within the Social Credit Party. It is to be hoped that whatever develops there is no thought of trying to organize another splinter group within the province of B.C.

THOS TREDAWAY.
1925 Brighton Ave.

Chisholm or Cadwallader?

Although Mr. O'Reilly's letter of 13th inst. condemns me in particular, his accusation is nothing less than a blasphemous assault upon God's creation, which heritage it becomes the duty of every individual Christian and Christian organization to defend against this powerful satanically-inspired One World Government Movement.

As a bedfellow of Dr. Chisholm he advocates that whites should intermarry with Negroes and other colored races; how many children should be born to a family; that we should be a race of atheists and submit to its government (a despotism even more tyrannical than Communism), and anyone who thinks that such a regime is not better than our present administration is non compos mentis.

Well, fellow Christians, how do you like the prospect? Or who of you prefer the "illustrious" brotherhood of Chisholm, O'Reilly & Coy.?

C. M. CADWALLADER.
2875 Delatre Street.

Parents' Gratitude

May we, through the courtesy of your paper, pay tribute to all those who have helped us at this tragic time.

To quote one of his teachers, "What took place, obviously was due to a momentary error in judgment—done on the impulse—in an instant of time." It became the unhappy duty of Cpl. Robert Coleman and Detective Robin Stewart of the Saanich Police to inform us that this impulse had cost our son his life. Every possible courtesy was extended to us by them.

To Mr. Frank Rendle, his staff and the students of Mount View High School, may we say, publicly, how proud we are that our son had the privilege of attending their school.

In honoring Jimmie's memory the members of the basketball team, as pallbearers, fulfilled their task with dignity and courage.

The outstanding thoughtfulness and sympathetic understanding of his teenage friends throughout this city has touched our hearts.

MR. and MRS. A. H. SHEARD.

Tragic Need in B.C.

The matter of our provincial mental health services appears to be overshadowed by the apparently more urgent matter (in the public estimation) of the Borstal institutions, concerning which a victory over retrogression appears to have been won.

Yet the matter of the treatment of our mentally ill, and the prevention and cure of this illness, in all its aspects, is really vastly more important. It is safe to say that a big percentage of the inmates of the Borstal homes get there because of some mental unbalance, and really need more treatment of their mental health and less punishment.

Meantime we certainly have a most positive need of better mental health services. In spite of Premier Bennett's disclaimer as to the number of staff employed in B.C. today, the statements made by the president of the Psychiatric Nurses Association of B.C. are still irrefutable. Six thousand two hundred patients with 700 nurses (not all of them fully qualified), he says, is half the apparent need.

The starting wage of $239 per month after completing a two-year course is not likely to attract more than the most altruistic (of which, thank goodness, there are a few). The government pays many of their clerks more than that, and most of them could not win any gold medals for the amount or quality of the work they do.

Mr. Dodsworth is also quite correct in his contention that, like so many "cures" which have gone before, the tranquilizer drugs have not turned out to be what they were cracked up to be. Yet they do have their value if tied in with adequate psychiatry.

But having had some opportunity to observe the results obtained by the tranquilizers without adequate psychiatry during the last two years, I have seen proof of Mr. Dodsworth's assertions. I have seen patients, treated with these pills, lying as if in a coma on the benches of the visiting rooms, so drugged that they cannot possibly keep awake.

The reason for silence by thousands of saddened relatives of such patients is their realization of the inability of the public generally, and more particularly the government of this province, to comprehend the magnitude and importance of this problem.

Who cures cancer, polio, or heart disease if we all go mad? And we are still told that mental disease and disturbances are on the increase.

One other thing, there appears to be a conspiracy of silence this last 18 months on the Mental Hospital for Vancouver Island promised since 1952 or earlier. In 1955 and again in 1956 the Socred government announced that decision as to the site had nearly been arrived at and plans would be drawn up and tenders called very soon. Nothing since, so far as this writer has seen. Have the powers that be never heard of the virtue of keeping faith?

In 1952 both the Liberal and CCF parties were shouting from the hustings that B.C. was far ahead of other provinces in the matter of treatment of mental health. Yet it seems to have been established by independent testimony that Saskatchewan is actually far more progressive in this field than B.C.—and they don't have a Liberal or a Socred government, nor a 5 per cent hospitalization tax—and yet their Mental Health Hospital services have been completely free to the afflicted ones, or their relatives, ever since 1945. But not in B.C. so far.

I should add a few words regarding the statement of the Provincial Secretary (as reported in the press), that "in 1951 in a visit to mental institutions conditions were so revolting that people were being sick all over the place." As one who has visited Essondale at least four times a year since the spring of 1951, this statement is not true of Essondale—and if anything, conditions today in the wards are somewhat less commendable than they were in 1951.

"A FATHER."

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

Soviet Policy: Outwait Them

AFTER a diligent reading of the recent speeches and letters from Russia and China, together with some inquiries among those who might know what they are talking about, it is reasonably clear to me what is the guiding principle of their current foreign policy. It is that as between East and West, the tide is now running in their favor, that what is wanted is not an attempt to settle the substantive issues but, on the contrary, relaxation of the tension and of any serious effort to interfere with the course of events.

Lippmann

Thus, while they want to talk at the summit, they look upon such a meeting as useful to quiet the emotions and to allay resistance and anxiety about what, if nobody interferes, is going to happen. What is going to happen, they confidently believe, is that the Western system of alliances will disintegrate before the Communist alliances disintegrate.

As Marxists, they are, of course, determinists and therefore disposed to believe that history is with them. But though their current foreign policy suits their Marxist ways of thinking, Khrushchev and company are practical men who remain very close to the earth.

When Khrushchev says that peace can best be preserved by recognizing the status quo, he means more than that a divided Germany is better than a united Germany, and that the satellite empire is better than a neutral belt.

More Dangerous

No doubt he believes, as do so many in the West, that the reunification of Germany and the liberation of the Eastern nations on any conceivable terms would be far more dangerous than the situation as it now is. But that is not all that he believes.

He believes, too, that the Warsaw Pact is more durable than NATO because it is not only the stronger power but the more resolute. It follows, he must believe, that the Western system will be the first to come apart.

There is no evidence, so far as I can see, that he is toying with the notion of using overt military intervention, nor even that he is counting upon achieving a decisive military superiority. His policy assumes a continuing military stalemate, such a balance of power that neither side can compel the other.

What he counts upon is the durability of his system in comparison with the instability of the Western democracies and their internal complications arising from the diseased remnants of the old European empires.

If this is correct, then the fundamental question for the Western democracies is whether they can afford to base their policy, like Khrushchev's, on the principle of the status quo. In fact, though not in name, the maintenance of the status quo is what we stand for in Germany, in Algeria, in Cyprus, in the Middle East, in Southeast Asia, in Formosa, in Korea.

The difference between us and Khrushchev is that we stand for the status quo because we are afraid of the risks of disturbing it; Khrushchev stands for the status quo because he is confident that it will evolve in his favor.

If, by chance, Khrushchev is right in what he expects, how convenient it must be for him to find Mr. Dulles, Dr. Adenauer and Mr. Macmillan working to prevent the West from taking any serious initiative aimed to alter the status quo.

How convenient for him, since he does not want to take the Red Army out of Eastern Germany and Poland, to have so many elegant advocates in the Western world arguing against any initiative that might disturb his occupation of German and Polish territory.

BROTHERHOOD WEEK

Brotherhood Week is sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews. It should have the support of every Canadian. It has mine.

The International League makes brotherhood a working principle year after year. Players in our clubs are of many national origins and have their personal religious beliefs. They perform in and represent three countries of North America. People who come to the games accept the players on a basis of performance and their skill as individuals as well as their co-operation as a team.

We broke the color barrier 12 years ago. It will not be raised again in our association, and a team representing the Canadian city of Montreal supplied the means of abolishing an evil. It is my earnest hope that all Canadians will live up to the brotherhood principle during Brotherhood Week and throughout the years to come.

ON THE TIMES — By ART STOTT

Small Hunk of Canadian Life

THE other night the Y's camp committee members were outlining plans for the summer season at Glinz Lake.

They're going to have to put up an extra sleeping hut and are planning to use a couple of tents with standard wood bases. They have to. So many more youngsters want to go to Camp Thunderbird than it can hold, the committee feels it can't keep turning them away.

Stott

So, with the added accommodation, they'll be able to cut down on the number of kids who are disappointed because they're on a waiting list and no vacancies occur.

The idea of putting some of the older boys under canvas instead of huts appealed to me. I think it will appeal to the youngsters, too.

I can't explain the difference. But have you ever drunk cold water from a tin dipper fresh-filled from a bucket at a spring, instead of from a glass filled at a tap? If you have, you'll understand the point I'm too inarticulate to make.

PART OF CANADIAN LIFE

I think of the camp at Glinz Lake and I think the youngsters who can't be housed are losing a part of Canadian life they should have provided for them.

A week or 10 days at Camp Thunderbird doesn't convert a kid into a woodsman. Living under competent camp supervisors in ready-made shelter and eating balanced and regular meals prepared by cooks, is a far cry from the life of a pioneer. But there's a certain touch of the outdoors about it that remains in spite of the changes man and the years have made.

Small boys who go to Glinz Lake lay aside a lot of infancy there. They come back, generally, filled with a burgeoning self-reliance which stems from their ability to get along with the other guys, to stand their share of physical activity, even work, and to be persons in their own right.

A year or two ago a young man of my acquaintance told me about picking his youngster up at the Y following a period in camp. The boy was well tanned, slightly trail worn and exuberantly enthusiastic about his friends and their activities. The son was bubbling over with experiences at camp as he and his father walked out of the Y building onto the sidewalk.

"When we came to the curb," the father told me, "I reached down to catch his hand, as I'd always done when we were crossing the street downtown.

"There wasn't any hand outstretched to me. The youngster was too busy looking out for himself before stepping onto the street. My son wasn't a little boy any more. It shocks you a little, but it's a good way to be shocked."

A LITTLE STURDIER

It seems to me that most young campers come back slightly changed. They're a little sturdier in spirit, mind and body for the influence of living with their peers and depending on themselves to hold their end up.

And it seems to me that a lot of energetic men who plan and help develop the camp have that in mind when they give their time to the job.

Of course it's satisfying to be part of an organization handling a project that is bound to be a success. The record of the camp for years has virtually guaranteed enjoyment for the boys who go there in the future. The surroundings are right, the facilities are good, and the campers are still close enough to nature to draw automatic benefits.

But I think too that the men on the committee aren't moved solely by their desire to be part of a good show. They're more likely thinking, in a very private way, of their own experiences.

They probably recall long days of hot sun by the swimming hole, minutes idly passed lying under a tree and watching clouds float overhead, the quick excitement of a plunge and race in the water, the forest quiet as they walked a path between big trees, the taste of clean air almost twinkling in the morning sun, the song of the cicada on breathless afternoons, the subdued and strengthening period of devotion about the evening camp fire—of a dozen experiences and incidents that make camp.

They're pitching in now, preparing for next summer in the belief that these are things young boys here should enjoy, as they enjoyed them in earlier years.

It's a pretty good belief, and a pretty good reason for giving their time to the camp committee.

UN CORRESPONDENCE — By STANLEY BURKE

Genius by Force

NEW YORK—What's the explanation for German missile genius? Why were there 110 German scientists heading up the team which launched the American Explorer satellite? Why are Germans perhaps equally responsible—in spite of Russian denials—for Soviet successes?

This isn't the sort of information you might expect to be coming out of the UN but the fact is that disarmament specialists must also be well informed on weapons.

They tell me that the Germans became expert rocketeers for the same reason as the Russians—they had to.

It all started when the Luftwaffe lost the Battle of Britain, with Berlin making it evident that the Fatherland was not the invincible fortress Goebbels said it was.

Burke

Ultimately the Luftwaffe striking force was destroyed and the Germans had to build again. They decided to abandon bombers, where the Allies had crushing superiority and to try for the ultimate weapon. And, of course, they came frighteningly close to succeeding.

The Russians faced a similar situation when the war was over. They too lacked an air striking force and they lacked worldwide experience in aerial operation built up by Western nations in both peace and war.

LOGICAL DECISION

(It's said that when the Russians were heading for the last Geneva Summit Conference they got lost and had to land to find out where they were. This is possible but the Russians today certainly know where they're going in space.)

In 1945 the Russians seized about half the German rocket scientists and so they made the logical decision to become rocketeers.

The United States and Britain for equally logical reasons, stayed with bombers and got a lot of military mileage, literally and figuratively, out of them. The decisive weapon for 13 years, they'll continue supreme for another year or two and a potent weapon for many years. This is why weapons men say that the public often over-estimates the fearsome, awe-inspiring missiles and underestimates the old bomber plodding along at 800 or a thousand miles an hour.

The fact is that the U.S. Strategic Air Command can destroy all major targets in Russia several times over. Their bases could be Pearl Harbored, of course but some of SAC's bombers are in the air day and night and of course new bases are being built to make the force less vulnerable to surprise attack.

SAC will remain potent until Russian air defence have become almost 100 per cent effective. A 10 per cent "chop rate" was considered high in the Second World War and to the layman it seems almost inconceivable that anything like 100 per cent would be possible but militarists say it is. It's worth noting that the Russians already have several times as many air defence radars in operation around their long borders as the United States has.

Getting back to missiles, the defencemen tell me that the most astonishing procedure of radio monitoring must be undertaken before each missile is launched. This is necessary because a chance transmission on one of the missile's frequencies might have disastrous effects. Presumably a missile could even be detonated by some radio operator hundreds of miles away.

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

Frogs in Full Cry—Sure Sign!

Tuesday night the frogs were in full cry, so sure a sign of spring that housewives will do well to rush the annual upheaval called spring cleaning.

Hilda

There will be so much to do in the garden during the next three months that the house will then have to take care of itself, but during the ordeal of cleaning and planting, it is pleasant to know that a few moments break may be spent in the garden at a small useful task.

A number of shrubs need pruning now, among them the hardy fuchsia, southernwood (Artemisia abrotanum), Spiraea bumalda Anthony Waterer (the pink summer flowering spiraea), shrubby hypericums (St. John's Wort), Leycesteria formosa (which has a host of pet names such as Chinese Honeysuckle, Granny's Curls, Flowering Nutmeg) and Nandina domestica (the Sacred Bamboo).

The fuchsia may be cut to within a few inches of the soil. Remove all dead or weak growth.

Southernwood may be kept to a low growing well-shaped shrub by cutting back all growth to about one foot. Abundant new shoots grow from the lower part of each stem.

The summer flowering spiraeas which are usually pink in color, may be pruned drastically now, also remove all weak twiggy growth. Flowers come on new stems grown during spring and early summer.

The lovely yellow flowered hypericums which put on their show around midsummer also benefit from having the end of every stem cut.

NEW TRIAL MIGHT BOOST SENTENCE, SAYS JUDGE

Appeal Denied in Police Assault

An application for leave to appeal against a sentence of three months' imprisonment for assaulting an RCMP constable and kicking him in the stomach was dismissed by the B.C. Appeal Court in Victoria Wednesday.

The application was made by lawyer R. F. McIsaac on behalf of John Robert Kealty and Jack Gilmour Morgan, sentenced by Magistrate Thomas Hadfield at Qualicum Beach police court on Dec. 7 last.

Mr. McIssac based his plea on the fact no written record of the evidence was made in police court after the accused had pleaded guilty to assaulting the constable.

He also suggested they might have pleaded guilty because they felt that the evidence against them was a "fait accompli."

Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran dismissed the plea after an hour's argument stating:

"There is no indication of any miscarriage of justice in this case."

He added that the sentence appeared to be "very lenient" in the circumstances and if a new trial were ordered the men might conceivably get a longer sentence.

Dealing with argument that the men were drunk at the time of the assault and "did not remember much of the occurrence," Mr. O'Halloran remarked that about 90 drunks are charged in Vancouver police court every day.

"If pleas of this kind were entertained you would have to employ a corps of psychiatrists to examine every drunk who came into court."

In a letter to the appeal judges from Parksville, Magistrate Hadfield recalled that Morgan and Kealty assaulted RCMP Constable Allan Brasnett by forcing him to the ground and attempting to kick him in this position.

Kealty later kicked the officer in the stomach "hollering at Morgan to run, which he did."

During the scuffle which followed, Kealty snatched a flashlight out of the constable's hand and attempted to hit him over the head with it.

Magistrate Hadfield said in view of the "serious nature" of the offence and giving consideration to both accused being first offenders, he considered a sentence of three months in Oakalla Prison Farm to be an "appropriate punishment."

Jaycees Cut Victoria Day Gift By Half

A proposed $500 donation to Greater Victoria Celebrations Association by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce was whittled to $250 Wednesday night.

Final vote on the donation was postponed for two weeks following a controversy among members.

Jaycee chairman Ira Hill said today, "There was a lot of opposition to supporting them (the GVCA)." He said it stemmed from criticisms voiced by GVCA members recently who complained the Jaycees gradually were taking over all the traditional GVCA events. Jaycees answers that they have done everything to help and co-operate, in staging annual Victoria Day celebrations.

$2,000 Bail Set For Vancouver Man

A Vancouver man, Ronald Dale Haas, was charged in Saanich police court Thursday with the early Wednesday break-in and theft of cigarets at Eng's Foodliner, 3475 Quadra.

Bail was set at $2,000 and Haas was remanded to next Thursday for election and plea.

A steel and glass front door of the grocery was forced open and a display case with about 100 cartons of cigarets was stolen.

The case and some cigarets were found in a nearby vacant lot.

VLC BACKS PARK PLAN

A resolution asking that Craigflower peninsula on Portage Inlet be purchased by the provincial government for park development, was endorsed unanimously Thursday by the Victoria Labor Council.

The privately-owned property with its beaches and picnic sites, the council felt, should not be allowed to become a housing site.

'POPS' CONCERTS

Many Tickets Unclaimed For Symphony

Many pairs of tickets for the coming weekend's pair of Victoria Symphony Orchestra concerts, are waiting in suspense at the box office.

They are waiting to be claimed by the persons who ordered them three weeks ago on the bargain "two-for-the-price-of-one deal offered by Symphony officials.

In order to cope with the demand for seats for the "pops" concerts which will feature pianist Boris Roubakine, it is urged that the reserved tickets be picked up as quickly as possible at Eaton's box office, otherwise many people may be unnecessarily disappointed.

U.S. Oil Import Cut Held 'Favor' To Be Reconsidered After Check

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. officials take the view that the United States actually may have done Canada a favor by restricting imports of Canadian oil on the west coast.

That view isn't spelled out in the diplomatic note released late Thursday in Ottawa and Washington, in which the U.S. rejected Canada's protest over the restrictions, but it does form part of the background thinking that went into the American decision to include Canadian fuel in the oil curb.

The note said the U.S. feels the restrictions will have "relatively little impact" on imports from Canada. Officials here said they estimated the curbs would reduce by only 4,000 to 5,000 barrels a day the amount of Canadian oil U.S. west coast importers had planned to take from Canada in the first half of 1958.

In Ottawa Finance Minister Donald Fleming said the government is "naturally disappointed" that restrictions applying to Canadian oil have not been lifted.

The American note, however, said Canada's views will be further considered after figures are available on U.S. import levels for the second quarter of 1958.

Socreds Drop Three Seats At College

Increased majorities for the Liberals and Conservatives at the expense of the Social Credit party were the only changes in the Victoria College model parliament following Wednesday's election.

Precipitated by the defeat of the former Liberal government over a financial bill the election returned "Prime Minister" Lance Finch and his minority Liberal government to power with 18 seats, an increase of one.

The comparatively light turnout at the polls, totalling less than half the elegible students, saw the Conservatives returned as the official opposition with 14 seats, an increase of two.

CCF HOLDS 8

The CCF party held its ground with 8 seats and the Social Credit party dropped from 7 to 4 seats.

The light turnout was due in part to the absence of 160 students who, being largely from the interior of the province, could have been expected to raise the Social Credit vote.

No definite date has been set by "Prime Minister" Finch for the first session of the new "parliament" but, considering the proximity of examinations, it is expected to be held "within the next two or three weeks."

School Board Protests Tardy Grant Payments

NANAIMO (CP) — Nanaimo School Board decided Wednesday night to protest to the education department over cost of borrowing money to make up deficiencies in provincial grant payments.

The matter arose when the quarterly payment for the school district was $36,200 short and the board was instructed to borrow the balance from the bank. Part of the interest cost on the loan will have to be met from school board funds.

Board members voted to place the matter before the B.C. School Trustee Association after Trustee Nat Martin said the opinion of other boards which have faced the problem should be sought.

Careless Driver Lost Eye, Fined

NANAIMO (CP)—A Jordan River hardrock miner who lost sight of his right eye in a two-car smash last Friday near here, was fined $30 and costs on a careless driving charge in court Wednesday.

Ernest Harry Beckman appeared with a patch over his eye to plead guilty to the offence. He was also given a 14-day licence suspension.

Driver of the other car, Robert D. Anderson of North Burnaby, is in hospital here with a fractured kneecap.

Dentist to Check Fluorine Effects

MESACHIE LAKE — With fluoridation of the water supply here in effect for a week, health department officials plan a survey of the community.

Dr. Percy Arkle, dental officer for Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, said the survey should show a definite "before and after" picture.

Fluorine was added to the water by Hillcrest Lumber Co. Ltd., operators of the sawmill here.

Boxing Proves Popular With Chemainus Lads

CHEMAINUS—Cyril O'Shea, who arrived here last year from England, has been appointed supervisor-caretaker of the Community Centre, the board of directors announced today.

Boxing coach Nick Lystar has reported that several Indian lads from the Cowichan District have expressed interest in turning out to workouts. Mr. Lystar hopes to have enough in training by fall to enter a strong contingent at the Buckskin Gloves in Vancouver next year.

Hospital District Voted Up-Island

NANAIMO (CP)—Voters in the rural sections of School Districts 68 and 69, excluding the city of Nanaimo proper, voted three to one Thursday for formation of a hospital improvement district.

Voters went to the polls from Qualicum on the north to Cedar District south of Nanaimo. The final vote recorded in 22 polling places was 2,234 for and 669 against, with 32 rejects.

Result of the plebiscite will go to provincial authorities and if considered favorable authorization will be given for formation of the improvement district to be administered by trustees.

Objective is a new regional hospital in Nanaimo to serve the wide district. Before this can come about the improvement district and the ratepayers of the city of Nanaimo would have to approve tax levies to raise less than half the money for the proposed building and equipment. Total estimated cost is $4,500,000.

Provincial and federal governments would pay over half the cost of the proposed 200-bed structure, which ultimately would become a 400-bed institution.

Host Quartet Shares Lead In School 'Spiel

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Art Burke gave 1,500 hometown curling fans something to root about as he led his Prince Edward Island rink to a smashing 15-7 victory over Ontario Thursday night.

The win climaxed a strenuous three-match day for the Islanders in Dominion schoolboy competiton. They swept all three to go in the final day's play tied with Northern Ontario. Each have 7-1 records.

Tom Tod's Northern Ontario quartet rebounded from an 8-6 setback at the hands of Ontario in the morning to pummel New Brunswick 15-5 on the night draw.

The two top teams are scheduled to meet in 10th round competition today.

THREE STRAIGHT

The Islanders picked up a 7-6 win against Quebec and a 9-6 decision over Alberta in the day draws to rank with British Columbia as the only team with three straight.

British Columbia had a dandy draw game going against Alberta in the evening and skip Gary Wray had his protecting stones well positioned to win 14-8.

The Pacific Coast representatives topped Newfoundland 12-3 in the morning play and Quebec 12-7 in the afternoon.

Nova Scotia with two wins for the day and a 5-3 won-and-lost record, is out of the running.

Out of the running with the loss to Prince Edward Island was Gordon Stibbard's hard sweeping, Welland, Ont., rink. Ontario faded after downing Northern Ontario in the morning and lost to New Brunswick 7-5 in the afternoon play. The

Also out of contention were Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia with four wins and four losses; New Brunswick with five wins and four losses and Manitoba with three victories in eight starts. Quebec has one win and seven losses and Newfoundland still looks for its first win after nine tries.

Tiremen Hoop Champs By Default

Dickinson & Dunn became Lower Island Senior "B" basketball champions Wednesday night without sinking a basket.

Chemainus, Mid-Island champions, defaulted their Wednesday contest and the game scheduled for Sunday to advance the Tiremen into the Island final which opens at Central Junior High School Thursday night.

Probable Up-Island contenders will be Port Alberni, but their series has not yet been concluded.

In the meanwhile, D&D play Victoria College Vikings, western Canada junior champs, at Victoria High School Saturday night in an exhibition game starting at 8.30 p.m.

Preliminary action will be provided by Victoria B's and Victoria College Vikettes at 7.30.

Centennial 'Spiel Rinks Busy Around the Clock

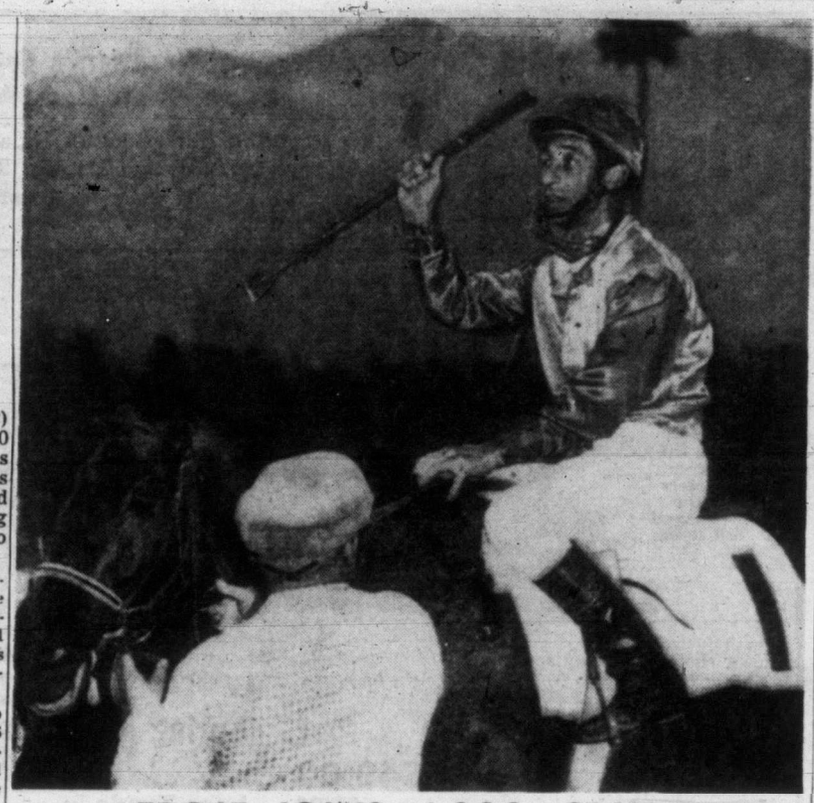

The last berth in Victoria Curling Club's Centennial Bonspiel was filled Thursday night, assuring the young club of having the honor of staging the largest 'spiel ever to be held on Vancouver Island.

The 'spiel limit of 96 rinks, including 36 from out-of-town, has been reached but the club will still accept a few more "spare" rinks in the event of late cancellations.

The club took on a colorful atmosphere as the final entry was filed. New ice was laid down early in the evening and workmen were busy painting club rocks for the big event.

The Island's previous record entry for a bonspiel was the 87 that entered the provincial rockfest at the Quadra Street club two years ago.

The large entry, including some local rinks, will start the Centennial event Sunday, and Monday curlers will start an around-the-clock schedule for four days. A draw will be held every two hours and 20 minutes, including throughout the night.

EDDIE JOINS 4,000 CLUB

Blanked for several days in attempt to ride 4,000th winner of career, Eddie Arcaro finally became third jockey in turf history to join exclusive 4,000 club as he won eighth race on Ban at Santa Anita track Thursday. Arcaro, raising whip in salute after milestone victory, will ride Mahan in Widener Handicap at Hialeah, Fla., Saturday. (AP Wirephoto.)

Towering Finn Captures Cross-Country Ski Title

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP)—A new Canadian from Finland handled a tiring cross-country course almost at leisure Thursday to wrap up the cross-country race at the Canadian ski championships in decisive fashion.

Lean, towering Antero Rauhanen, 22, of Sudbury, Ont., did the 15-kilometre distance 9.58 miles in 68 minutes and five seconds, a good five minutes faster than his nearest competitor.

Second place also went to a Finn—Uno Mutka of Beaver Lake, Ont., in 73-18. In third place with 74.34 was the long-time dominant figure in North American cross-country racing, Clarence Servold, Camrose, Alta.

In the 1954 world championships in Sweden, Servold led all North American entries and repeated that performance two years later at the Winter Olympics in Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy.

POLISH TRACK TEAM IN CENTENNIAL MEET

VANCOUVER (CP)—Poland is to send a four-man team to compete in the British Columbia centennial track and field meet here June 6-7, the B.C. Centennial Games Society announced today.

The Polish team, rated third in the world behind Russia and the United States, won more international track meets last year than any other European nation.

Heading the contingent will be miler Stefan Lewandowski. With him will be three-mile champion Zbislaw Krzyszkowik, 440-yard expert Stanislaw Swatowski and half-miler Zbigniew Makomaski.

The English team agreed to attend the meet three weeks ago, making Poland the second nation of the 81 invited to respond.

The meet is being held at Empire Stadium.

TILS MEET HEANEYS

Extra Incentive In Cup Soccer

The idea of extra money dropping into a pocket can stimulate ambition.

And the thought of extra financial returns is an additional reason Victoria and District Football League teams view each and every Province Cup contest as an all-important one.

Teams in the provincial knockout competition share gate receipts on a 50-50 basis. Once they are bumped out of the event, the extras stop reaching club coffers.

The added incentive will be a spur when Tillicums, winners of the league's first half, meet Heaney's at Royal Athletic Park on Saturday. Victor in Saturday's game advances into the cup semifinals against Victoria Kickers.

IN SEMIFINALS

Brodie's Bakery and Gorge Hotel have already earned the other semifinal slots.

The game is one of three scheduled for the weekend. Hungarians and Canadian Scottish meet at Heywood Avenue Park in a league fixture Sunday while the third weekend affair, also scheduled Sunday, is an injured players' benefit game.

The benefit contest will be played at Topaz Avenue Park between Esquimalt and Punjab United.

All games start at 2 p.m.

Space A-Plenty In Marathon Bowling Event

There's still plenty of room available to bowlers in the Centennial championship fivepin bowling marathon, initiated last weekend at Capital City Bowling Alleys.

Don Corbett took the first weekly title and will defend it each week until beaten in the "strictly-scratch" affair.

No league handicap rating is necessary for entry. Eliminations will be held Saturdays and finals on Sundays until the tournament winds up April 27.

All matches will be three-game series.

Cash prizes are awarded each week and alley manager Al Nelthorpe says that the more entrants will assure more prize money.

BRIER DIRECTOR HERE — FIRST FINAL IN 1927

Art Remembers Modest Start

The success of any great annual production, such as the Canadian curling championships for example, is dependent upon the painstaking planning and diligent work of men behind the scenes.

Members of Victoria's curling fraternity, busy preparing to make the 1958 Brier Tankard event at Memorial Arena on March 3-7 a great success, Thursday night met one of the officials who has been associated with the Canadian finals since its inception.

Art Condie, Montreal, secretary and managing director of the Brier, has been on hand to guide the Brier from a casually mentioned event in 1926 to the great sports spectacle it is today.

Condie and Frank O'Brien, publicity director for the sponsoring firm, arrived in Victoria Wednesday to help in preparations for the national playoffs.

Condie and Senator John T. Haig, who will visit Victoria and take part in the Brier celebrations, are the last of the "originals" who helped create the first Dominion playdowns in 1927.

Condie, whose accomplishments include playing a harmonica with such illustrious musicians as Paul Whiteman and Rudy Vallee, Thursday night informally met members of Victoria's press.

The two Montrealers will remain in Victoria, and work hand-in-hand with local curling officials, until the Brier Tankard is awarded to one of the 11 provincial championship rinks that will take part in the week-long bonspiel at Memorial Arena.

All Except Milt Willing To Talk About Rocket

Richard Back; Scores Twice Against Bruins

MONTREAL (BUP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who picked up just where he left off 42 games ago by scoring two goals Thursday night to help beat the Boston Bruins 4-0, was the talk of the National Hockey League today.

"What can you say about a man who has such a flare for the dramatic?" said Montreal Canadiens' general manager Frank Selke. "He never lets you down. After he scored that first goal in the first period if anyone had said anything to me I would have bawled like a baby. He never ceases to give me a thrill and I've watched him ever since he's been in the league."

The 36-year-old Rocket returned to action Thursday night following a long layoff. He suffered a partially severed Achilles tendon in his right leg last Nov. 13 in Toronto when defenceman Marc Reaume accidentally cut him with his skate as the two players tried to get up from the ice after a spill.

SECOND ONE 'LUCKY'

"It felt good," said Richard, with a wide grin on his usually dour face. "A little sore maybe, but it didn't give me any trouble."

The thrilling performance by the Rocket overshadowed goalie Jacques Plante's ninth shutout and Canadiens' goals by Claude Provost and Jean Beliveau. And it also eclipsed a fine showing by Boston goalie Harry Lumley who has now been beaten 84 times in regular season action by the Rocket, a distinction no other netminder can boast.

"His second goal was sort of lucky," Lumley said, referring to a goal that skittered off Richard's skate. "But the first one," Lumley added, "was a real masterpiece."

The first one Lumley referred to came off a bang-bang play with Richard triggering a perfect centering pass by Dickie Moore. It came in the opening period after Provost had put Montreal ahead 1-0 with a sharp drive off Andre Pronovost's passout.

LYNN HAD HUNCH

"I filled up when he got that first one," said Selke. "And Boom-Boom Geoffrion (Montreal's injured right winger), who was sitting beside me, jumped up in his seat just as excited as any fans in the building. There aren't words to describe him, that's all. What can you say."

"Don't talk to me about the Rocket," said Boston coach Milt Schmidt, who has been hurt by Richard's dramatic scoring efforts as much as any man living.

"I was afraid he would come back like that," said Boston general manager Lynn Patrick.

The Rocket was so eager to play that he took the ice prematurely and coach Toe Blake had to call him back. "I didn't put him in the starting lineup and when he jumped over the boards just as the game started I had to call him back," Blake said.

"He never told me he didn't want me to start," said Richard with a grin after the game.

LONGEST LAYOFF

It was the longest layoff the Rocket has ever had during his 16 years in the National Hockey League. And at 36 he is the oldest active player in the big time.

"No, I wasn't nervous or pressing," he said. "Maybe I would have a few years ago. I guess I'm mellowing."

Then he turned to a friend who was waiting for him in the corridor outside the Canadiens' dressing room and quipped, "I should have had four more."

And there were few amongst the 14,528 who comprised the largest crowd at the Forum this season who would have disagreed with him. He had six shots on goal and all six could have gone in but for the fine netminding of Lumley.

Haddon Rink Wins Playoff For B.C. Title

KIMBERLEY—The Lois Haddon Rink of Vancouver swarmed over Kimberley's Ina Hansen quartet here Thursday to win their way to the B.C. Women's Curling Championship.

The win also gave them a berth in the Western Canada playdowns in Calgary in mid-March as B.C. representatives.

Tied with four wins and a loss going into the final match, the Haddon foursome won the play-off by handing the Kimberley rink an 11-4 beating.

It was a come-back win for the Vancouver rink which lost out in Wednesday's final draw to Mrs. Hansen.

Defending champion, Marg Fuller, Nanaimo, was knocked out of contention when she lost her first two games.

CANUCKS HOST CATS

Warrior Lead Clipped Again

All was quiet on the western front of the Western Hockey League Thursday night with all the action taking place in the Prairie Division.

But tonight the Prairie clubs will be idle as the spotlight swings to Vancouver Forum, where the Coast Division leading Canucks take on the Victoria Cougars.

Cougars, trailing third-place Seattle Americans by 23 points, return home to Memorial Arena to host the Amerks Saturday night and wind up a four-game-in-five-nights stint at Seattle on Sunday.

Thursday, Winnipeg Warriors took a sound 8-5 beating at the hands of the Edmonton Flyers at Winnipeg, and Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals laid a 3-0 shutout at the feet of Calgary Stampeders at Saskatoon.

Flyers' win placed them within one point of the Warriors' 62-point total in 53 games. Calgary, 12 points behind Edmonton, is five ahead of the Regals.

Flyers, swooping for first-place honors on the Prairies, skated to 5-1 lead at the end of the first period, failed to answer two Warrior goals in the second and outscored their hosts 3-2 in the final frame.

Colin Kilburn, Chuck Holmes and Garry Leonard each scored a pair for the Flyers while Jack Hendrickson and Gerry Melnyk scored singles. Warriors' tallymen were Billy Mosienko and Howie Glover, with two apiece, and Pete Kapusta.

Saturday will be "Army Night" at Memorial Arena with members of the PPCLI attending the game. The Princess Pats' band will also be in attendance and the unit's commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. Thomas DeFaye, will be presented with a glockenspiel by the Victoria club.

CRASH CLAIMS ANOTHER UNITED PLAYER

MUNICH, Germany (UP)—British soccer player Duncan Edwards died in the Isar Hospital early today, the 22nd victim of a Feb. 6 plane crash.

Edwards was aboard the chartered British airliner which fell while carrying members of the Manchester United team and sports writers home from a game in Prague.

FOUR UNDER PAR

Stan Shares Houston Lead

HOUSTON, Tex. (BUP)—Stan Leonard of Vancouver was one of six veteran golf professionals with sub par rounds, who held the lead today starting the second round of the $30,000 Houston Invitational golf tournament.

The six men, the oldest of which is the 43-year old Leonard all shot 4-under-par 68's in the opening round Thursday to take one stroke leads in the tournament.

The other leaders, all of whom turned in 34-34—68 cards, as did Leonard, were Milon Marusic, Marty Furgol, Pete Mazur, Ed (Porky) Oliver and Ted Kroll.

Tied at 69, one stroke off the pace were Bill Webb, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Bob Goalby and Jay Hebert.

Jimmy Demaret was tied at 70 with Roberto DeVicenzo of Mexico City and Joe Conrad.

There were 15 men tied with 71s, including Otto Greiner who shot a hole-in-one on the 273 yard No. 7 hole using a driver.

Other Canadians in Thursday's play were Al Balding, of Markham, Ont., who turned in a par matching 72. Bob Wylie, of Calgary had a 73, one stroke ahead of Lyle Crawford of Vancouver. Jerry Magee of Toronto shot a 75.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA)—The folly of winter baseball is in the inked pact stage now and advancing to the part where the sixth place manager gets up and says his rookies are going to change everything. "We can take it all," he will say. Just as he did last year.

First inclination is to throw a charge of perjury at the fellow. But it is a known fact baseball managers can become optimistic to a fantastic degree.

In the middle of last season, for example, Bill Rigney of the Giants was in his office after a winning game at the Polo Grounds, clapping his hands together and bubbling about some games the Cardinals, Braves and Dodgers had lost that day.

"Listen," he kept chanting, "if we can win three from Cincinnati we'll be right up there. I'm not just talking, boys, we can win the whole thing."

ED MATHEWS

It was shocking, but Rigney, who finished a bad sixth, believed every word of it. There is no reason to doubt there are other managers who have the same make-up. So to listen to any of them at this time of year, when they haven't lost a game yet, is foolhardy.

If you want to look ahead, sensibly, to the baseball season then first go back to the World Series. Forget Lew Burdette. A fine pitcher, yes. But not anywhere near the pitcher who gave the Yankees one run in three games.

★ ★ ★

Remember, instead, Eddie Mathews. For the first three games he was helpless. Then, with Fred Haney on him, he came three inches closer to the plate and the outside pitches the Yankees were getting him with didn't seem too far away now and Mathews started to break up games with his pull hitting.

★ ★ ★

In the final game of the series he blossomed. A big powerful kid who could run and throw and get his glove on a ball and clean the bases with a shot down the right field foul line. That was the Mathews of the seventh game and he arrived for good as a big ballplayer.

Then there is Henry Aaron. The good ones always hit the fast ball and nobody can do it better than Aaron. Yankee pitchers agreed he was the hard man to handle. In his own league this year Henry should be awesome.

Johnny Logan was at short for the Braves, and there's no way to put a rap on him. The same for Red Schoendienst at second who is not as old as the rest would like to believe. Frank Torre and Joe Adcock were at first and Warren Spahn pitched his heart out to win a game and Burdette and Bob Buhl and Juan Pizzaro and Gene Conley saw work.

★ ★ ★

Remember the Braves this way because there isn't anything in the National League that is going to bother them this season. Forget the talk of rookies, and new leases on life and trades. Think of the Braves who beat the Yankees in the World Series. The National League should be a joke this time.

★ ★ ★

The American League wasn't a contest last time and it won't change this year. "All this league has got," Ted Williams always maintained, "is the Yankees and me. It's going to be pretty dull when I leave."

Frank Lane will leave you dizzy with his deals at Cleveland. Al Lopez will talk convincingly about the second place White Sox. But there is recollection of a night game at Yankee Stadium last August. The White Sox scored a couple of runs on hits that never got past third base. The Yankees got everything back when Mickey Mantle hit a ball so far you still wonder about it.

That's the way it will go this season, too. Everybody will hustle and talk but the Yankees are going to get another crack at Burdette in the World Series.

And as for rookies, the biggest of the big could be Deron Johnson, who is an outfielder. A Yankee outfielder, too.

Ross Returned As Colwood Head

Don G. Ross was named president of the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club for a second straight year at the club's annual meeting Wednesday.

Vice-president for the coming season is Laurie Burt. Dick Hanley was named club captain, succeeding Bill McColl.

Elected executive members were Jack Esler, Doug Spencer, Gilbert Anderson, Larry McCooey and Mrs. Violet Spencer.

School Squads Battling For Island Final Berths

Aiming at berths in the Vancouver Island final, eight teams are battling today in the annual lower-Island inter-high school senior boys' basketball playoffs at Esquimalt High School.

In morning matches, Victoria High Totems tackled North Saanich and Oak Bay faced Mount View.

Highly-rated Esquimalt Dockers opened afternoon action against St. Louis College and Mount Douglas tangled with Belmont in the fourth first-round clash.

Second-round play is scheduled to get under way at 5 p.m. today with consolation and final rounds slated at the Esquimalt High court Saturday.

The three city schools, Vic High, Esquimalt and Oak Bay, are favored to grab the three berths in the Island tourney available to teams in the lower-Island playoff and Totems and Dockers are expected to clash in the district championship final.

The final game will be played at 8.45 p.m. Saturday.

Ilsa Shatters Another Record

MELBOURNE (AP)—Despite a heavy cold, 13-year-old Ilsa Konrads broke her own world record for 880 yards by 1.5 seconds Thursday night in winning the Australian women's free-style swimming championship.

The slender, Latvian-born blonde won by 60 yards in 10 minutes 16.2 seconds. It was the 11th world record performance chalked up in the championships in the 55-yard Olympic pool.

Gerda Zeveriboom, 15-year-old Dutch girl swimming for South Australia, was second in 11:13.5. Christine O'Farrell was third in 11:16.1.

The victory clinched a berth for Ilsa on the Australian team to participate in the British Empire Games at Cardiff, Wales, this summer.

She finished second to Olympic champion Dawn Fraser in the 440-yard final earlier this week.

Pipeline Company Financing Probed

CALGARY (CP)—The Borden Energy Commission has taken a searching look at the groups which backed Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited and particularly the influence of an American firm, Tennessee Gas Transmission Company.

Examination of the company's financing moved into its third day today and the seven-man body sought explanations to four questions:

What had Tennessee to do with cancellation of a Trans-Canada export contract with Northern Gas Company in 1955?

Why did three companies which later disposed of most of their holdings control 51 per cent of common shares early in 1957?

Is the voting trust a guarantee against an individual or single company gaining control of Trans-Canada?

Why did major gas producers oppose a $70,000,000 bond sale by Trans-Canada to the government's Industrial Development Bank, a subsidiary of the Bank of Canada?

REFUSED GAS SALE

Commission chairman Henry Borden said Thursday he would pursue investigation of the reasons Canadian Gulf Oil Co., now owned by British-American Oil, and Hudson's Bay Oil & Gas Co. refused to sell gas to Trans-Canada if the pipeline became involved with the development bank.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Irregular In Sluggish Trading

Prices on the Toronto stock market were irregularly lower today in sluggish mid-afternoon trading.

Industrial price changes were nearly all fractional. Utilities had twice as many losses as gains but foods and financial institutions had a similar ratio on the upside. Steels had little activity.

At New York prices improved in late afternoon but the market was generally lower. Trading was quiet.

AT TORONTO winners of at least ½ point included Powell River, International Utilities, Page-Hersey Tubes, Interprovincial Pipe Lines, Argus Corp., Confederation Life and Canada Permanent Mortgage.

Industrial losers were led by stocks such as Trans-Mountain Pipe Line, Royal Bank and Power Corp., each of which lost at least ½ point.

Mines and oils had patterns similar to each other except that oils had more losses. A few lightly-traded stocks in both sections lost as much as 25 cents or ¾ of a point but most changes were smaller.

AT NEW YORK Canadian issues moved generally higher as Hudson Bay Mining gained ⅝, International Nickel ½ and Distillers-Seagrams ⅛. Aluminium Ltd. and Dome Mines each lost ⅛.

Oils remained mixed in the Canadian section of the American exchange. Fargo lost 3/16, and Sapphire and Scurry-Rainbow 1/16 each. Jupiter and Richwell gained 1/16. Canadian Marconi lost ⅛.

AT MONTREAL prices were generally lower in light trading today on the stock exchange.

Oils took the downward lead. International Petroleum was off 2¼ at 32½. Bailey Selburne "A" was off 20 cents at 7.55. Trans-Mountain Pipeline was a point lower at 43.

Utilities and newsprints were easier. Power Corporation at 59½ and B.C. Forest at 10½ were off ½ each.

AT LONDON the stock market won scattered support in dull trading today. Gilt-edged securities, leading tobaccos and South African gold shares showed slight improvement.

German bonds were strong in the foreign field. Industrials, oils and coppers found little support and generally declined.

AT VANCOUVER mining stocks were fairly active during the forenoon with little change in prices. National Explorations sold 4,500 at 20. North-West Ventures moved 5,000 at 7. Quatsino traded 3,100 at 21. Sunshine Lardeau moved 2,500 at 10.

Steep Rock Mines Profits Decline

TORONTO (CP)—Steep Rock Iron Mines Ltd. had net profit in 1957 of $7,911,000 or 98 cents a share compared with $13,217,000 or $1.64 a share in 1956.

Operating profit was $10,233,806 compared with $16,624,066.

Ore sales of 2,348,588 tons brought $26,407,880, compared with 3,317,073 tons and $36,559,719.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Grain dealings were mostly quiet today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Prices were mostly firm in oats, barley and rye trading but were irregular in flax. A feature of the session was the sale of 360,000 bushels of flax to France.

Buying in flax was not too aggressive and demand came from various interests. Offerings were light. Prices were firm early in the session but developed some irregularity.

Oats and barley trade was mainly domestic.

Rye showed advances with light offerings.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices were steady to strong most of the time today on the Board of Trade after a brief early setback under profit-taking and hedging.

The most active trade was in the new-crop wheat deliveries which at times were more than a cent a bushel above the previous closes. But at those points profit-taking set in.

Overnight exports were reported as light and included sales of 1,000,000 bushels of U.S. Pacific Coast hard wheat to Formosa, 168,000 bushels of U.S. hard wheat to Yugoslavia and 360,000 bushels of yellow corn to Israel.

TORONTO (CP) — Francis Proudfoot Jarvis, 66, a native of Toronto and former manager of the Imperial Bank at Balgonie, Sask., died Wednesday. The last surviving member of a family of 13 children, he was said to have taken the first hockey stick into Brandon, Man. His wife, the former Jessie Lee of Brandon, died in 1912.

Thomas Chosen Again In Esquimalt-Saanich

Retired high school principal Dr. J. M. Thomas Thursday was unanimously named federal election candidate for the CCF in Esquimalt-Saanich.

About 250 party followers crammed the Douglas Street CCF Hall nomination meeting, and contributed $145 when the campaign collection hat was passed.

Dr. Thomas placed third in a four-way contest in the election last year, polling less than one-third of the votes of winning Conservative candidate, Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes.

Dr. Thomas said Gen. Pearkes is a "kindly, genial, courteous gentleman," but nonetheless a "party to betrayal" of the people of Canada by the Conservative party.

The candidate listed a comparison of Conservative actions while in opposition to the government with its record in office:

In 1956 the Conservatives condemned the Liberal government for continuing the excise tax on cars. Yet when in office, they opposed a CCF bid for removal of the tax, reducing it from 10 to 7½ per cent instead.

While in opposition the Conservatives urged increasing the level of income tax exemptions, then when in office, opposed the same suggestion.

In 1956 Gen. Pearkes and John Diefenbaker supported the CCF fight for federal aid to education.

Last year, as the government, the Conservatives voted against the same bill when presented by the CCF.

The Conservatives strongly condemned the Liberal government on the Trans-Canada pipeline project, and urged public ownership. When in office, it appointed a public commission of indefinite duration ". . . and the exploitation goes on in the meantime."

In 1956 the Conservatives supported legislation which would have made two weeks' holiday with pay a mandatory right of labor. In 1957, it would not accept the same bill.

"The kindly gentleman of this riding voted against the two weeks' holiday with pay" measure, said Dr. Thomas.

He said the Conservatives had earlier supported inclusion of mental and tubercular patients under the Hospital Insurance Act, but when in office, turned about on the matter.

Dr. Thomas outlined a CCF program for full employment and reiterated his party's stand on an increased old age pension—$75 at 65, without a means test, plus a contributory pension plan which would ensure everyone a living income when past working age.

Fire Hall Site Bylaw Given First Reading

First reading was given by city council to the new fire hall site by-law at a special meeting Wednesday.

It approves expenditure of $91,000 for options ($600) and purchase ($90,400) of eight homes fronting on Yates, Camosun and Johnson Street.

Ald. M. H. Mooney was the only alderman to oppose the purchase. He was supported in a letter from Town Planning Commission which held the site should have been preserved for apartment zoning.

$50,147 Slated for Sommers In Three-Way Split, Court Told

By JOHN MIKA
Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — Former cabinet minister Robert Sommers was to receive $50,147 as the smallest share of an alleged three-way split of bribes finally reckoned at a projected total of $193,088.

This was revealed Thursday as chief Crown witness in the preliminary hearing of the bribery-conspiracy charge, Charles Eversfield, completed his third day on the stand.

Eversfield also revealed an emergency meeting was called by defendants H. Wilson Gray and Charles D. Schultz allegedly to cover up the trail of the transactions involved in the alleged bribery for forest management licences.

The meeting was held about the time the Lord Commission was appointed in March, 1955, to investigate a charge by former MLA Gordon Gibson that "money talks" in granting of forest management licences.

Eversfield's testimony also indicated that Gray tried to keep secret from Schultz an alleged two-way split between him and Sommers on an initial $15,000 payment.

One Flare-Up

Thursday's session produced one flare-up between City Prosecutor Stewart McMorran and Alfred Bull, QC, counsel for Schultz.

Charged are Sommers, Schultz, H. W. and H. M. Gray, Pacific Coast Services Ltd., Evergreen Lumber Sales Ltd., C. D. Schultz Ltd. and B. C. Forest Products Ltd.

Eversfield gave partial descriptions of a series of tabulations made in January and February, 1955, which he said showed how the three-way split was to be made out at various times.

The lists were headed variously No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3. Eversfield identified No. 1 as PCS, No. 2 as CDS and No. 3 as Sommers. He said this was done on Gray's instructions.

He said the various tabulations of settlement between the three partners were reviewed and "checked out" by Gray after he (Eversfield) compiled them. A series of corrections were made, he said.

He identified exhibit 661 as a copy of the final tabulation made by him.

"Gray instructed me to recapitulate (the previous tabulations) showing the final division to each party and he specifically mentioned that it was to contain the sum of the division after the deduction for taxes to PCS," Eversfield said.

(Previously Eversfield testified that Gray ordered a 25-per-cent deduction from Sommers' alleged share to cover taxes that would be levied on it as it passed through PCS books—despite the fact that PCS was in the red at the time and not liable for income tax.)

$193,088 Total

Exhibit 661 shows a list of figures with a projected total of $193,088 divided: $83,578 under the heading, No. 1, HWG; $50,147 under the heading No. 3, R. E. Sommers; and $59,362 under the heading No. 2, CDS Ltd.

Earlier, when describing the progressive working out of settlements between No. 1 and No. 3, and No. 1 and No. 2, Eversfield said:

"Previously, he (Gray) had instructed me specifically that in making up the Schultz account, the division of the first $15,000 from BCFP was not to be shown. (Wednesday Eversfield testified that the first of two $15,000 payments from BCFP was to be split between PCS and Sommers. Thursday morning he said the second payment was to be split three ways.)

Later, Eversfield described a list of figures totalling $63,000 he said Gray wrote down in his presence late in 1953 or early in 1954.

Future Funds

"Gray was telling me what funds the company (PCS) could expect in the future. He wrote it down on this paper," Eversfield said.

"He wrote, May 15-30 Tahsis —$45,000," explaining that was to be received from Tahsis (by CDS for work in connection with a forest management licence). He explained $15,000 was to be received from Empire (Sawmills Ltd.)

"He totalled it at $60,000 divided by three and wrote $20,000 in another column that he said was to come to PCS. There also is a $3,300 figure under that.

"Then he counted forward five months and wrote down Sept.-Oct. BCFP 120." Opposite this he wrote $40,000 (in the PCS column).

"He extended the total and wrote down $63,000. He explained I could expect this to come in at the approximate dates given.

"Later . . . he told me I could expect very soon $40,000 from the forest management licence account or what I have termed the PCS-CDS-Sommers fund."

'Very Useful'

Eversfield said he met George Davenport, a bookkeeper for CDS, twice. On the first occasion, Davenport supplied him with figures that "were very useful" in reconciling the tabulations of the alleged three-way split settlements.

The second occasion occurred about the time that the Lord Commission was appointed. Asked to describe the event, he said:

"One day H. W. Gray told me to return to the office that evening. He said Davenport and Schultz were to be there for a meeting.

"At the meeting I was asked to show what PCS records would show of the transactions re the PCS-CDS-Sommers funds. I got out the books and turned up various documents dealing with those transactions.

"There was one company record in particular that caught their attention."

Mr. Bull objected that Eversfield was making a personal observation. Magistrate Oscar Orr instructed Eversfield to refrain from making comments and just tell what happened.

"I believe it was Gray but I'm not too sure, in any case it was pointed out that this debit memo would show that PCS had billed for and received two-thirds of the amount from Church (Sawmills Ltd.) that was paid on the same date to the Schultz office."

Eversfield said the $3,333 entry in the PCS books prompted "great conversation" during the meeting.

'Stick to Text'

As he began another sentence, Mr. Bull interjected:

"If the witness is following his script, he should say Davenport left the meeting. He didn't. These things are important. . . If he memorized his script as well as I think he has he should be told to stick to his text."

Prosecutor McMorran cut in to ask the magistrate if "it would be possible to have some order made about these comments, particularly by Mr. Bull? It is obvious that he is trying to throw everybody off, including the witness."

"Would my friend suggest committal?" shot back Mr. Bull. Mr. McMorran was referring to several statements made by J. R. Nicholson, counsel for the Gray brothers, and Mr. Bull during Eversfield's testimony that he was "reciting" a previous statement made to police.

During the wrangle, Magistrate Orr told Mr. Bull that he "wouldn't dream of telling the witness to stick to a previous statement. He is now under oath and must give his testimony in his own words." He ordered the case to proceed.

Eversfield, continuing with his testimony after describing the end of the night meeting in the PCS office, said Gray approached him the following morning.

"He said he had the solution to the problem discussed the previous night. He handed me a piece of paper and told me to put it away."

Eversfield identified exhibit 664 as the paper.

"He said these notes would help me overcome or partially overcome the difficulty presented by the Church debit memo."

Eversfield said Gray told him: "Put that away in a file. If anyone should ever ask you why the amount of the debit memo was $3,333 you can bring this paper out and say, 'Here are the notes filed away at the time the memo was made'."

Eversfield said the same day "I took the notes and I told Gray something to the effect that I did not wish to be involved in helping to make false statements.

"Shortly after that he asked me for the working papers I had been keeping in the office for him. I gave them to him."

Worth $3,500

(Exhibit 664 is a written note saying "Re Church Sawmills and billing of cds. I don't know how you should assess this but in view of the fact I was consulted and called in over a period of four and five months . . . it is worth $3,500 including expenses involved. You settle the figure. H.W.G.")

At one point during Eversfield's examination, Walter Owen, QC, counsel for BCFP, objected that the prosecutor was using leading questions and Eversfield was displaying "very important carelessness."

Mr. McMorran had directed Eversfield's attention to a portion of two documents the witness had indicated were identical when the objection was made.

"The totals are different and the whole arrangement of figures are different," Mr. Owen said. "This witness has lived with the case for a long time and he certainly shouldn't be assisted, even unwittingly, by a leading question from the prosecution. And Eversfield must not make explanations which he has tried to do to recover from his mistake."

Rare Humor

Thursday's session was also marked with one of the rare interjections of humor in the hearing.

It occurred when a document marked for identification cropped up in the testimony a second time.

"What was your objection to it yesterday?" the magistrate asked Mr. Bull.

"I can't remember the document or my objection. I guess it must have been a good one," the reply came, prompting an outburst of laughter that grew in volume when Mr. Bull added: "I repeat it (the unknown objection)."

Much of the questioning of Eversfield Thursday dealt with previous testimony and documents. It was finally broken off when the magistrate observed it involved the same figures presented before in a different form.

"You can dot the I's and cross the T's if you want but I don't think it is necessary," he told Mr. McMorran.

'Well, I was putting it in for the argument later but if it's not necessary then I've made my point and I'll stop," the prosecutor replied.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dorothy Adkins, age 11, of Kopperston, W.Va., for her question:

What kind of animal is the rhinocerous?

We have all seen pictures of Mr. Rhino charging the movie camera men out in the African sunlight. No travelogue of this area seems complete without this hair-raising sequence. And it gives us a true picture of Mr. Rhino's nature and disposition. No one knows why, but he hates the smell of man. True, he will charge like an armored truck towards anything that threatens him. But the smell of human beings brings out the worst in him.

The common rhino of east Africa is a dark colored animal called the Black Rhinocerous. He stands five feet at shoulder level and weighs a ton and a half. He has two sharp horns on his massive snout, one behind the other. The front horn, usually the longer, may be two or three feet long. Mr. Black Rhino is a foul-tempered fellow always ready to start a fight.

His cousin, the White Rhino, is more gentle. His skin is dull grey and looks white only by moonlight. This fellow stands over six feet tall and weighs four tons. He loves mud baths and avoids fights. However, he can put up a good fight and he has two honrs with which to attack. His home is in Central Africa.

India has a one-horned rhino who lives in the grassy wilds. This fellow's skin is arranged in folds that look like iron plates put together with rivets. Of all the rhinos, he has the worst temper. Sometimes he throws a tantrum for no reason at all, grunting and tearing at the brush. The Java rhino resembles his Indian cousin.

The smallest of the rhinos lives in Sumatra, Malay and Borneo. This little fellow weighs no more than a ton. But, like his relatives, he is always ready for a scrap.

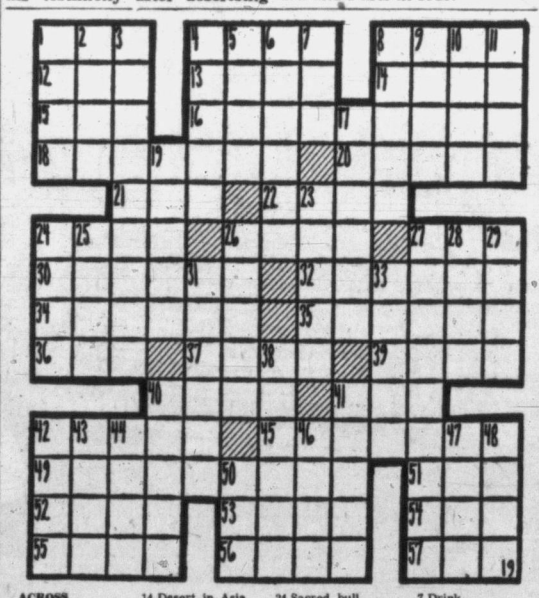

You might expect the fierce rhino to be a meat-eater. But this is not so. He is a strict vegetarian and feeds on grasses and shoots. Feeding time is early morning, evening and into the night. The rhino loves water, mud baths and dust baths. He is never far from a waterhole and usually takes a dip around midnight.

Strong Sense of Family

The White Rhino is often found in small family groups. Other rhino cousins usually travel alone. Every Mother Rhino, however, is very devoted to her calf. The youngster travels with her for several years. Junior Black Rhino trails after his mother. Young White Rhino travels ahead of her gently prodded from behind.

The Indian Rhino gets angry enough to attack the mighty elephant. The Black Rhino has more sense, though he will charge at a lion. The charge begins with stomping and snorting. He sniffs the air, for his smell is good and his eyes are poor. Then on he comes with head raised. As he nears the target, the head is lowered and the horns brought into position. Then is the time to dodge. For Mr. Rhino finds it hard to turn at full speed.

Tisdalle Attacks Steacy's Actions

'Minister Not Qualified to Judge What Is Disgraceful, Distasteful'

Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy stirred up a hornets' nest Thursday by charging that the demonstration by Vancouver Island dairy farmers last week was "disgraceful," and hinting that CCF Leader Robert Strachan was behind it.

The demonstration was inspired by "cheap political propaganda" and timed to coincide with a speech by Mr. Strachan who used it as a "political lever," the minister charged in the legislature.

Mr. Strachan immediately objected, and forced Mr. Steacy to withdraw the allegation.

John Tisdalle, Social Credit MLA for Saanich and vocal supporter for the dairymen, later criticized the minister outside the House for "boiling up" the issue again.

Mr. Tisdalle said the minister's criticisms at this stage were "useless," and only served to engender animosity.

"If my information is correct," the Saanich member added, "what took place at the minister's nominating convention in North Vancouver certainly indicates he (Mr. Steacy) is not qualified to judge what is disgraceful or distasteful."

The agriculture minister said amicable discussions have been going on between himself, the B.C. Milk Board and the dairymen since the demonstration.

SINGLE AGENCY

"They (the dairymen) would like to have a single agency under the control of the Milk Board," Mr. Steacy said, "and that's exactly what they're going to get."

Details of the agreement are expected to be announced within the next few days.

The dairy farmers want to set up their ow nselling agency to up their own selling agency to utors to help make p for lost revenue caused by the recent elimination of the producer price differential on the Island.

Referring to the demonstration Feb. 10 when the farmers stormed into the Legislative Buildings and banged on the doors of the assembly chamber, Mr. Steacy said:

"I do not think I have ever seen anything more disgraceful.

"Without being excited from some polical corner, I don't think sane and sensible people would have acted like that."

The disgruntled dairymen should have asked for a meeting with the cabinet in the regular fashion, the minister said.

Earlier, the minister read three letters received by Premier Bennett and himself concerning the demonstration.

One from William Adrain, secretary-manager of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association, apologized for one of the placards carried by the farmers which read: "Bennett is a dictator."

Mr. Adrain said association officials had asked the man to destroy the sign, but that it had been hunted out by a press photographer.

Another letter from Mr. Adrain expressed appreciation for the hearings given the dairymen by the government after the demonstration.

The third was from the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association expressing confidence in the Milk Board.

In a lengthy review of his department's activities, Mr. Steacy said he will go to Ottawa when the session is over to press again for the lifting of restrictions to allow direct movement of feed grains from Alberta to livestock raisers in British Columbia.

The minister said the agriculture department in the future will take a more active part in marketing of farm produce.

"We are prepared to take any action necessary and feasible to amend (marketing regulations) where it is found they do not afford fair and reasonable protection to our agricultural producers," Mr. Steacy said.

FUCHS STILL LONG WAY OFF

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—British explorer Vivian Fuchs and his 12-man Commonwealth transantarctic party today were 400 miles from their goal of Scott base, after travelling 80 miles in three days.

A message from the base said today that Fuchs was meeting "difficult" weather with poor visibility.

The party, travelling in tracked snow vehicles, is attempting the first land crossing of the Antarctic. They left Shackleton base on the South American side of the continent Nov. 25.

Canadian Education Ruled Sound 'All It Needs Is More Money'

OTTAWA (CP) — Called to consider "the crisis" in Canadian schooling, the Canadian Conference on Education wound up Thursday with an assurance that all it needs is more money.

Dr. Wilder G. Penfield of Montreal, addressing the windup session as conference chairman, told the 850 delegates from coast to coast that "Canadian education is fundamentally sound," but "it needs more support."

A University of Ottawa forum discussion of the conference's accomplishments Thursday night agreed that the conference succeeded in arousing public opinion on education but missed the boat on recommending what is to be done about it.

Major recommendations included in the conference's approved resolutions were that teacher-training be lengthened and toughened; that teachers share with the state in setting teachers' qualifying standards and certification requirements; federal-provincial grants for handicapped children plus provincial registries of such children; uniform statistics on education; a national organization for the promotion of educational research and government grants towards the eradication of inequalities of education.

Liberal Spirits Run High

Optimism was mounting at Victoria Liberal headquarters today as four leading citizens prepared to seek the party nomination in the March 31 election.

The candidate will be chosen at a nominating convention at Liberal headquarters, 1322 Government, at 8 tonight. Last-minute nominations will also be invited.

"This is one seat we can really take if we get out and work for it," Hugh Ramsay, chairman of the nominating committee, said today.

OVER-CONFIDENCE

"The Conservatives are taking their victory far too much for granted and over-confidence is dangerous."

Seeking the Liberal nomination tonight will be:

Dr. Frank T. Fairey, Liberal MP for Victoria until the federal election last June when he was displaced by Progressive Conservative A. deB. McPhillips (again nominated for the next election).

Dr. E. L. McNiven, a native son of Victoria and a medical practitioner here for 30 years. His father was a prominent Liberal MLA for Victoria from 1903 to 1907.

Geoffrey Ellis, Oak Bay councillor, former member of the B.C. Provincial Police and a partner in the Victoria Credit Bureau.

Charles Nelles, Saanich councillor and son of the late Admiral Percy W. Nelles, wartime chief of naval staff.

SHAW IN CHAIR

Each candidate will speak for 10 minutes and five minutes each will be allotted to their supporting speakers. Forrest L. Shaw, president of Victoria Liberal Association, will be in the chair.

"We are greatly encouraged by the high calibre of our candidates," Mr. Ramsay said, "and by the large number of volunteers, both men and women, who have offered to assist in this campaign.

"We sense a big revival of enthusiasm and optimism among city Liberals. This is largely because the Conservative candidate is taking the seat too much for granted."

"The fact that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker seems to be passing up Victoria in his campaign suggests the whole Conservative organization is over-confident where Victoria is concerned."

Alderman E. D. McEwen has been named Social Credit candidate in the election while Victoria CCF has chosen Victor Williams as its candidate.

MONTE ROBERTS

I'm not sure why I like this little story, but I like it. And it's true.

On Palmerston Avenue, in the city of Toronto, lives an English Spaniel named Patches.

A few blocks away lives a budgie bird named Tinker.

Now, you know about budgie birds. Lovely little companions, pleasant to have around the house, but they are forever getting lost.

This causes distress to everyone but the classified advertising departments of newspapers.

Lost budgie birds are a steady source of revenue for classified advertising departments.

And, to get back to our story, little Tinker became lost one day.

He flew out an open window, to explore the great outdoors, and flew around, enjoying himself hugely.

But then came nightfall, and the night air was chilly, this being Toronto in February.

Tinker, not being used to freedom, became very, very tired, and eventually fell, exhausted, in a hedge.

This is where Patches comes in.

Patches was out on his nightly rounds, patrolling the neighborhood preparatory to turning in for the night.

His sensitive nose picked up Tinker's scent, and Patches went unerringly to the spot where the bird lay.

Patches nosed at the bird, then picked him up in his mouth, very gently.

Then the dog went home, bird in mouth, scratched on the door of his home, and was admitted to the living room.

There he deposited Tinker at the feet of his master.

And the dog's owner, a kindly man, nursed the budgie back to health, located the bird's home—through a classified ad, of course—and returned him.

The end of the story is, Tinker escaped with nothing more than a bad cold, and Patches was heaped with praise.

I know Patches was just doing what comes naturally, he being a bird dog and a retriever by trade, but I like the story, just the same.

ASK The TIMES

Q. I have a small English coin, half-penny value, dated 1839. Is this worth anything? E.B.

A. At the best, five cents.

Q. I have a coin, it looks like 1858 and is a 50-cent piece with a picture of Queen Victoria on it. Is it of any value? K.L.

A. It has no collector's value. In your letter, you say it is badly worn. It is probably an 1888 piece from Newfoundland. Few coins are worth anything if not in good condition.

Nuclear Power Boom Predicted

Big Development to Come After 1968, Says Expert

Nuclear power development likely will boom in Canada after 1968, scientist Dr. William M. Campbell said at a session at the Empress Hotel today of the Pipe Line Contractors' Association of Canada convention.

"By that time nuclear and coal costs are expected to be equal," he said, "and from then on nuclear costs should be lower and the expansion of nuclear power should take place as rapidly as the demand will justify."

FUEL FAMINE

Dr. Campbell, director of the chemistry and metallurgy division, Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., Chalk River, Ont., said present known supplies of fossil fuels will be exhausted by 2020, and that a fuel famine and price rise will take effect by 1975.

"The need for nuclear power is here and the fuel resources are available, but an economically acceptable method of utilizing it still has to be found," he said.

Nuclear power "in the foreseeable future" will be limited to central station plants where it must compete with oil, gas and coal, he said.

Because of fossil fuel transportation costs, nuclear plants should be built in remote, high-cost areas, he said, but on the other hand they are only economical in large installations and areas of high demand.

"When all these factors were considered it was decided by a committee of private power company engineers that the Ontario hydro-electric system offered the best and earliest chance of meeting economic objectives," he said.

"The system is large and increasing rapidly, financing is favorable to a high capital cost system, and all new power will have to come either from imported coal or nuclear fuel," he said.

DEMONSTRATION

A small demonstration reactor has been planned, and will be ready to begin operation in 1961, he said.

Delegates to the convention, who now total 300 men and 80 women, attended a business meeting this afternoon.

Speakers Saturday will be General James H. Doolittle of the Shell Oil Company who will discuss oil and nuclear fission, and Lance Rumble, General Motors of Canada. Election of officers will take place Saturday afternoon.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

Glen W. Leggeat, 740 Mary, $10 for no muffler on car.

William David Hall, 1119 North Park, $15 for failing to heed police siren.

Charles Edward Hemeon, 1029 Tolmie, $10 for failing to notify motor vehicle branch of change of address.

In Sidney RCMP court today:

Dennis Austin Perry, 201 Oswego, $10 and $5.50 costs for speeding over 30.

Peter Ruzynski, 1710 Bank, $35 and $3.50 costs for speeding over 50, driving restricted to business for one month.

'John D. Special' To Nanaimo

Victoria Conservatives who want to hear Prime Minister John Diefenbaker when he speaks at Nanaimo March 12 will be able to travel there in a special E & N train, returning the same day.

A. DeB. McPhillips, Victoria Conservative candidate, made this announcement Thursday at a meeting of the Women's Conservative Association here.

He said it is not expected the prime minister will visit Victoria but will concentrate his campaigning on the Nanaimo and Comox-Alberni ridings now held by the CCF.

ALL POINTS

To avoid disappointing his Victoria supporters, a train of possibly 10 or 12 cars will leave here March 12 and stop at all points on the way up Island to Nanaimo, picking up other party followers.

The Conservatives are also planning bus transportation for Alberni and Courtenay residents to attend the Nanaimo meeting.

Mr. McPhillips said he hoped Finance Minister Donald Fleming will visit Victoria before the March 31 election.

City Authors Hear Top Story of '57

First-prize story for 1957 of the Victoria and Island branch, Canadian Authors' Association, was read at the general meeting Thursday in the YWCA.

Reading was by the author of "The 29 Hand," H. Wakefield Maunsell.

The "short story" was the subject of a talk by John Williamson, while Mrs. Rona Haddon spoke concerning her first-prize centennial contest play "Blue Dust, Feathers, and Eagle Down." Play production was the subject of another speaker, Mrs. Flora Nicholson, director of St. Luke's Players and the College Players.

ONE OF CANADA'S best known and most widely travelled photographers, Nicholas Morant, will address the Victoria Camera Club March 6 at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Hall, 912 Vancouver Street. Mr. Morant who attended University School here, has seen his camera studies published in the world's leading magazines. His lecture will be open to the public. (CPR Photo.)

SASKATCHEWAN FARMERS LIKE THOSE YULE TREE 'BAUBLES'

Oil wells are Christmas trees in more ways than one for some Saskatchewan farmers, Provincial Trade and Information Minister Russel Brown told delegates to the Pipe Line Contractors' Association in Empress Hotel today.

"We've learned that a collection of pipes and valves at a well head is called a Christmas tree. A farmer who owns mineral rights and has one of those things pulsing on his land finds the name appropriate indeed."

However, he pointed out that oil, natural gas and pipelines rank second to wheat in the economy of Saskatchewan.

AMONG BUSIEST MEN at Pipe Line Contractors' convention at Empress Hotel are Lance Rumble, left, who calls himself "America's greatest truck salesman," and Bob Thomas, Fort Worth, past president of American Pipe Line Contractors' Association and director of Canadian group.

HISTORY REVIEW

Firemen Plan Color Entry In Parade

Greater Victoria's 235 firemen plan a two-block-long historical entry in the Victoria Day parade, May 19.

City council finance committee today voted up to $300 to assist in purchase of old-time uniform red shirts, false beards, where necessary, and rental of horses.

The men will depict 100 years of advancement in firefighting.

The firemen's association plans to enter hand-drawn vehicles and horse-drawn vehicles, but notes ". . . this year everyone is after horses."

MISS FIRE FIGHTER

There will be mechanized units, old time and modern, and a float depicting the firefighting of the future. Miss Fire Fighter of 1958 will be chosen to ride on the float.

Vancouver Firemen's Band will lead the firemen's entry and altogether 20 units will march.

Fire chief James Bayliss told the committee he had no objection to firemen growing beards for the event, provided they kept them after they started them.

$5,000 Grant From City Council Sought by Chamber of Commerce

Victoria Chamber of Commerce today asked city council for a grant of $5,000 to help carry on its work during the coming year.

The request was referred to the committee on estimates.

In a brief presented by president Hugh Stephen and directors Conway Parrott and Forrest L. Shaw, the chamber pointed out its work is "very much of benefit to the entire community."

"It is a fact that the Chamber is already carrying out work above and beyond that which is of benefit solely to its own members," the brief stated.

For several years prior to 1957, the city made an annual grant of $2,000 to the Chamber for industrial promotion. This grant was suspended last spring.

In asking for a renewed, and enlarged grant, the chamber brief said its work included supplying information to the public, with 40 or more letters and telephone enquiries answered daily.

The brief also said that industrial promotion should be receiving more attention.

"While new industries are very much to be desired, an equally important part of industrial promotion lies in assisting industries already here . . . we are suggesting a moderate program aimed at helping both new and established industries."

The brief also suggested there is need for more attention to be given to that work which is usually handled by a Better Business Bureau.

"Until fairly recently, our Chamber handled complaints and inquiries of this kind but found that these activities had to be sharply curtailed."

The brief emphasized that such work is the province of a Better Business Bureau, and that the Chamber would welcome a bureau here.

"However, there is no indication of any action to set one up, and our Chamber is still the place the consumer turns to in his efforts to obtain redress."

Ker Family Buys Scollard Building

Sale of the Scollard Building, reputedly the largest real estate transaction in the city's history, was announced today by the real estate firm of Ker and Stephenson.

President of the firm, Col. Russell Ker, said the building, second only to the Yarrow Building in size in Victoria, has been purchased by the family from the Scollard estate.

While he would not pinpoint the sale price, Col. Ker said: "It was in the $500,000 class."

Negotiations have been under way through his firm for six months.

The Ker family, which also owns the Jones building, plans no changes in operation of its new property. It will be managed through the firm.

BUILT IN 1912

The building, located on Douglas at View, was built around 1912 by Joseph Sayward of the then-operating Sayward Mills. It was sold to George T. Scollard in the 1930s for an estimated $105,000.

Mr. Scollard died in his 86th year in 1956 at his Vancouver home.

The Scollard Building is chiefly given over to insurance, doctors and dentist offices. The main floor includes a jewelry store, a drug store, a shoe store, dress shop, cafe and barber.

The basement is storage for a furniture dealer. There are five storeys in the building, which measures 120 by 80 feet and has 50,000 square feet of floor area. It is 100 per cent occupied by 64 tenants.

DON'T BE AN INDIAN GIVER

We received at Christmas an aquarium stocked with tropical fish. It was a gift from a company that does business for my husband. After a while, we decided we did not want it. A repair man, who came to the house, admired it so I gave it to him. Since then, I purchased some white mice and have been told the best place to keep them would be in an aquarium. Could I ask this man to return it?

Louise Davis

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

I think that your conscience bothers you or you wouldn't have written this letter. A gift is a gift for keeps, regardless of who receives it or regardless of the circumstances. So the answer is don't think of it. You are aware that the repair man was delighted with the aquarium. He never dreamed that it would be his when he expressed his admiration for it. Think of his disappointment in giving it up and, furthermore, you can be sure that his regard for you would hit a low level. If the repair man should return the aquarium and keep the fish, you would be putting him to the inconvenience of acquiring another. He probably would have to purchase one. Surely you can easily improvise a container for your mice.

"WIDOWHOOD" The Lonely Road

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

This is the ninth in a series of articles frankly written in order to be of service to the four out of five wives who one day will face widowhood.

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

CHAPTER 9

"What on earth was she so unhappy about last week at this time?" the widow wonders as she surveys the suddenly changed world around her following the death of her husband.

Wilson

How trivial, how unimportant these things are in comparison to her new scheme of things.

As I sat sleepless in the silence of the dark house one wee hour I recalled my husband's annoyances the week before he left us.

A loose tooth . . . was he going to lose them all? Something had gone wrong with one of his contracts. The boss had been surly. We were going to need a new car. How was he going to find the time to finish his utility room?

Now it didn't matter about the loose tooth, the contract, the boss, the car or the utility room. He had wasted a lot of valuable energy fretting needlessly.

You become so embroiled in your own small orbit of activities that you forget there is only so much you can do to direct your future. Then death teaches you how infinitesimal you are in the over-all scheme of things.

IMPORTANT LESSON

The important lesson the widow learns is that no matter how great she thinks her troubles are, these are small in comparison to others she could have, or that someone else has now.

All she can do is the best with today and let tomorrow take care of itself. While she is busy with today's problems the nagging ones she sees in the future may be dissipating themselves away.

In particular does this apply to the widow of small children who is often overwhelmed by looking at the present and the future at the same time.

Should she go home to her parents and let them assist in rearing her children while she works?

Should she work, or get by on her present finances and stay at home with the children?

How will her youngsters be cared for if she takes a job? Will they grow into delinquents without the firm voice and hand of a father?

EASY AT FIRST

She should ask one question in relation to most of her problems. Will she be giving up her children?

Going home to the parents is an easy way in the beginning, sometimes the hardest in the end.

It enables the widow to take a job and at the same time be assured her youngsters are receiving loving care throughout the day from grandparents.

But taking them away from familiar friends and surroundings is difficult for all but the very young. Too often the widow is so tired after a long day and so grateful for her mother's help that she interferes less and less in the children's training.

The result in many instances is that grandmother rears two separate families while the widow loses the rich experience of being loved as a mother, of sharing her children's days of growing up.

THE HOUSEKEEPER

A similar situation can develop in the case of a live-in housekeeper, if she can find one that is ever willing to stay that long.

Rather than confuse her children with too many commanders she may be tempted to accede to the housekeeper's commands even during the few hours she is at home. Soon she is a mere visitor in her own house.

Young mothers with babies can board together in certain homes where child care is provided while she works during the day. Or she can stay home and get by somehow on whatever insurance she may have, as well as social security.

Unless she can make a great deal more than $30 a week she will be better off not working until her children are more self-sufficient.

NOT MUCH LEFT

Having struggled with almost all types of child care while employed, I am convinced now that some form of nursery school where children are cared for through a mother's working day is the best.

Again, this is the hard way. The day is long for mother who must arouse and dress and breakfast her children at an early hour, move at a hectic pace getting them ready in time for someone to pick them up, or drop them off there herself.

She must fret about getting home before they arrive at night, or make arrangements for a neighbor to take her children until she does get there.

BABY SITTERS

If she must go out for any reason, she must have a supply of reliable baby sitters. Besides, she must, amidst a heavy schedule of housework, meals and time devoted to her job find time for simply enjoying her children.

Sometimes, after bathing and tucking in the last child, it seems like too much.

But the family remains a closely knit family. The members learn that everyone must do his part even at that early age. In the nursery school there is trained supervision, and play equipment a widow might not be able to afford, and companionship with others their own age.

Children in nursery school adjust better to elementary school when the time comes.

In a good school their days are full, constructive and fun. At home there is a togetherness that is worth the rat race.

A widow with children does not really have more problems than one without them. She has something she loves to keep her thinking of the years ahead, not behind.

In her children she still has her husband. She sees him always in a likeness, a personality trait, an expression of speech.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For High Forehead Try Wearing Bangs

(The Friday Question Box)

Q.—"I have a round face but a very high forehead. What style hairdo would be most becoming?"

A.—When the face is round the hair should have height on top. However, since you have a high forehead I think one of the bang styles which gives height and covers a bit of the forehead would be best.

Q.—"I am 22 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 125 pounds. My bust measures 32 inches, waist 24 and hips 39. I feel that I am out of proportion. What is wrong with my measurements?"

A.—Your hips are too large for your other measurements. Take hip slimming exercises for a loss of a few inches. Your weight is correct.

Q.—"I have two children, a boy, three, and a girl one month old. My waist measured 22 inches before my first child. Then it went to 24. That didn't worry me very much, but after this child my waist measures 29 inches. Please help me! Is it true that your waist will have to be much larger after you have children? I hope not!"

A.—Your second child is so young that you have not yet had the opportunity to get yourself back in shape. There is no permanent change in the bone structure after childbirth. Extra pounds and lax abdominal muscles will of course give you a larger waistline. If you have gained weight, which I guess you have, begin dieting and exercising as soon as your physician says that you can. Many women have children and keep the same measurements.

Q.—"I am 5 feet 3½ inches tall and weigh 100 pounds. My bust measures 30 inches, waist 23 and hips 33. I think I don't weigh enough and that my bust is too small. Could you help me?"

A.—You are very much underweight. Even with a small build you should gain around 20 pounds. This will fill out your bust. You also should take exercises to increase your bust measurement.

Q.—"I have large legs. Should I wear hose with seams or seamless ones. Which would be more becoming?"

A.—Hose with seams make the legs look slimmer.

Q.—"Please tell me how to make cold cream at home."

A.—Buy some cosmetic lanolin. Add olive oil until the mixture goes on the face smoothly.

Q.—"I am 5 feet 9½ inches tall and weigh 167 pounds. I have a very large frame. Am I overweight?"

A.—If you have a very large frame, you are very little, if any, overweight.

Q.—"I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 101 pounds. I am 14 and a freshman in high school. My friends tell me I am skinny and have named me all sorts of things such as "Toothpick." Am I really underweight?"

A.—Yes. Even with a small frame you should gain some—from five to 10 pounds.

9 IN MEMORIAM

GOODWIN—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Alfred W. Goodwin, who passed away Feb. 21, 1957.
Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
—Ever remembered and sadly missed by his wife and family.

PARLEE—In loving memory of my sister, Hilda, who passed away Feb. 21, 1957.
Almighty and everlasting God, we bless Thy holy name for Thy servant Hilda, departed this life in Thy faith and fear. Beseeching Thee to grant us grace so to follow her that we may also be partakers of Thy heavenly kingdom. Grant this, O Father, for Jesus Christ's sake, our only mediator and advocate. Amen.
—Sadly missed by Frieda and Howard Smale and family.

PARLEE—In memory of Hilda K. Parlee who passed away Feb. 21, 1957.
Peacefully sleeping, resting, at last,
The world-weary trouble and trials are past,
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Ever remembered by her loving husband Jim and daughter Brenda.

Opening lead—♠ 6

East's two-spade jump was the well-known preemptive jump overcall. It didn't discourage Lou at all; in fact it helped him to get to the club slam.

Lou won the opening spade lead with the ace and noted that he surely had a loser in spades. He laid down his ace of trumps and decided that East's six-spot was a singleton. In that case he also had a losing trump.

Things looked hopeless but Lou worked out a winning play. He led a heart to dummy's ace, ruffed a heart, led a diamond to dummy's king and ruffed another heart. Now he cashed his ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond in dummy, ruffed dummy's last heart and led a low spade.

At this point there was nothing West could do to beat the hand. If he trumped, the effect would be that he was trumping his partner's spade trick. Hence, he simply discarded a diamond.

Now Lou led a trump to his king, played his last diamond and ruffed with dummy's last trump. That made his 12th trick and left poor West with his queen of trumps to take the useless last trick.

ALBERGHETTI, MINEO STAR IN 'ALADDIN' AT 6.30 ON 7, 12

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

ONE UNHAPPY EVENING—By the time we had settled down to Victor Borge's program Wednesday night we were in such a foul mood that possibly our personal reception suffered in ratio. Whatever the cause we didn't think the dashing Dane's show came up to his other offerings—not nearly.

Ours was a case of severe frustration and it settled in early, at about 7.30 to be exact.

At 7 we had tuned in on the fight between ex-champ Kid Gavilan and poor old odd-decision-out Tiger Jones. It was a humdinger, with more leather in sight than in a tannery. What's more it was close. Was Jones at last going to earn a break? We never found out because it was 7.30 and Shirley Temple Storybook Time. The children's clamor had begun.

★ ★ ★

AS "THE NIGHTINGALE" wended its enchanting course we brooded. How was Jones doing? Then we looked at our watch and it was 8 and time for that TV man-among-men, Borge. But who dares break the hearts of one own's wee ones by cutting a charming fairytale short? So we continued to brood about Jones as we wondered how the Dane and his piano were making out. Now and then, whenever a commercial allowed, we quickly tuned in on him and then hastily back as the rebukes from our offspring mounted.

TV TEE-HEES

"I'm worried. He doesn't like 'Mickey Mouse Club'!"

Finally we joined Victor as the children made off to join the sandman. But by this time we had begun to brood about the networks and the diabolical, almost sadistic way they had of deliberately causing their shows to clash in the interest of ratings, never in the interest of the viewer. At that moment we wished for great wealth so we could sponsor a show and tell the networks where to get off.

Be that as it may, we didn't think the Borge show was as good as his two other unforgettable flights into the family living room because there wasn't enough Borge. His other acts we could see anytime on other programs. But then, as we've already pointed out, it might just have been the mood we had worked ourselves into over those blasted networks and their rating-crazy ambitions.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1958

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—The ideal fashion in which to get the greatest benefit of today's fine aspects is by contacting great personalities not now within your orbit, seeking new pastures. Also, consult your paper for ideas and follow them wisely.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Spending some time today learning exactly to what degree your closest ties and comrades, business friends hold you in their regard, will open your eyes to many things, show you how to improve relations quickly. Be more loving.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Here is the right day to get all contracts, agreements working very satisfactorily, also cementing ties with associates and meeting worthwhile persons. Then take time to enjoy some favorite sports, cultural activities.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Be certain to get in touch with those persons difficult to see during working week, but who can be reached at club or other place of relaxation today. Discuss your aims casually, pleasantly, and much good will come of it.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Let this fine holiday lift you out of the dull-doldrum existence you have suffered for some time. See those persons more in your high realm of thought and make remarkably wonderful plans for the future. Live.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Dash out to see those persons who have eluded you for some reason or other in the recent past, and discuss things openly and in friendly fashion. Ask for advice. P.M. devote to family life and home surroundings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—There is a great chance today to know the true feelings of associates, ties toward you, and to use wisest psychology that will make friends out of opponents, turn failure into success. P.M. be with many persons and enjoy yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov. 21)—Though this is a holiday, it is imperative you utilize every moment of this weekend to clear up all accumulated vital tasks that will put you ahead of the game. For today's labors will mean far greater success soon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—A most wonderful day ahead for you, so see that your appearance and health are at the very peak. Then spend day and night with dearest friends. They will shower all kinds of affection and happiness upon you. Be gay!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—The home should be both the centre of attraction and the centre of your activities today. So put everything in apple-pie order early, then open the door wide and let fine persons in for fun and frolic Southern style.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—After reading your paper thoroughly, get into your finest duds and begin making the rounds of friends, acquaintances, business associates, et al., as many as the full hours ahead will permit. Be sociable and prosper, too.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—The George Washington spirit brings some remarkably fine ideas today how you can improve your lot in life, get financial position up where it should be. Be practical, put others in the same mood, and have a satisfying day.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SATURDAY

The lovely child born Saturday will have an adventurous soul, a need to dash off to unknown places, but deep within there is an element of insecurity which it is up to you to help eradicate. The best way to do this is through very fine spiritual training. And if early in life you give him or her the opportunity to hike in the mountains, swim a long stream, delve into the wonders of science, all is well.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1958

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—You are inspired in the early morning by many fine ideas and plans that you can put into immediate execution and reap benefits from for a long time into the future. P.M. take care you are not extravagant. Save, instead.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—If you attend the religious services which most appeal to you, you will find that principles learned there will assist you in handling your associate better. P.M. be diplomatic with another person. Live the Golden Rule.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—It is necessary that you assure your fellow worker of your full co-operation and devotion if you are to work together more successfully now. P.M. be very careful with all others. Start improving your health.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Morning is filled with good thoughts regarding how you can strengthen your position with those whom you love, and real affection is the first step. Tonight, stay on the safe road and eliminate the foolish; maintain perfect equilibrium.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Be factual now with closest family ties. Don't endeavor to give them qualities they do not possess, tire yourself out trying to make noble characters of them. Accept their best points and let it go at that. Be happy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Make certain to enunciate your own true thoughts and ideas, not simply ape those expounded by others. This will bring about a greater esteem and respect on both sides. Tonight, care must be used in driving, walking, etc.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—If you apply the great spiritual laws and truths in your daily contacts and with closest ties from now on, there is a great change effected both in your life and theirs. Then take care and spend wisely. Think first, then act.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You arise feeling happier than you have for a long time. Happiness is infectious, see that some of it rubs off on others, and you make your life more blessed. Tonight, be alone and attend to treatments that increase your magnetism.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—As much of the day as possible spent in quiet study, both spiritual and scientific, will show you how to make your future life more lucrative and satisfying. P.M. give the lie to those who would malign a good friend.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Much valuable data and vital knowledge can be yours today if you contact as many persons of high calibre and position as possible, which you can do. Know your own place and begin to succeed. P.M. be objective, not forceful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—A fine and sensible advisor of great power can show you how to build on a solid foundation in brief yet meaningful language. Listen and follow. Then attend to all the tasks that must be done, avoiding taking chances of any sort.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Keep alert and with open mind to the many excellent things about you today which can be put in motion, plus getting further ideas from a real expert. P.M. don't follow intuition to go off on a little trip.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SUNDAY

The highly sensitive little child born Sunday is the type who is so highly gifted spiritually that he or she will be able intuitively to know just what must be done in any emergency or situation. Just see that this power is channeled in constructive directions, give as fine and formal an education as possible, and the chart is fine for the psychiatrist, minister, doctor, nurse, etc.

If this was the ordinary 3-bedroom NHA house we would appreciate having the opportunity to sell it, but because there are so many homes like it we would not be over enthused. However, this house is a special house—a home for the discriminating buyer—the person who wants something better—but who also wants to make a low down payment—wants NHA advantages — wants reasonable monthly payment (no 2nd mortgage)—wants a good district. These are only a few of the features of this home. In addition it has an extra-large living room with large picture window, valances, beautiful golden ash panelling, a separate dining room with built-in mahogany china cabinets—or a room that can be also used as a fourth bedroom or TV room. The large kitchen has extensive kitchen cabinets in natural wood, self-edged Arborite counters and lots of table area. The bathroom with a special vanity with clothes hamper space is another of the features you will appreciate. The bedrooms are not the skimpy-sized rooms you so often see—this house is 1,200 square feet — and adding to the use of the space is the sliding mahogany doors. Now, for the people who know quality building, wait till you see the basement—100-amp. service with a 20-unit box—you are not going to have to rewire your house if you add equipment—100,000 BTU Console furnace, one of the most important features in a house which this contractor has gone out of his way to ensure you will have the best. Monthly payments (P. and I.) $80.08. 2 weeks possession. Please phone me for an appointment—you won't regret it. Full price $15,015

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

10 Years in Prison For Killer of Woman

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER — Adelard Joseph Fleurant, 43-year-old cook, formerly of Montreal, was sentenced Thursday by Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan in B.C. Supreme Court to 10 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter.

The charge arose from the death of Mrs. Hilda Dufresne, 36, whose battered body was found Nov. 9 in a skid-road hotel room.

The accused was acquitted of her murder.

"I am satisfied you administered a cruel and savage beating without any reason or provocation," the judge said. "Your drunkenness does not extend beyond excusing the crime of murder."

NEW BREWERY CONTRACT

CRESTON—Award of a contract for construction of a new brewery here has been announced by C. B. Delbridge, Vancouver, president of Interior Breweries Ltd.

His announcement said the contract had been awarded to the Foundation Company of Canada, low bidder, but did not reveal the price.

The new plant will replace existing Interior breweries in Nelson and Fernie.

How a modern Telephone plan can help you

Today's pattern of family living calls for modern telephone planning. By that we mean careful selection of locations for your phones so that they provide the greatest possible convenience and efficiency. The points to consider are no different than in the location of other modern home equipment such as washer, dryer, TV set or lamps—you want to save time, save steps and increase comfort.

You can "telephone-plan" your home whether it is old, new or still on the drafting board; you can make your own plan, or call on us for advice.

HOW MUCH WILL A MODERN TELEPHONE PLAN COST?

Surprisingly little, for the amount of downright easy living you get! For example, you could have phones (on a 2-party line) in the kitchen, basement recreation room and master bedroom for only $6.00† per month. Whatever your plan calls for, you can work out the cost very quickly from the following table.

	PER MONTH
FIRST PHONE (2-party line)	$3.60†
FIRST PHONE (private line)	$4.50†
FIXED EXTENSION (each)	$1.20†

†Plus Tax

COLOR PHONES

Probably you'll want at least one phone in color—and there are ten colors to choose from: Turquoise; Sunlight Yellow; Sand Beige; Dawn Grey; Garnet Red; Classic Ivory; Jade Green; Camellia Pink*; Gardenia White*; Forget-Me-Not Blue*. If your telephone plan includes color, add a one-time charge of $12 for each color phone; all other rental and installation charges remain the same.

*Available Soon

YOUR HOME NEEDS ONE OR MORE EXTENSION PHONES IF:

- You have to run up or downstairs to answer the phone.
- You have to walk more than twenty feet to a phone from any room in the house where members of the family spend much of their work or leisure time.
- You receive many telephone calls at night.
- You entertain frequently.
- You receive a number of business calls at home.
- You have teen agers in the family—or small children who must be kept in sight while you answer the phone.
- The man of the house is away for long periods, leaving the housewife alone at night.

BUILDING A NEW HOME OR RE-MODELLING?

Then by all means take advantage of the Telephone Company's free offer to pre-wire your home. All wiring is installed according to your telephone plan; concealed to avoid drilling holes in finished surfaces. There is no charge for this service—you pay only the regular charges when the instruments go into use.

1. KITCHEN PHONE:
The housewife spends 60% of her working day in the kitchen. Her kitchen phone saves hundreds of steps, cuts her working time by many minutes.

2. FRONT HALL PHONE:
Handy because of its central location. Easily accessible to the living room.

3. DEN, TV OR PLAYROOM PHONE:
Located right where the family spends the majority of its leisure time—and receives a large majority of its phone calls. Ends numerous trips up and down stairs.

4. MASTER BEDROOM PHONE:
So convenient when you're working in the bedroom area. Adds the security of being able to summon help in a night-time emergency.

5. BASEMENT PHONE:
Permits telephoning without leaving important family tasks, such as laundry and ironing. Also saves stair-climbing.

WE'LL BE GLAD TO HELP YOU

Our sales and service people are anxious to help you enjoy modern telephone living. They'll be pleased to answer your questions, or offer advice on the telephone planning of your home. Just call the Telephone Company business office, 4-8011, or fill out and mail the attached coupon.

'No Place for Impartial Hearing'

Appointment of an independent appeal board to hear claims rejected by the Workmen's Compensation Board was urged Thursday by Alex Matthew (SC-Vancouver Centre).

"Any person who has a real grievance has no place to go to get an impartial hearing," Mr. Matthew told the legislature.

Members of the board are "human and fallible," he said and "unintentional prejudice may creep in (their decisions)."

The appeal board should be composed of a neutral doctor, a well-known lawyer or business man, and a responsible member of a labor union, Mr. Matthew suggested.

Other proposals made by the Vancouver member in his budget debate speech:

Automobile testing should be extended throughout the whole province by the motor vehicles branch; and Used car dealers should be bonded to protect the public against crooked operators.

Partial Victory For Technicians Over Dentists

B.C. dental technicians have won a partial victory in their fight to be allowed to sell dentures directly to the public.

A bill giving them restricted rights will be introduced to the legislature soon by Health Minister Eric Martin.

Details of the bill were not disclosed, but it was learned it goes part way in meeting a private member's bill that was to have been introduced this session by Cyril Shelford (SC-Omineca).

It is believed the bill will allow the technicians to do repair work without going through a dentist.

BARGAINING OPENS

CNR 'Startled' By Union's Bid

MONTREAL (CP) — A company request was found unacceptable and union demands termed "startling" as negotiations for a new collective agreement began Thursday between Canadian National Railways and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC).

The meeting adjourned until Feb. 25 after the brotherhood turned down a CNR request to negotiate the contentious firemen issue and placed a demand for an 18-per-cent wage increase for its 9,000 members.

The wage increase headed a list of 16 demands, which included employing firemen on self-propelled rail liners. The existing contract expires March 31.

CNR 'STARTLED'

A statement issued by the CNR following the meeting said the union's demands were a "startling proposition." They had been "made known to us for the first time during this morning's discussions."

The brotherhood's other demands included.

1. Doubling to $8.50 the monthly payment to firemen in lieu of a health and welfare plan.

2. A seventh paid statutory holiday—Victoria Day.

3. A reduction in the number of miles or hours making up a service day.

4. Guaranteed work five days a week and free sleeping accommodation for regularly assigned road employees at outpost terminals.

5. A 6-per-cent increase in the basic daily rate for vacation and a reduction to 230 in the days of work for vacation eligibility.

MAN-LOADED MISSILE

Head-on angle view of USAF's F-104-A Starfighter looks as though Lieut. Clyde Schindler is getting into a toy plane. A dozen of the new fighter-interceptors reached the Hamilton base, California Thursday and were put through their paces. Officials were pleased with its performance and dubbed the plane "a guided missile with a man in it." (AP Wirephoto.)

Monetary Policies Main Socred Election Plank

EDMONTON (CP)—Social Credit Leader Solon Low today outlined a 10-point election program placing first emphasis on basic Social Credit monetary policies.

"The present economy demands reforms," he said at a press conference, in outlining a program that he said was "hammered out" by three regional conferences in Ottawa, Vancouver and Brandon, Man.

Central point of the monetary program would be "a directive to a finance commission and the Bank of Canada" to keep in balance the effective purchasing power in the hands of the people with the value of the wanted goods and services available for sale.

"This would maintain dollar-for-dollar value and coupled with other measures end the boom-and-bust cycle."

The Social Credit program also proposed an immediate "objective" investigation of the tax structure to eliminate discriminatory taxes and reduce consumer prices.

Other points:

Social Credit would establish a "partnership principle" between federal and provincial conferences to ensure just sharing of available revenue. More university scholarships would be provided.

Long-term credit and reasonable interest rates would be given small business so they could compete with larger concerns.

Unemployment would be relieved by a large-scale federal project to build storage facilities for farm surpluses until they could be sold.

Old age pensions and disability payments would be commensurate with individuals' need and the amount of money available. Social Credit would not "try to outbid the other fellow."

LOW-COST FARM LOANS

Mr. Low said Canada would accept foreign currencies in return for its farm products. Farm policy would include low cost, long-term loans to farmers for general purposes, and cash advances against farm-stored grain on a minimum of six bushels an acre. A two price system would be established for farm products, at parity prices for those sold on the domestic market. Products would be sold abroad at the best prices obtainable, but supported at levels which ensured the farmer a fair share of national income.

Grain growers would have the right to deliver grain to the elevator of their choice and flax and rye would be brought under the Canadian wheat board marketing system.

An all-risk national crop insurance act would be instituted. Social Credit financial policy would make available money for home building at lower interest rates and smaller down payments.

LAING CHARGE:

Gaglardi Let Road Builder Double Price

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Liberal Leader Arthur Laing accused Highways Minister Gaglardi Thursday night of allowing a contractor to double the estimated price on a piece of road work.

Mr. Laing, speaking at the Vancouver - Quadra Liberal nominating convention, said Mr. Gaglardi "implored" the contractor to get started on the job.

"The contractor couldn't handle it because he was loaded with work from the highways department. So he just looked up the old estimate, made in 1956, and doubled it. Within 12 hours, Mr. Gaglardi had given him the go-ahead."

The Liberal leader refused to name the contractor, but he told reporters later facts of the case are "all over town and may be used publicly soon."

Ike Cables Winnie

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower today sent a telegram to Sir Winston Churchill expressing pleasure at his progress in recovering from pneumonia and pleurisy and that the Eisenhowers are looking forward to seeing Sir Winston in Washington in April.

U.K. Missile Gets Highest Priority

LONDON (Reuters)—Highest priority was announced today for work on a British ballistic missile as the United Kingdom's main future "nuclear deterrent."

Air Minister George Ward said in the annual air estimates that meanwhile Britain's present deterrent power has been "greatly increased" as a result of her successful hydrogen bomb program and the current build-up in high-speed multi-jet bombers.

The estimates ask £467,000,000 ($1,307,000,000) for the coming financial year, a reduction of £20,000,000 from last year.

Ward said Britain's "ability to reinforce the Western deterrent will be increased by the acceptance of U.S. intermediate-range ballistic missiles." Agreement on bases in Britain for these missiles is expected to be announced next week.

'WRONG MAN' GOT PRIZE' —PEARSON

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Lester B. Pearson said with tongue in cheek today that he may have to suggest to the Nobel prize committee that they gave the 1957 peace prize to the wrong man.

He was referring to a speech by Transport Minister Hees at Fort William, Ont., Thursday. Mr. Hees claimed the Liberal leader got the prize by taking as his own a proposal by Prime Minister Diefenbaker that the United Nations set up a police force in the Middle East.

"Yes, I saw that report," Mr. Pearson said.

Perhaps I may suggest in my speech tonight that the Progressive Conservatives nominate Mr. Diefenbaker for the 1958 peace prize. Or perhaps the Nobel committee ought to be told they gave the award to the wrong man.

Indonesian Planes Hit Rebel Town

SINGAPORE (AP)—Padang radio said tonight two Indonesian Air Force planes this morning dropped seven bombs on the town of Parnau, about 45 miles south of Padang.

The broadcast from the rebel regime's stronghold on Sumatra said the bombs fell near a mosque where villagers were going to pray. The bombing was reported one hour after President Sukarno threw his support to the determination of Premier Djuanda's government to crush the rebels.

No casualties were reported. The broadcast also said a bridge at Saledo also was machine-gunned by attacking planes.

OUSTER DEMANDED

The rebels, who are demanding the ouster of Djuanda, have shown nervousness over the possibilities of air attack.

Padang broadcasts have carried repeated warnings to the people of central Sumatra to prepare for aerial blows from the small central government's air force.

The government destroyer Gadja Mada and some corvettes appeared off Padang Thursday in blockade position.

The rebel regime has neither planes nor warships.

In Jakarta, President Sukarno rejected an ultimatum from Sumatra and called for action to eliminate the rebel government.

Djuanda threatened an economic squeeze and said there might be shooting because "to carry out an economic blockade we must employ the army, air force and the navy."

Angry Moves Hit Tunisian Peace Hopes

TUNIS (AP) — More angry moves by the Tunisian government and French troops have clouded prospects for British-American efforts to conciliate the North African dispute.

Tunisia pulled five French consuls out of their posts and hurried them to Tunis, enforcing a "get out" order by President Habib Bourguiba that had lain dormant for 10 days.

The action against the consuls was in retaliation for the overnight detention by French troops of the top local official and two Tunisian national guardsmen after a land-mine explosion in the south Tunisian village of Remada which blew up a French jeep and wounded two soldiers.

SUDAN DISPUTE HOISTED

Egypt, Syria Merge, Nasser President

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Egypt announced today that it has agreed to postpone settlement of its border dispute with the Sudan until after the Sudanese elections of Feb. 27.

The announcement came as voters in Syria and Egypt cast ballots on the plan to merge their two countries into the United Arab Republic and elect Gamal Abdel Nasser president. The vote was large in both countries and there was no doubt the merger was approved and Nasser elected.

The official Egyptian position was disclosed just hours before the United Nations Security Council was to meet in New York to consider the Sudan's charge of "Impending Egyptian aggression." The Sudan made its charge because of Egyptian efforts to include the disputed frontier areas in the plebiscite.

In its statement, Egypt again denied that it had military forces on its southern border with the Sudan, "Apart from normal frontier patrols." It noted that its armed forces have been built up not "to invade the Sudan but to help it stand up to the common enemy."

New York State on Emergency Basis From Snow, Hunger, Cold

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The entire state of New York was on an emergency basis today following an appeal by Governor Averell Harriman for federal aid to the cold, hungry and sick stranded across snowbound wastes.

The weather began to cooperate today, too, as winds slackened and temperatures crept up into the 20s.

The discovery of an asphyxiated family of five on a farm home, sending the state's death toll in last weekend's storm up to 44, added emphasis to the governor's call for help for uncounted marooned residents imprisoned by snowbound roads.

In a telegram to federal defence officials, Harriman asked for military helicopters for food drops and for army and air force snow-removal equipment.

CRAWL TO FOOD

Many people "are in desperate condition," he said. "Their fuel and food supplies are near exhaustion. They are without feed for farm animals. All state and local snow removal equipment is being used."

Meanwhile, marooned families were told by radio to stamp distress signals in the snow to attract attention from planes flying over today.

In the Ginger Lakes region, the Red Cross, the air force and police teamed to organize a gigantic rescue effort. Drifts were reported piled to the second-storey windows of some homes.

A helicopter pilot who dropped food packages to isolated farms Thursday said "people scrambled out of their homes like ants — some crawling on their hands and knees — and ripped open the sacks to devour the food on the spot."

SIR WINSTON IMPROVES; PNEUMONIA 'RESOLVING'

ROQUEBRUNE CAP MARTIN, France (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's physician today reported "a very definite improvement" in his condition.

The daily medical bulletin this afternoon said there are signs that the 83-year-old statesman's pneumonia is resolving. It added that his progress is so far satisfactory.

Court Told Of 'Dinging'

(See Also Page 12)

(Special to The Times)

VANCOUVER—Charles Eversfield, chief crown witness in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy hearing, testified today that his former boss, H. W. Gray, kept him informed on details in connection with an alleged three-way split of certain funds.

The 46-year-old former bookkeeper of Pacific Coast Services Ltd. testified that Mr. Gray, president of Pacific, gave him details of "the whole picture" in instructing him about funds that were to be retained for former Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers.

He recalled one instance when Mr. Gray returned from meeting Mr. Sommers in Victoria and remarked: "I am in charge of the dinging department" or words to that effect.

He said there was no explanation by Gray of the remark.

"Is that a slang word or what," asked Magistrate Oscar Orr. "Spell it out."

The witness spelled the word dinging but said he didn't know what it meant.

The crown this morning completed its examination of Eversfield, now on the stand for the fourth day in the preliminary hearing of charges against Mr. Sommers, three other individuals and four companies.

DEFENCE PROTESTS

The Crown alleges that Mr. Sommers received considerations to a total of, more than $15,000 in a conspiracy involving the issuance of certain forest management licences.

Cross examination of Eversfield by the battery of eight defence counsel was to begin this afternoon. During the morning the defence repeatedly objected that prosecutor Stewart McMorran was asking Eversfield leading questions.

Under questioning Eversfield said he knew of no work done by Pacific for the monies it received from various sources.

The Crown charges that some of these funds were split three ways between Pacific, the C. D. Schultz Co. Ltd. and Mr. Sommers while he was minister. Sommers resigned his portfolio in 1955 but still sits in the legislature as a private member.

LIFE OF PARTY?

Man, You're Sick

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Want to be the life of the party?

Dream of tossing off uproarious quips?

If you do, man, you're sick.

That diagnosis comes from a psychiatrist, Dr. Martin Grotjahn of the University of Southern California.

"A wit," says Dr. Grotjahn, "is an angry man in search of a victim. A witticism is his way of releasing repressed hostility. If he doesn't find a victim, he will probably suffer from a migraine headache attack.

"A witticism starts with an aggressive tendency or intent — an insult - like, shocking thought. By clothing the insult with the veneer of laughter and the convention of a joke, the wit brings his bottled-up hostilities to the surface in a manner acceptable to society.

"If the wit didn't have this outlet, a headache might occur. Thus, a thought murder (the witticism) a day keeps the doctor away."

Free-for-All As Whitbys Top U.S. 9-2

OSLO, Norway (CP)—A wild free-for-all broke out in the second period of an exhibition hockey game between the Canadian and United States world hockey entrants today as players and spectators swarmed onto the ice and traded punches.

Canada won the game by a score of 9 to 2.

The outbreak started near the Canadian net with Canada leading 4-1. Bill Christian of the U.S. skated in on the goal and was grabbed by George Gosselin. They started wrestling and two Norwegian policemen jumped over the boards to separate the combatants.

A group of Norwegian fans swarmed onto the ice and around the penalty box. One fan was arrested after he punched Gosselin in the face.

Unconscious 21 Months

By PETE LOUDON

A noted London medical specialist and faith healer, Dr. Christopher Woodard, will arrive in Victoria Saturday to attempt to revive Dr. Anne Steel from a 21-month coma.

A Harley Street specialist, Dr. Woodard, told the Times from Vancouver today:

"I'm not seeking to command God to heal her or bring her out of her coma, but to come as an act of faith, because I believe God can heal any sickness at any time."

BY MOTHER

It is understood, Dr. Woodard was brought here by Dr. Steel's mother, Mrs. C. I. Cookes, 1560 Despard.

Mrs. Cookes was in bed with flu today and unable to comment.

A friend of the family said Mrs. Cookes had exchanged several letters with Dr. Woodard.

Dr. Woodard said his "doctor patient" was the "main thing that brought me here," but he is combining his visit with a lecture tour. He speaks in Vancouver tonight, and has five speaking engagements here between Sunday and Wednesday.

He said regarding Dr. Steel, "I'm likely to see her quite a lot."

He said also he welcomes the prayers of people in Victoria in his task; "if we believe, we shall see our belief fulfilled."

BRAIN INJURY

Dr. Steel suffered a brain injury May 16, 1956, when her horse fell on her during a vacation near Osoyoos, B.C. She was riding with her children, Phillipa and Tony, at the time.

Surgery was performed by a top Victoria brain specialist, Dr. John E. Harvey, but despite every treatment, she has never regained consciousness at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Dr. Steel is 38. She was born in Scotland and graduated from Edinburgh University, later taking a Canadian medical degree at Vancouver and interning at St. Joseph's Hospital.

She was in practice here eight years prior to her accident and was in partnership with Dr. Charlotte Dohan. Dr. Steel's husband, Philip, is a school teacher.

Dr. Woodard arrives here by air at noon Saturday. He is a graduate of Trinity College, Cambridge. His great grandfather was founder of the famous Woodard Schools in England.

Victoria Lessons in Living Group and interdenominational religious study group of Victoria told The Times:

"Dr. Woodard makes a prac-

Flares Seen Raise Hopes For Aircrew

HALIFAX (CP)—The search for a missing United States Navy plane with 22 men aboard was intensified today after lights were sighted in the Atlantic near where it disappeared.

Fifty planes joined in criss-crossing the area 600 miles east of Newfoundland where the lights were seen.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Yakatat said a red flare was seen Thursday night about 400 miles north of the plane's last position. Early today a U.S. Air Force plane reported seeing small lights on the surface of the ocean about 150 miles from where the flare was sighted.

Portuguese, Canadian and U.S. aircraft joined in the search. U.S. aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, a cruiser and 16 destroyers also took part. The carrier sent 17 planes into the hunt.

The four-engined Super-Constellation disappeared Thursday on a radar patrol flight from Argentia, Nfld., to the Azores.

Storm of Criticism Hits Selwyn Lloyd

LONDON (CP)—The reputation of Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd stands at a low point today, leading to renewed speculation about his political future.

Newspapers of left and right are equally harsh in their appraisals of Lloyd's speech in Thursday's House of Commons debate on foreign affairs. Words like "flop," "fiasco" and "disaster" are freely used. The Times calls his speech "one of his more inept performances."

A common interpretation is that the speech was so barren—there was silence on the Conservative benches when he sat down — that Prime Minister Macmillan decided at the last moment to wind up the debate himself and try to restore some of the bipartisan spirit which prevailed in the opening stages.

This is the second time that Lloyd's removal has been widely predicted. The first was after Sir Anthony Eden's resignation as prime minister 13 months ago in the aftermath of the Suez invasion, but Eden's successor, Macmillan, kept Lloyd in the foreign-policy post.

EGGS, TOMATOES, FLOUR THROWN

Duke, Cabinet Minister Pelted By Scottish University Students

GLASGOW, Scotland (BUP) — Glasgow University undergraduates pelted Britain's Home Secretary R. A. Butler with eggs, tomatoes and toilet rolls, and sprayed him with a fire extinguisher at his installation as Lord Rector of Glasgow today.

Thursday, the Duke of Edinburgh smilingly underwent a similar bombardment at Edinburgh University where, as Chancellor, he was robing actor James Robertson Justice, as the new rector there.

Today, more than 2,000 students packed St. Andrews hall at the university for more than an hour before Butler's arrival.

The riots started when Butler was on the platform being robed. Two ripe tomatoes squelched against his chest, and he made no movement to remove the mess.

As he began to speak the students rained firecrackers, flour bombs, eggs and toilet roll streamers onto the platform.

Trumpets blared, and the continuous cheering and catcalling drowned Butler's words.

Within 10 minutes, every person sitting on or near the platform had been hit.

A huge, solid cabbage heaved from the gallery, hit a photographer on the head. He was carried unconscious from the hall.

Several college professors walked out of the hall a few minutes after the installation started, commenting "disgusting, "just hooliganism" or "really the worst."

Shortly before the end of the ceremony a male student sprayed Butler with a fire extinguisher. Butler, his clothes soaked and stained, ignored the attack and carried on with his speech.

Several robed professors walked out.

Then a fight broke out in the gallery, and one student was pulled back after he almost fell over the gallery rail.

As Butler ended his speech a flour bomb burst in his face. He sat down.

Almost immediately university principal Sir Hector Hetherington signalled for the national anthem.

Outside dozens of police stood by to break up the massed students milling around waiting for the home secretary to appear.

Nasser seems t' be tryin' a little nihilism on his neighbors up th' Nile.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

In Victoria, it is said, everything stops for tea. And the habit seems to be catching on in the Legislature, even among MLAs from those fast-moving places where they haven't time for such frivolities.

Noticing a drift towards the restaurant Thursday afternoon, Arthur Turner, the fatherly CCF member for Vancouver East, broke off his speech and said:

"If the government members want to go to tea, I will address the Liberals first."

"Thank you," smiled Premier Bennett. "But before we go, I would like to hear some of those constructive ideas you have promised us."

At which George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) looked up eagerly and asked:

"Can we go and have OUR tea then?"

"Certainly," bowed Mr. Turner in the manner of an olde English tea shoppe proprietor.

"How long will you be polishing off the government?"

"About 20 minutes."

"Thank you—you are very accommodating."

The two Liberal members — Mr. Gregory and Archie Gibbs —then left the House amid laughter.

★ ★ ★

Just before the Liberal tea break, Mr. Turner advised the government to throw away a cracked old record it had been playing since 1951—that nothing constructive ever comes from the CCF.

"It's getting a bit scratchy," murmured CCF leader Bob Strachan.

"We give you many constructive suggestions," pursued Mr. Turner, "but you never acknowledge them."

He said when the B.C. Socreds came to power in 1952 they were shrewd enough to catch up with a backlog of public projects that had been shelved, ignored and bypassed.

"As a result you have won a lot of favor in this province."

He added that the government had lots of money to spend on these things and there was no trick to spending money.

A famous statesman, he said, always carried around a pocketful of dimes to give to children.

"It was a nice gesture but nothing to what he had taken off their fathers in taxes," Mr. Turner said.

Premier Bennett led the applause when Mr. Turner decared the test of a government was whether it could function as well in not-so-good times as in good times.

"Those are wise words," said the premier.

The CCF veteran wouldn't be put off with these equivocations. He said prominent Canadian financiers had warned them the boom would not last.

"As this government did," said the premier, determined to have the last word.

★ ★ ★

After many years as an MP in Ottawa, debonair Harold Winch returned to the House where he began his political career as CCF member for Vancouver East in the hungry 30s.

Mr. Winch sat on the floor of the House as a guest and, in welcoming him, CCF Leader Strachan said it was ironical he could not address the assembly.

Associating himself with the welcome, Premier Bennett said he had always admired the skill and knowledge Mr. Winch brought to debate.

tice of opening each consultation with prayer, and uses his belief in the power of prayer in conjunction with his medical practice, to prove that Christ still heals today."

He is author of three books, "A Doctor Heals by Faith," "A Doctor's Faith Holds Fast," and "A Doctor's Faith Is Challenged."

"His great aim is to found centres in various places where there can be complete co-operation between doctors and clergy."

ABSOLUTE POWER

In such centres "the whole staff believes in the absolute power of Christ to heal all disease."

The Lessons for Living Group adds: "It is hoped that as many doctors as possible will take the opportunity of meeting with him for a friendly discussion, while he is in Victoria."

His address tonight in Vancouver will be at Collingwood United Church. After an indeterminate stay in Victoria, he also plans to speak in Seattle.

In Victoria, Dr. Woodard will preach at St. John's Church Sunday morning and at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday evening. The morning service at St. John's will be broadcast for benefit of shut-ins.

Monday he will speak at 8 p.m. at First Baptist Church and Tuesday at 8 p.m. to the Lessons In Living Groups at St. John's.

Wednesday night at 8, Dr. Woodard will again be heard at St. John's.

Physician Nominated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Lyon Ward, a Vancouver physician, was nominated on Thursday night as Liberal candidate for the Vancouver Centre seat held by former defence minister Ralph Campney until his defeat in the June 10 election. Mr. Campney did not stand for renomination.

'Dirty, Despicable Thing,' Says Winch

Greater Victoria got off to an old-fashioned, name-calling, arm-waving, hot-under-the-collar federal election campaign Thursday night with a guest appearance by the CCF's most fiery advocate, Harold Winch.

Mr. Winch, 50, MP for Vancouver East, exhorted an overflow audience of 250 at Douglas CCF Hall, to throw down the Liberals and Conservatives and start thinking about ". . . who owns Canada."

He accused Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of ". . . one of the most dirty, despicable things in the political history of Canada," in his sudden dissolution of government.

He said the dissolution meant the freedom of the cabinet to spend $1,300,000,000.

"When the new parliament meets, your members can't do a thing about it. Mr. Diefenbaker can thumb his nose at parliament. You think Bennett is arrogant, and so do I, but Mr. Diefenbaker can give him lessons."

Mr. Winch compared it to the dissolution of the B.C. legislature by the minority Social Credit government in 1952. In both cases, he said, opposition parties had pledged and given co-operation.

He said "Dief the Chief" on the final day attacked the parties which had supported him, and then usurped the rights of Parliament.

"When the opposition leaders got up to speak, Diefenbaker said "Parliament is dissolved, sit down." He denied the right of any member to speak except himself. You don't have to take my word for it. Get a copy of Hansard.

"Yet, last year, during the pipelines debate, Mr. Dienfenbaker promised to return the rights of Parliament."

Mr. Winch blasted the Conservatives for promising $500,000,000 in tax cuts then creating tax reductions of $178,000,000.

He said the Conservatives promised to pay half the cost of tubercular and mental hospitals, but later in office said such costs would be deducted from financial payments to the provinces.

He said that contrary to Canadian law, Canadian natural gas sells at 22 cents a unit in the U.S. and 32 cents in Canada.

"The Canadian consumer is subsidizing the Americans."

He attacked mortgage vendors—department stores which take 54 per cent above purchase prices in interest and charges, small loan operators who take 24 per cent on loans in a year, house morrgagors who take 15½ per cent interest.

"It's going on in Victoria . . . and the government says it's good business."

And finally, he warned against Canada . . . "becoming the Belgium of a new world war."

"I think this might be possible if there is a blind following of John Foster Dulles whom I consider to be one of the most dangerous men in world diplomacy today."

He said Canada should take the lead in opposing a diplomacy of "antagonism and insult."

Speaking on the "economic crisis of Canada today," he said

"You hear the Conservatives blaming the Liberals and the Liberals blaming the Conservatives. It's like two little boys arguing over who broke the window. They both know they both did it, because they both stand for the same system."

There just have to be more schools

Right now, over 3 million children are registered at elementary and secondary schools in Canada. During the next 10 years enrollment will grow to at least 4 million. Accordingly, many new schools will have to be built.

The financing of new schools is undertaken by school boards and municipalities with Provincial Government assistance, and they usually issue debentures in order to spread the cost over a period of years.

Life Insurance Companies have supplied a large part of these funds and today they hold 25% of all outstanding municipal bonds in Canada. Thus, part of the money paid by you in Life Insurance premiums may return to your community to help build schools for your children.

Such investments by the Life Insurance Companies in Canada on behalf of their policyholders contribute to Canada's growth and progress, important to everyone.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA)—The folly of winter baseball is in the inked pact stage now and advancing to the part where the sixth place manager gets up and says his rookies are going to change everything. "We can take it all," he will say. Just as he did last year.

First inclination is to throw a charge of perjury at the fellow. But it is a known fact baseball managers can become optimistic to a fantastic degree.

In the middle of last season, for example, Bill Rigney of the Giants was in his office after a winning game at the Polo Grounds, clapping his hands together and bubbling about some games the Cardinals, Braves and Dodgers had lost that day.

"Listen," he kept chanting, "if we can win three from Cincinnati we'll be right up there. I'm not just talking, boys, we can win the whole thing."

ED MATHEWS

It was shocking, but Rigney, who finished a bad sixth, believed every word of it. There is no reason to doubt there are other managers who have the same make-up. So to listen to any of them at this time of year, when they haven't lost a game yet, is foolhardy.

If you want to look ahead, sensibly, to the baseball season then first go back to the World Series. Forget Lew Burdette. A fine pitcher, yes. But not anywhere near the pitcher who gave the Yankees one run in three games.

★ ★ ★

Remember, instead, Eddie Mathews. For the first three games he was helpless. Then, with Fred Haney on him, he came three inches closer to the plate and the outside pitches the Yankees were getting him with didn't seem too far away now and Mathews started to break up games with his pull hitting.

★ ★ ★

In the final game of the series he blossomed. A big powerful kid who could run and throw and get his glove on a ball and clean the bases with a shot down the right field foul line. That was the Mathews of the seventh game and he arrived for good as a big ballplayer.

Then there is Henry Aaron. The good ones always hit the fast ball and nobody can do it better than Aaron. Yankee pitchers agreed he was the hard man to handle. In his own league this year Henry should be awesome.

Johnny Logan was at short for the Braves, and there's no way to put a rap on him. The same for Red Schoendienst at second who is not as old as the rest would like to believe. Frank Torre and Joe Adcock were at first and Warren Spahn pitched his heart out to win a game and Burdette and Bob Buhl and Juan Pizzaro and Gene Conley saw work.

★ ★ ★

Remember the Braves this way because there isn't anything in the National League that is going to bother them this season. Forget the talk of rookies, and new leases on life and trades. Think of the Braves who beat the Yankees in the World Series. The National League should be a joke this time.

★ ★ ★

The American League wasn't a contest last time and it won't change this year. "All this league has got," Ted Williams always maintained, "is the Yankees and me. It's going to be pretty dull when I leave."

Frank Lane will leave you dizzy with his deals at Cleveland. Al Lopez will talk convincingly about the second place White Sox. But there is recollection of a night game at Yankee Stadium last August. The White Sox scored a couple of runs on hits that never got past third base. The Yankees got everything back when Mickey Mantle hit a ball so far you still wonder about it.

That's the way it will go this season, too. Everybody will hustle and talk but the Yankees are going to get another crack at Burdette in the World Series.

And as for rookies, the biggest of the big could be Deron Johnson, who is an outfielder. A Yankee outfielder, too.

Ross Returned As Colwood Head

Don G. Ross was named president of the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club for a second straight year at the club's annual meeting Wednesday.

Vice-president for the coming season is Laurie Burt. Dick Hanley was named club captain, succeeding Bill McColl.

Elected executive members were Jack Esler, Doug Spencer, Gilbert Anderson, Larry McCooey and Mrs. Violet Spencer.

Ilsa Shatters Another Record

MELBOURNE (AP)—Despite a heavy cold, 13-year-old Ilsa Konrads broke her own world record for 880 yards by 1.5 seconds Thursday night in winning the Australian women's free-style swimming championship.

The slender, Latvian-born blonde won by 60 yards in 10 minutes 16.2 seconds. It was the 11th world record performance chalked up in the championships in the 55-yard Olympic pool.

Gerda Zevenboom, 15-year-old Dutch girl swimming for South Australia, was second in 11:13.5. Christine O'Farrell was third in 11:16.1.

The victory clinched a berth for Ilsa on the Australian team to participate in the British Empire Games at Cardiff, Wales, this summer.

She finished second to Olympic champion Dawn Fraser in the 440-yard final earlier this week.

Pipeline Company Financing Probed

CALGARY (CP)—The Borden Energy Commission has taken a searching look at the groups which backed Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited and particularly the influence of an American firm, Tennessee Gas Transmission Company.

Examination of the company's financing moved into its third day today and the seven-man body sought explanations to four questions:

What had Tennessee to do with cancellation of a Trans-Canada export contract with Northern Gas Company in 1955?

Why did three companies which later disposed of most of their holdings control 51 per cent of common shares early in 1957?

Is the voting trust a guarantee against an individual or single company gaining control of Trans-Canada?

Why did major gas producers oppose a $70,000,000 bond sale by Trans-Canada to the government's Industrial Development Bank, a subidiary of the Bank of Canada?

Commission chairman Henry Borden said Thursday he would pursue investigation of the reasons Canadian Gulf Oil Co., now owned by British-American Oil, and Hudson's Bay Oil & Gas Co. refused to sell gas to Trans-Canada if the pipeline became involved with the development bank.

The three companies each owned 17 per cent of common shares in February, 1957, and Mr. Borden said he wanted to know "why and how and what lay behind" the groups 51 per cent control. The three companies now have disposed of most of their shares.

Tennessee, the commission chairman said, had more than an investment interest in the Canadian pipeline because it was seeking natural gas imports from Canada through Emerson, Man.

Charles Coates, Trans-Canada president, said that was true. He said a contract for export with Northern Natural gas, distributors in the midwest United States, was not renewed in 1955 because Trans-Canada would not accept certain terms of renegotiation.

It was at this time that Tennessee "came into the picture" and "that's what prompted the cancellation," the president went on.

Mr. Borden: "In other words you changed horses?"

Mr. Coates: "Yes, sir."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Irregular In Sluggish Trading

Prices on the Toronto stock market were irregularly lower today in sluggish mid-afternoon trading.

Industrial price changes were nearly all fractional. Utilities had twice as many losses as gains but foods and financial institutions had a similar ratio on the upside. Steels had little activity.

At New York prices improved in late afternoon but the market was generally lower. Trading was quiet.

AT TORONTO winners of at least ½ point included Powell River, International Utilities, Page-Hersey Tubes, Interprovincial Pipe Lines, Argus Corp., Confederation Life and Canada Permanent Mortgage.

Industrial losers were led by stocks such as Trans-Mountain Pipe Line, Royal Bank and Power Corp., each of which lost at least ½ point.

Mines and oils had patterns similar to each other except that oils had more losses. A few lightly-traded stocks in both sections lost as much as 25 cents or ¾ of a point but most changes were smaller.

AT NEW YORK Canadian issues moved generally higher as Hudson Bay Mining gained ⅝, International Nickel ½ and Distillers-Seagrams ⅛. Aluminium Ltd. and Dome Mines each lost ⅛.

Oils remained mixed in the Canadian section of the American exchange. Fargo lost 3/16, and Sapphire and Scurry-Rainbow 1/16 each. Jupiter and Richwell gained 1/16. Canadian Marconi lost ⅛.

AT MONTREAL prices were generally lower in light trading today on the stock exchange.

Oils took the downward lead.

International Petroleum was off 2¼ at 32½. Bailey Selburne "A" was off 20 cents at 7.55. Trans-Mountain Pipeline was a point lower at 43.

Utilities and newsprints were easier. Power Corporation at 59½ and B.C. Forest at 10½ were off ½ each.

AT LONDON the stock market won scattered support in dull trading today. Gilt-edged securities, leading tobaccos and South African gold shares showed slight improvement.

German bonds were strong in the foreign field. Industrials, oils and coppers found little support and generally declined.

AT VANCOUVER mining stocks were fairly active during the forenoon with little change in prices. National Explorations sold 4,500 at 20. North-West Ventures moved 5,000 at 7. Quatsino traded 3,100 at 21. Sunshine Lardeau moved 2,500 at 10.

Steep Rock Mines Profits Decline

TORONTO (CP)—Steep Rock Iron Mines Ltd. had net profit in 1957 of $7,911,000 or 98 cents a share compared with $13,217,000 or $1.64 a share in 1956.

Operating profit was $10,233,806 compared with $16,624,066.

Ore sales of 2,348,588 tons brought $26,407,880, compared with 3,317,073 tons and $36,559,719.

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Grain dealings were mostly quiet today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Prices were mostly firm in oats, barley and rye trading but were irregular in flax. A feature of the session was the sale of 360,000 bushels of flax to France.

Buying in flax was not too aggressive and demand came from various interests. Offerings were light. Prices were firm early in the session but developed some irregularity.

Oats and barley trade was mainly domestic.

Rye showed advances with light offerings.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices were steady to strong most of the time today on the Board of Trade after a brief early setback under profit-taking and hedging.

The most active trade was in the new-crop wheat deliveries which at times were more than a cent a bushel above the previous closes. But at those points profit-taking set in.

Overnight exports were reported as light and included sales of 1,000,000 bushels of U.S. Pacific Coast hard wheat to Formosa, 168,000 bushels of U.S. hard wheat to Yugoslavia and 360,000 bushels of yellow corn to Israel.

Liberal Spirits Run High

Optimism was mounting at Victoria Liberal headquarters today as four leading citizens prepared to seek the party nomination in the March 31 election.

The candidate will be chosen at a nominating convention at Liberal headquarters, 1322 Government, at 8 tonight. Last-minute nominations will also be invited.

"This is one seat we can really take if we get out and work for it," Hugh Ramsay, chairman of the nominating committee, said today.

OVER-CONFIDENCE

"The Conservatives are taking their victory far too much for granted and over-confidence is dangerous."

Seeking the Liberal nomination tonight will be:

Dr. Frank T. Fairey, Liberal MP for Victoria until the federal election last June when he was displaced by Progressive Conservative A. deB. McPhillips (again nominated for the next election).

Dr. E. L. McNiven, a native son of Victoria and a medical practitioner here for 30 years. His father was a prominent Liberal MLA for Victoria from 1903 to 1907.

Geoffrey Ellis, Oak Bay councillor, former member of the B.C. Provincial Police and a partner in the Victoria Credit Bureau.

Charles Nelles, Saanich councillor and son of the late Admiral Percy W. Nelles, wartime chief of naval staff.

SHAW IN CHAIR

Each candidate will speak for 10 minutes and five minutes each will be allotted to their supporting speakers. Forrest L. Shaw, president of Victoria Liberal Association, will be in the chair.

"We are greatly encouraged by the high calibre of our candidates," Mr. Ramsay said, "and by the large number of volunteers, both men and women, who have offered to assist in this campaign.

"We sense a big revival of enthusiasm and optimism among city Liberals. This is largely because the Conservative candidate is taking the seat too much for granted."

"The fact that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker seems to be passing up Victoria in his campaign suggests the whole Conservative organization is over-confident where Victoria is concerned."

Alderman E. D. McEwen has been named Social Credit candidate in the election while Victoria CCF has chosen Victor Williams as its candidate.

MONTE ROBERTS

I'm not sure why I like this little story, but I like it.

And it's true.

On Palmerston Avenue, in the city of Toronto, lives an English Spaniel named Patches.

A few blocks away lives a budgie bird named Tinker.

Now, you know about budgie birds. Lovely little companions, pleasant to have around the house, but they are forever getting lost.

This causes distress to everyone but the classified advertising departments of newspapers.

Lost budgie birds are a steady source of revenue for classified advertising departments.

And, to get back to our story, little Tinker became lost one day.

He flew out an open window, to explore the great outdoors, and flew around, enjoying himself hugely.

But then came nightfall, and the night air was chilly, this being Toronto in February.

Tinker, not being used to freedom, became very, very tired, and eventually fell, exhausted, in a hedge.

This is where Patches comes in.

Patches was out on his nightly rounds, patrolling the neighborhood preparatory to turning in for the night.

His sensitive nose picked up Tinker's scent, and Patches went unerringly to the spot where the bird lay.

Patches nosed at the bird, then picked him up in his mouth, very gently.

Then the dog went home, bird in mouth, scratched on the door of his home, and was admitted to the living room.

There he deposited Tinker at the feet of his master.

And the dog's owner, a kindly man, nursed the budgie back to health, located the bird's home—through a classified ad, of course—and returned him.

The end of the story is, Tinker escaped with nothing more than a bad cold, and Patches was heaped with praise.

I know Patches was just doing what comes naturally, he being a bird dog and a retriever by trade, but I like the story, just the same.

Nuclear Power Boom Predicted

Big Development to Come After 1968, Says Expert

Nuclear power development likely will boom in Canada after 1968, scientist Dr. William M. Campbell said at a session at the Empress Hotel today of the Pipe Line Contractors' Association of Canada convention.

"By that time nuclear and coal costs are expected to be equal," he said, "and from then on nuclear costs should be lower and the expansion of nuclear power should take place as rapidly as the demand will justify."

FUEL FAMINE

Dr. Campbell, director of the chemistry and metallurgy division, Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., Chalk River, Ont., said present known supplies of fossil fuels will be exhausted by 2020, and that a fuel famine and price rise will take effect by 1975.

"The need for nuclear power is here and the fuel resources are available, but an economically acceptable method of utilizing it still has to be found," he said.

Nuclear power "in the foreseeable future" will be limited to central station plants where it must compete with oil, gas and coal, he said.

Because of fossil fuel transportation costs, nuclear plants should be built in remote, high-cost areas, he said, but on the other hand they are only economical in large installations and areas of high demand.

"When all these factors were considered it was decided by a committee of private power company engineers that the Ontario hydro-electric system offered the best and earliest chance of meeting economic objectives," he said.

"The system is large and increasing rapidly, financing is favorable to a high capital cost system, and all new power will have to come either from imported coal or nuclear fuel," he said.

DEMONSTRATION

A small demonstration reactor has been planned, and will be ready to begin operation in 1961, he said.

Delegates to the convention, who now total 300 men and 80 women, attended a business meeting this afternoon.

Speakers Saturday will be General James H. Doolittle of the Shell Oil Company who will discuss oil and nuclear fission, and Lance Rumble, General Motors of Canada. Election of officers will take place Saturday afternoon.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

Glen W. Leggeat, 740 Mary, $10 for no muffler on car.

William David Hall, 1119 North Park, $15 for failing to heed police siren.

Charles Edward Hemeon, 1029 Tolmie, $10 for failing to notify motor vehicle branch of change of address.

In Sidney RCMP court today:

Dennis Austin Perry, 201 Oswego, $10 and $5.50 costs for speeding over 30.

Peter Ruzynski, 1710 Bank, $35 and $3.50 costs for speeding over 50, driving restricted to business for one month.

'John D. Special' To Nanaimo

Victoria Conservatives who want to hear Prime Minister John Diefenbaker when he speaks at Nanaimo March 12 will be able to travel there in a special E & N train, returning the same day.

A. DeB. McPhillips, Victoria Conservative candidate, made this announcement Thursday at a meeting of the Women's Conservative Association here.

He said it is not expected the prime minister will visit Victoria but will concentrate his campaigning on the Nanaimo and Comox-Alberni ridings now held by the CCF.

ALL POINTS

To avoid disappointing his Victoria supporters, a train of possibly 10 or 12 cars will leave here March 12 and stop at all points on the way up Island to Nanaimo, picking up other party followers.

The Conservatives are also planning bus transportation for Alberni and Courtenay residents to attend the Nanaimo meeting.

Mr. McPhillips said he hoped Finance Minister Donald Fleming will visit Victoria before the March 31 election.

City Authors Hear Top Story of '57

First-prize story for 1957 of the Victoria and Island branch, Canadian Authors' Association, was read at the general meeting Thursday in the YWCA.

Reading was by the author of "The 29 Hand," H. Wakefield Maunsell.

The "short story" was the subject of a talk by John Williamson, while Mrs. Rona Haddon spoke concerning her first-prize centennial contest play "Blue Dust, Feathers, and Eagle Down." Play production was the subject of another speaker, Mrs. Flora Nicholson, director of St. Luke's Players and the College Players.

ONE OF CANADA'S best known and most widely travelled photographers, Nicholas Morant, will address the Victoria Camera Club March 6 at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Hall, 912 Vancouver Street. Mr. Morant who attended University School here, has seen his camera studies published in the world's leading magazines. His lecture will be open to the public. (CPR Photo.)

SASKATCHEWAN FARMERS LIKE THOSE YULE TREE 'BAUBLES'

Oil wells are Christmas trees in more ways than one for some Saskatchewan farmers, Provincial Trade and Information Minister Russel Brown told delegates to the Pipe Line Contractors' Association in Empress Hotel today.

"We've learned that a collection of pipes and valves at a well head is called a Christmas tree. A farmer who owns mineral rights and has one of those things pulsing on his land finds the name appropriate indeed."

However, he pointed out that oil, natural gas and pipelines rank second to wheat in the economy of Saskatchewan.

HISTORY REVIEW

Firemen Plan Color Entry In Parade

Greater Victoria's 235 firemen plan a two-block-long historical entry in the Victoria Day parade, May 19.

City council finance committee today voted up to $300 to assist in purchase of old-time uniform red shirts, false beards, where necessary, and rental of horses.

The men will depict 100 years of advancement in firefighting.

The firemen's association plans to enter hand-drawn vehicles and horse-drawn vehicles, but notes ". . . this year everyone is after horses."

MISS FIRE FIGHTER

There will be mechanized units, old time and modern, and a float depicting the firefighting of the future. Miss Fire Fighter of 1958 will be chosen to ride on the float.

Vancouver Firemen's Band will lead the firemen's entry and altogether 20 units will march.

Fire chief James Bayliss told the committee he had no objection to firemen growing beards for the event, provided they kept them after they started them.

$5,000 Grant From City Council Sought by Chamber of Commerce

Victoria Chamber of Commerce today asked city council for a grant of $5,000 to help carry on its work during the coming year.

The request was referred to the committee on estimates.

In a brief presented by president Hugh Stephen and directors Conway Parrott and Forrest L. Shaw, the chamber pointed out its work is "very much of benefit to the entire community."

"It is a fact that the Chamber is already carrying out work above and beyond that which is of benefit solely to its own members," the brief stated.

For several years prior to 1957, the city made an annual grant of $2,000 to the Chamber for industrial promotion. This grant was suspended last spring.

In asking for a renewed, and enlarged grant, the chamber brief said its work included supplying information to the public, with 40 or more letters and telephone enquiries answered daily.

The brief also said that industrial promotion should be receiving more attention.

"While new industries are very much to be desired, an equally important part of industrial promotion lies in assisting industries already here . . . we are suggesting a moderate program aimed at helping both new and established industries."

The brief also suggested there is need for more attention to be given to that work which is usually handled by a Better Business Bureau.

"Until fairly recently, our Chamber handled complaints and inquiries of this kind but found that these activities had to be sharply curtailed."

The brief emphasized that such work is the province of a Better Business Bureau, and that the Chamber would welcome a bureau here.

"However, there is no indication of any action to set one up, and our Chamber is still the place the consumer turns to in his efforts to obtain redress."

Ker Family Buys Scollard Building

Sale of the Scollard Building, reputedly the largest real estate transaction in the city's history, was announced today by the real estate firm of Ker and Stephenson.

President of the firm, Col. Russell Ker, said the building, second only to the Yarrow Building in size in Victoria, has been purchased by the family from the Scollard estate.

While he would not pinpoint the sale price, Col. Ker said: "It was in the $500,000 class."

Negotiations have been under way through his firm for six months.

The Ker family, which also owns the Jones building, plans no changes in operation of its new property. It will be managed through the firm.

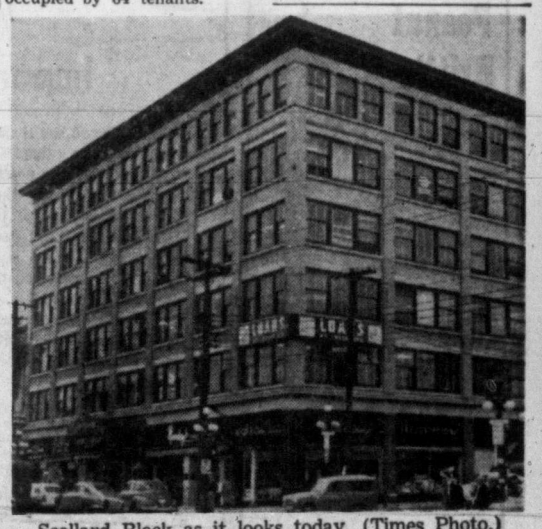

BUILT IN 1912

The building, located on Douglas at View, was built around 1912 by Joseph Sayward of the then-operating Sayward Mills. It was sold to George F. Scollard in the 1930s for an estimated $105,000.

Mr. Scollard died in his 86th year in 1956 at his Vancouver home.

The Scollard Building is chiefly given over to insurance, doctors and dentist offices. The main floor includes a jewelry store, a drug store, a shoe store, dress shop, cafe and barber.

The basement is storage for a furniture dealer. There are five storeys in the building, which measures 120 by 80 feet and has 50,000 square feet of floor area. It is 100 per cent occupied by 64 tenants.

ASK The TIMES

Q. I have a small English coin, half-penny value, dated 1839. Is this worth anything? E.B.

A. At the best, five cents.

Q. I have a coin, it looks like 1858 and is a 50-cent piece with a picture of Queen Victoria on it. Is it of any value? K.L.

A. It has no collector's value. In your letter, you say it is badly worn. It is probably an 1888 piece from Newfoundland. Few coins are worth anything if not in good condition.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

DON'T BE AN INDIAN GIVER

We received at Christmas an aquarium stocked with tropical fish. It was a gift from a company that does business for my husband. After a while, we decided we did not want it. A repair man, who came to the house, admired it so I gave it to him. Since then, I purchased some white mice and have been told the best place to keep them would be in an aquarium. Could I ask this man to return it?

Louise Davis

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

I think that your conscience bothers you or you wouldn't have written this letter. A gift is a gift for keeps, regardless of who receives it or regardless of the circumstances. So the answer is don't think of it. You are aware that the repair man was delighted with the aquarium. He never dreamed that it would be his when he expressed his admiration for it. Think of his disappointment in giving it up and, furthermore, you can be sure that his regard for you would hit a low level. If the repair man should return the aquarium and keep the fish, you would be putting him to the inconvenience of acquiring another. He probably would have to purchase one. Surely you can easily improvise a container for your mice.

"WIDOWHOOD" The Lonely Road

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

This is the ninth in a series of articles frankly written in order to be of service to the four out of five wives who one day will face widowhood.

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

CHAPTER 9

"What on earth was she so unhappy about last week at this time?" the widow wonders as she surveys the suddenly changed world around her following the death of her husband.

Wilson

How trivial, how unimportant these things are in comparison to her new scheme of things.

As I sat sleepless in the silence of the dark house one wee hour I recalled my husband's annoyances the week before he left us.

A loose tooth . . . was he going to lose them all? Something had gone wrong with one of his contracts. The boss had been surly. We were going to need a new car. How was he going to find the time to finish his utility room?

Now it didn't matter about the loose tooth, the contract, the boss, the car or the utility room. He had wasted a lot of valuable energy fretting needlessly.

You become so embroiled in your own small orbit of activities that you forget there is only so much you can do to direct your future. Then death teaches you how infinitesimal you are in the over-all scheme of things.

IMPORTANT LESSON

The important lesson the widow learns is that no matter how great she thinks her troubles are, these are small in comparison to others she could have, or that someone else has now.

All she can do is the best with today and let tomorrow take care of itself. While she is busy with today's problems the nagging ones she sees in the future may be dissipating themselves away.

In particular does this apply to the widow of small children who is often overwhelmed by looking at the present and the future at the same time.

Should she go home to her parents and let them assist in rearing her children while she works?

Should she work, or get by on her present finances and stay at home with the children?

How will her youngsters be cared for if she takes a job? Will they grow into delinquents without the firm voice and hand of a father?

EASY AT FIRST

She should ask one question in relation to most of her problems. Will she be giving up her children?

Going home to the parents is an easy way in the beginning, sometimes the hardest in the end.

It enables the widow to take a job and at the same time be assured her youngsters are receiving loving care throughout the day from grandparents.

But taking them away from familiar friends and surroundings is difficult for all but the very young. Too often the widow is so tired after a long day and so grateful for her mother's help that she interferes less and less in the children's training.

The result in many instances is that grandmother rears two separate families while the widow loses the rich experience of being loved as a mother, of sharing her children's days of growing up.

THE HOUSEKEEPER

A similar situation can develop in the case of a live-in housekeeper, if she can find one that is ever willing to stay that long.

Rather than confuse her children with too many commanders she may be tempted to accede to the housekeeper's commands even during the few hours she is at home. Soon she is a mere visitor in her own house.

Young mothers with babies can board together in certain homes where child care is provided while she works during the day. Or she can stay home and get by somehow on whatever insurance she may have, as well as social security.

Unless she can make a great deal more than $30 a week she will be better off not working until her children are more self-sufficient.

Having struggled with almost all types of child care while employed, I am convinced now that some form of nursery school where children are cared for through a mother's working day is the best.

Again, this is the hard way. The day is long for mother who must arouse and dress and breakfast her children at an early hour, move at a hectic pace getting them ready in time for someone to pick them up, or drop them off there herself.

She must fret about getting home before they arrive at night, or make arrangements for a neighbor to take her children until she does get there.

BABY SITTERS

If she must go out for any reason, she must have a supply of reliable baby sitters. Besides, she must, amidst a heavy schedule of housework, meals and time devoted to her job find time for simply enjoying her children.

Sometimes, after bathing and tucking in the last child, it seems like too much.

But the family remains a closely knit family. The members learn that everyone must do his part even at that early age. In the nursery school there is trained supervision, and play equipment a widow might not be able to afford, and companionship with others their own age.

Children in nursery school adjust better to elementary school when the time comes.

In a good school their days are full, constructive and fun. At home there is a togetherness that is worth the rat race.

A widow with children does not really have more problems than one without them. She has something she loves to keep her thinking of the years ahead, not behind.

In her children she still has her husband. She sees him always in a likeness, a personality trait, an expression of speech.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For High Forehead Try Wearing Bangs

(The Friday Question Box)

Q.—"I have a round face but a very high forehead. What style hairdo would be most becoming?"

A.—When the face is round the hair should have height on top. However, since you have a high forehead I think one of the bang styles which gives height and covers a bit of the forehead would be best.

Q.—"I am 22 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 125 pounds. My bust measures 32 inches, waist 24 and hips 39. I feel that I am out of proportion. What is wrong with my measurements?"

A.—Your hips are too large for your other measurements. Take hip slimming exercises for a loss of a few inches. Your weight is correct.

Q.—"I have two children, a boy, three, and a girl one month old. My waist measured 22 inches before my first child. Then it went to 24. That didn't worry me very much, but after this child my waist measures 29 inches. Please help me! Is it true that your waist will have to be much larger after you have children? I hope not!"

A.—Your second child is so young that you have not yet had the opportunity to get yourself back in shape. There is no permanent change in the bone structure after childbirth. Extra pounds and lax abdominal muscles will of course give you a larger waistline. If you have gained weight, which I guess you have, begin dieting and exercising as soon as your physician says that you can. Many women have children and keep the same measurements.

Q.—"I am 5 feet 3½ inches tall and weigh 100 pounds. My bust measures 30 inches, waist 23 and hips 33. I think I don't weigh enough and that my bust is too small. Could you help me?"

A.—You are very much underweight. Even with a small build you should gain around 20 pounds. This will fill out your bust. You also should take exercises to increase your bust measurement.

Q.—"I have large legs. Should I wear hose with seams or seamless ones. Which would be more becoming?"

A.—Hose with seams make the legs look slimmer.

Q.—"Please tell me how to make cold cream at home."

A.—Buy some cosmetic lanolin. Add olive oil until the mixture goes on the face smoothly.

Q.—"I am 5 feet 9½ inches tall and weigh 167 pounds. I have a very large frame. Am I overweight?"

A.—If you have a very large frame, you are very little, if any, overweight.

Q.—"I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 101 pounds. I am 14 and a freshman in high school. My friends tell me I am skinny and have named me all sorts of things such as "Toothpick." Am I really underweight?"

A.—Yes. Even with a small frame you should gain some—from five to 10 pounds.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—A dramatic last-rock take-out shot by skip Tom Todd gave Northern Ontario a 7-6 victory over Prince Edward Island today to establish the Fort William rink as the favorite to sweep the 1958 Canadian high school curling championship.

The 10th-round win gave Northern Ontario an 8-1 win-lost record. Prince Edward Island dropped to second place with seven wins and two losses.

Wounded Bandit Jailed 11 Years

TORONTO (CP)—Clifford William Smith, 38, shot in the neck by an RCMP constable during the $4,000 armed holdup of a downtown Toronto bank Jan. 31, was sentenced today to 11 years in prison.

SUDAN DISPUTE HOISTED

Egypt, Syria Merge, Nasser President

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Egypt announced today that it has agreed to postpone settlement of its border dispute with the Sudan until after the Sudanese elections of Feb. 27.

The announcement came as voters in Syria and Egypt cast ballots on the plan to merge their two countries into the United Arab Republic and elect Gamal Abdel Nasser president. The vote was large in both countries and there was no doubt the merger was approved and Nasser elected.

The official Egyptian position was disclosed just hours before the United Nations Security Council was to meet in New York to consider the Sudan's charge of "impending Egyptian aggression." The Sudan made its charge because of Egyptian efforts to include the disputed frontier areas in the plebiscite.

In its statement, Egypt again denied that it had military forces on its southern border with the Sudan, "Apart from normal frontier patrols." It noted that its armed forces have been built up not "to invade the Sudan but to help it stand up to the common enemy."

U.K. Missile Gets Highest Priority

LONDON (Reuters)—Highest priority was announced today for work on a British ballistic missile as the United Kingdom's main future "nuclear deterrent."

Air Minister George Ward said in the annual air estimates that meanwhile Britain's present deterrent power has been "greatly increased" as a result of her successful hydrogen bomb program and the current build-up in high-speed multi-jet bombers.

The estimates ask £467,000,000 ($1,307,000,000) for the coming financial year, a reduction of £20,000,000 from last year.

Ward said Britain's "ability to reinforce the Western deterrent will be increased by the acceptance of U.S. intermediate-range ballistic missiles." Agreement on bases in Britain for these missiles is expected to be announced next week.

Fifty Planes Searching For Aircraft; Flares Seen

HALIFAX (CP)—The search for a missing United States Navy plane with 22 men aboard was intensified today after lights were sighted in the Atlantic near where it disappeared.

Fifty planes joined in criss-crossing the area 600 miles east of Newfoundland where the lights were seen.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Yakatat said a red flare was seen Thursday night about 400 miles north of the plane's last position. Early today a U.S. Air Force plane reported seeing small lights on the surface of the ocean about 150 miles from where the flare was sighted.

Portuguese, Canadian and U.S. aircraft joined in the search. U.S. aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, a cruiser and 16 destroyers also took part. The carrier sent 17 planes into the hunt.

The four-engined Super-Constellation disappeared Thursday on a radar patrol flight from Argentia, Nfld., to the Azores.

IN COMA 21 MONTHS

Faith Healer For Dr. Steel

By PETE LOUDON

A noted London medical specialist and faith healer, Dr. Christopher Woodard, will arrive in Victoria Saturday to attempt to revive Dr. Anne Steel from a 21-month coma.

A Harley Street specialist, Dr. Woodard, told the Times from Vancouver today:

"I'm not seeking to command God to heal her or bring her out of her coma, but to come as an act of faith, because I believe God can heal any sickness at any time."

It is understood, Dr. Woodard was brought here by Dr. Steel's mother, Mrs. C. I. Cookes, 1560 Despard.

Mrs. Cookes was in bed with flu today and unable to comment.

A friend of the family said Mrs. Cookes had exchanged several letters with Dr. Woodard.

Dr. Woodard said his "doctor patient" was the "main thing that brought me here," but he is combining his visit with a lecture tour. He speaks in Vancouver tonight, and has five speaking engagements here between Sunday and Wednesday.

He said regarding Dr. Steel, "I'm likely to see her quite a lot."

He said also he welcomes the prayers of people in Victoria in his task; "if we believe, we shall see our belief fulfilled."

BRAIN INJURY

Dr. Steel suffered a brain injury May 16, 1956, when her horse fell on her during a vacation near Osoyoos, B.C. She was riding with her children, Phillipa and Tony, at the time.

Surgery was performed by a top Victoria brain specialist, Dr. John E. Harvey, but despite every treatment, she has never regained consciousness at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Dr. Steel is 38. She was born in Scotland and graduated from Edinburgh University, later taking a Canadian medical degree at Vancouver and interning at St. Joseph's Hospital.

She was in practice here eight years prior to her accident and was in partnership with Dr. Charlotte Dohan. Dr. Steel's husband, Philip, is a school teacher.

Dr. Woodard arrives here by air at noon Saturday. He is a graduate of Trinity College, Cambridge. His great grandfather was founder of the famous Woodard Schools in England.

Victoria Lessons in Living Group and interdenominational religious study group of Victoria told The Times:

Free-for-All As Whitbys Top U.S. 9-2

OSLO, Norway (CP)—A wild free-for-all broke out in the second period of an exhibition hockey game between the Canadian and United States world hockey entrants today as players and spectators swarmed onto the ice and traded punches.

Canada won the game by a score of 9 to 2.

The outbreak started near the Canadian net with Canada leading 4-1. Bill Christian of the U.S. skated in on the goal and was grabbed by George Gosselin. They started wrestling and two Norwegian policemen jumped over the boards to separate the combatants.

A group of Norwegian fans swarmed onto the ice and around the penalty box. One fan was arrested after he punched Gosselin in the face.

Indonesian Planes Hit Rebel Town

SINGAPORE (AP)—Padang radio said tonight two Indonesian Air Force planes this morning dropped seven bombs on the town of Parnau, about 45 miles south of Padang.

The broadcast from the rebel regime's stronghold on Sumatra said the bombs fell near a mosque where villagers were going to pray. The bombing was reported one hour after President Sukarno threw his support to the determination of Premier Djuanda's government to crush the rebels.

No casualties were reported. The broadcast also said a bridge at Saledo also was machine-gunned by attacking planes.

OUSTER DEMANDED

The rebels, who are demanding the ouster of Djuanda, have shown nervousness over the possibilities of air attack.

Padang broadcasts have carried repeated warnings to the people of central Sumatra to prepare for aerial blows from the small central government's air force.

The government destroyer Gadja Mada and some corvettes appeared off Padang Thursday in blockade position.

The rebel regime has neither planes nor warships.

In Jakarta, President Sukarno rejected an ultimatum from Sumatra and called for action to eliminate the rebel government.

SIR WINSTON IMPROVES; PNEUMONIA 'RESOLVING'

ROQUEBRUNE CAP MARTIN, France (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's physician today reported "a very definite improvement" in his condition.

The daily medical bulletin this afternoon said there are signs that the 83-year-old statesman's pneumonia is resolving. It added that his progress is so far satisfactory.

Court Told Of 'Dinging'

(See Also Page 12)

(Special to The Times)

VANCOUVER—Charles Eversfield, chief crown witness in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy hearing, testified today that his former boss, H. W. Gray, kept him informed on details in connection with an alleged three-way split of certain funds.

The 46-year-old former bookkeeper of Pacific Coast Services Ltd. testified that Mr. Gray, president of Pacific, gave him details of "the whole picture" in instructing him about funds that were to be retained for former Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers.

He recalled one instance when Mr. Gray returned from meeting Mr. Sommers in Victoria and remarked: "I am in charge of the dinging department" or words to that effect.

He said there was no explanation by Gray of the remark.

"Is that a slang word or what," asked Magistrate Oscar Orr. "Spell it out."

The witness spelled the word dinging but said he didn't know what it meant.

The crown this morning completed its examination of Eversfield, now on the stand for the fourth day in the preliminary hearing of charges against Mr. Sommers, three other individuals and four companies.

DEFENCE PROTESTS

The Crown alleges that Mr. Sommers received considerations to a total of more than $15,000 in a conspiracy involving the issuance of certain forest management licences.

Cross examination of Eversfield by the battery of eight defence counsel was to begin this afternoon. During the morning the defence repeatedly objected that prosecutor Stewart McMorran was asking Eversfield leading questions.

Under questioning Eversfield said he knew of no work done by Pacific for the monies it received from various sources.

The Crown charges that some of these funds were split three ways between Pacific, the C. D. Schultz Co. Ltd. and Mr. Sommers while he was minister. Sommers resigned his portfolio in 1955 but still sits in the legislature as a private member.

'WRONG MAN' GOT PRIZE' —PEARSON

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Lester B. Pearson said with tongue in cheek today that he may have to suggest to the Nobel prize committee that they gave the 1957 peace prize to the wrong man.

He was referring to a speech by Transport Minister Hees at Fort William, Ont., Thursday. Mr. Hees claimed the Liberal leader got the prize by taking as his own a proposal by Prime Minister Diefenbaker that the United Nations set up a police force in the Middle East.

"Yes, I saw that report," Mr. Pearson said.

Perhaps I may suggest in my speech tonight that the Progressive Conservatives nominate Mr. Diefenbaker for the 1958 peace prize. Or perhaps the Nobel committee ought to be told they gave the award to the wrong man.

Ike Cables Winnie

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower today sent a telegram to Sir Winston Churchill expressing pleasure at his progress in recovering from pneumonia and pleurisy and that the Eisenhowers are looking forward to seeing Sir Winston in Washington in April.

Sir Winston has accepted an invitation to stay at the White House in April when an exhibition of his paintings is scheduled to be shown in Washington.

10-Point Platform Outlined by Chief

EDMONTON (CP)—Social Credit Leader Solon Low today outlined a 10-point election program placing first emphasis on basic Social Credit monetary policies.

"The present economy demands reforms," he said at a press conference, in outlining a program that he said was "hammered out" by three regional conferences in Ottawa, Vancouver and Brandon, Man.

Central point of the monetary program would be "a directive to a finance commission and the Bank of Canada" to keep in balance the effective purchasing power in the hands of the people with the value of the wanted goods and services available for sale.

"This would maintain dollar-for-dollar value and coupled with other measures end the boom-and-bust cycle."

The Social Credit program also proposed an immediate "objective" investigation of the tax structure to eliminate discriminatory taxes and reduce consumer prices.

Other points:

Social Credit would establish a "partnership principle" between federal and provincial conferences to ensure just sharing of available revenue. More university scholarships would be provided.

Long-term credit and reasonable interest rates would be given small business so they could compete with larger concerns.

Unemployment would be relieved by a large-scale federal project to build storage facilities for farm surpluses until they could be sold.

Old age pensions and disability payments would be commensurate with individuals' need and the amount of money available. Social Credit would not "try to outbid the other fellow."

Mr. Low said Canada would accept foreign currencies in return for its farm products. Farm policy would include low cost, long-term loans to farmers for general purposes, and cash advances against farm-stored grain on a minimum of six bushels an acre. A two price system would be established for farm products, at parity prices for those sold on the domestic market. Products would be sold abroad at the best prices obtainable, but supported at levels which ensured the farmer a fair share of national income.

Grain growers would have the right to deliver grain to the elevator of their choice and flax and rye would be brought under the Canadian wheat board marketing system.

An all-risk national crop insurance act would be instituted. Social Credit financial policy would make available money for home building at lower interest rates and smaller down payments.

Angry Moves Hit Tunisian Peace Hopes

TUNIS (AP) — More angry moves by the Tunisian government and French troops have clouded prospects for British-American efforts to conciliate the North African dispute.

Tunisia pulled five French consuls out of their posts and hurried them to Tunis, enforcing a "get out" order by President Habib Bourguiba that had lain dormant for 10 days.

Storm of Criticism Hits Selwyn Lloyd

LONDON (CP)—The reputation of Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd stands at a low point today, leading to renewed speculation about his political future.

Newspapers of left and right are equally harsh in their appraisals of Lloyd's speech in Thursday's House of Commons debate on foreign affairs. Words like "flop," "fiasco" and "disaster" are freely used. The Times calls his speech "one of his more inept performances."

A common interpretation is that the speech was so barren—there was silence on the Conservative benches when he sat down — that Prime Minister Macmillan decided at the last moment to wind up the debate himself and try to restore some of the bipartisan spirit which prevailed in the opening stages.

This is the second time that Lloyd's removal has been widely predicted. The first was after Sir Anthony Eden's resignation as prime minister 13 months ago in the aftermath of the Suez invasion, but Eden's successor, Macmillan, kept Lloyd in the foreign-policy post.

EGGS, TOMATOES, FLOUR THROWN

Duke, Cabinet Minister Pelted By Scottish University Students

GLASGOW, Scotland (BUP) — Glasgow University undergraduates pelted Britain's Home Secretary R. A. Butler with eggs, tomatoes and toilet rolls, and sprayed him with a fire extinguisher at his installation as Lord Rector of Glasgow today.

Thursday, the Duke of Edinburgh smilingly underwent a similar bombardment at Edinburgh University where, as Chancellor, he was robing actor James Robertson Justice, as the new rector there.

Today, more than 2,000 students packed St. Andrews hall at the university for more than an hour before Butler's arrival.

The riots started when Butler was on the platform being robed. Two ripe tomatoes squelched against his chest, and he made no movement to remove the mess.

As he began to speak the students rained firecrackers, flour bombs, eggs and toilet roll streamers onto the platform.

Trumpets blared, and the continuous cheering and catcalling drowned Butler's words.

Within 10 minutes, every person sitting on or near the platform had been hit.

A huge, solid cabbage heaved from the gallery, hit a photographer on the head. He was carried unconscious from the hall.

Several college professors walked out of the hall a few minutes after the installation started, commenting "disgusting, "just hooliganism" or "really the worst."

Shortly before the end of the ceremony a male student sprayed Butler with a fire extinguisher. Butler, his clothes soaked and stained, ignored the attack and carried on with his speech.

Several robed professors walked out.

Then a fight broke out in the gallery, and one student was pulled back after he almost fell over the gallery rail.

As Butler ended his speech a flour bomb burst in his face. He sat down.

Almost immediately university principal Sir Hector Hetherington signalled for the national anthem.

Outside dozens of police stood by to break up the massed students milling around waiting for the home secretary to appear.

NORMAN CRIBBENS
IN THE LEGISLATURE

In Victoria, it is said, everything stops for tea. And the habit seems to be catching on in the Legislature, even among MLAs from those fast-moving places where they haven't time for such frivolities.

Noticing a drift towards the restaurant Thursday afternoon, Arthur Turner, the fatherly CCF member for Vancouver East, broke off his speech and said:

"If the government members want to go to tea, I will address the Liberals first."

"Thank you," smiled Premier Bennett. "But before we go, I would like to hear some of those constructive ideas you have promised us."

At which George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) looked up eagerly and asked:

"Can we go and have OUR tea then?"

"Certainly," bowed Mr. Turner in the manner of an olde English tea shoppe proprietor.

"How long will you be polishing off the government?"

"About 20 minutes."

"Thank you—you are very accommodating."

The two Liberal members — Mr. Gregory and Archie Gibbs —then left the House amid laughter.

★ ★ ★

Just before the Liberal tea break, Mr. Turner advised the government to throw away a cracked old record it had been playing since 1951—that nothing constructive ever comes from the CCF.

"It's getting a bit scratchy," murmured CCF leader Bob Strachan.

"We give you many constructive suggestions," pursued Mr. Turner, "but you never acknowledge them."

He said when the B.C. Socreds came to power in 1952 they were shrewd enough to catch up with a backlog of public projects that had been shelved, ignored and bypassed.

"As a result you have won a lot of favor in this province."

He added that the government had lots of money to spend on these things and there was no trick to spending money.

A famous statesman, he said, always carried around a pocketful of dimes to give to children.

"It was a nice gesture but nothing to what he had taken off their fathers in taxes," Mr. Turner said.

Premier Bennett led the applause when Mr. Turner decared the test of a government was whether it could function as well in not-so-good times as in good times.

"Those are wise words," said the premier.

The CCF veteran wouldn't be put off with these equivocations. He said prominent Canadian financiers had warned them the boom would not last.

"As this government did," said the premier, de rmined to have the last word.

★ ★ ★

After many years as an MP in Ottawa, debonair Harold Winch returned to the House where he began his political career as CCF member for Vancouver East in the hungry 30s.

Mr. Winch sat on the floor of the House as a guest and, in welcoming him, CCF Leader Strachan said it was ironical he could not address the assembly.

Associating himself with the welcome, Premier Bennett said he had always admired the skill and knowledge Mr. Winch brought to debate.

tice of opening each consultation with prayer, and uses his belief in the power of prayer in conjunction with his medical practice, to prove that Christ still heals today."

He is author of three books, "A Doctor Heals by Faith," "A Doctor's Faith Holds Fast," and "A Doctor's Faith Is Challenged."

"His great aim is to found centres in various places where there can be complete co-operation between doctors and clergy."

ABSOLUTE POWER

In such centres "the whole staff believes in the absolute power of Christ to heal all disease."

The Lessons for Living Group adds: "It is hoped that as many doctors as possible will take the opportunity of meeting with him for a friendly discussion, while he is in Victoria."

His address tonight in Vancouver will be at Collingwood United Church. After an indeterminate stay in Victoria, he also plans to speak in Seattle.

In Victoria, Dr. Woodard will preach at St. John's Church Sunday morning and at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday evening. The morning service at St. John's will be broadcast for benefit of shut-ins.

Monday he will speak at 8 p.m. at First Baptist Church and Tuesday at 8 p.m. to the Lessons In Living Groups at St. John's.

Wednesday night at 8, Dr. Woodard will again be heard at St. John's.

Physician Nominated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Lyon Ward, a Vancouver physician, was nominated on Thursday night as Liberal candidate for the Vancouver Centre seat held by former defence minister Ralph Campney until his defeat in the June 10 election. Mr. Campney did not stand for renomination.

'Dirty, Despicable Thing,' Says Winch

Greater Victoria got off to an old-fashioned, name-calling, arm-waving, hot-under-the-collar federal election campaign Thursday night with a guest appearance by the CCF's most fiery advocate, Harold Winch.

Mr. Winch, 50, MP for Vancouver East, exhorted an overflow audience of 250 at Douglas CCF Hall, to throw down the Liberals and Conservatives and start thinking about ". . . who owns Canada."

He accused Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of ". . . one of the most dirty, despicable things in the political history of Canada," in his sudden dissolution of government.

He said the dissolution meant the freedom of the cabinet to spend $1,300,000,000.

"When the new parliament meets, your members can't do a thing about it. Mr. Diefenbaker can thumb his nose at parliament. You think Bennett is arrogant, and so do I, but Mr. Diefenbaker can give him lessons."

Mr. Winch compared it to the dissolution of the B.C. legislature by the minority Social Credit government in 1952. In both cases, he said, opposition parties had pledged and given co-operation.

He said "Dief the Chief" on the final day attacked the parties which had supported him, and then usurped the rights of Parliament.

"When the opposition leaders got up to speak, Diefenbaker said "Parliament is dissolved, sit down." He denied the right of any member to speak except himself. You don't have to take my word for it. Get a copy of Hansard.

"Yet, last year, during the pipelines debate, Mr. Diefenbaker promised to return the rights of Parliament."

Mr. Winch blasted the Conservatives for promising $500,000,000 in tax cuts then creating tax reductions of $178,000,000.

He said the Conservatives promised to pay half the cost of tubercular and mental hospitals, but later in office said such costs would be deducted from financial payments to the provinces.

He said that contrary to Canadian law, Canadian natural gas sells at 22 cents a unit in the U.S. and 32 cents in Canada.

"The Canadian consumer is subsidizing the Americans."

He attacked mortgage vendors—department stores which take 54 per cent above purchase prices in interest and charges, small loan operators who take 24 per cent on loans in a year, house mortgagors who take 15½ per cent interest.

"It's going on in Victoria . . . and the government says it's good business."

And finally, he warned against Canada . . . "becoming the Belgium of a new world war."

"I think this might be possible if there is a blind following of John Foster Dulles whom I consider to be one of the most dangerous men in world diplomacy today."

He said Canada should take the lead in opposing a diplomacy of "antagonism and insult."

Speaking on the "economic crisis of Canada today," he said

"You hear the Conservatives blaming the Liberals and the Liberals blaming the Conservatives. It's like two little boys arguing over who broke the window. They both know they both did it, because they both stand for the same system."

There just have to be more schools

Right now, over 3 million children are registered at elementary and secondary schools in Canada. During the next 10 years enrollment will grow to at least 4 million. Accordingly, many new schools will have to be built.

The financing of new schools is undertaken by school boards and municipalities with Provincial Government assistance, and they usually issue debentures in order to spread the cost over a period of years.

Life Insurance Companies have supplied a large part of these funds and today they hold 25% of all outstanding municipal bonds in Canada. Thus, part of the money paid by you in Life Insurance premiums may return to your community to help build schools for your children.

Such investments by the Life Insurance Companies in Canada on behalf of their policyholders contribute to Canada's growth and progress, important to everyone.

ON THE TIMES — By ART STOTT

Small Hunk of Canadian Life

THE other night the Y's camp committee members were outlining plans for the summer season at Glinz Lake.

They're going to have to put up an extra sleeping hut and are planning to use a couple of tents with standard wood bases. They have to. So many more youngsters want to go to Camp Thunderbird than it can hold, the committee feels it can't keep turning them away.

Stott

So, with the added accommodation, they'll be able to cut down on the number of kids who are disappointed because they're on a waiting list and no vacancies occur.

The idea of putting some of the older boys under canvas instead of huts appealed to me. I think it will appeal to the youngsters, too.

I can't explain the difference. But have you ever drunk cold water from a tin dipper fresh-filled from a bucket at a spring, instead of from a glass filled at a tap? If you have, you'll understand the point I'm too inarticulate to make.

PART OF CANADIAN LIFE

I think of the camp at Glinz Lake and I think the youngsters who can't be housed are losing a part of Canadian life they should have provided for them.

A week or 10 days at Camp Thunderbird doesn't convert a kid into a woodsman. Living under competent camp supervisors in ready-made shelter and eating balanced and regular meals prepared by cooks, is a far cry from the life of a pioneer. But there's a certain touch of the outdoors about it that remains in spite of the changes man and the years have made.

Small boys who go to Glinz Lake lay aside a lot of infancy there. They come back, generally, filled with a burgeoning self-reliance which stems from their ability to get along with the other guys, to stand their share of physical activity, even work, and to be persons in their own right.

A year or two ago a young man of my acquaintance told me about picking his youngster up at the Y following a period in camp. The boy was well tanned, slightly trail worn and exuberantly enthusiastic about his friends and their activities. The son was bubbling over with experiences at camp as he and his father walked out of the Y building onto the sidewalk.

"When we came to the curb," the father told me, "I reached down to catch his hand, as I'd always done when we were crossing the street downtown.

"There wasn't any hand outstretched to me. The youngster was too busy looking out for himself before stepping onto the street. My son wasn't a little boy any more. It shocks you a little, but it's a good way to be shocked."

A LITTLE STURDIER

It seems to me that most young campers come back slightly changed. They're a little sturdier in spirit, mind and body for the influence of living with their peers and depending on themselves to hold their end up.

And it seems to me that a lot of energetic men who plan and help develop the camp have that in mind when they give their time to the job.

Of course it's satisfying to be part of an organization handling a project that is bound to be a success. The record of the camp for years has virtually guaranteed enjoyment for the boys who go there in the future. The surroundings are right, the facilities are good, and the campers are still close enough to nature to draw automatic benefits.

But I think too that the men on the committee aren't moved solely by their desire to be part of a good show. They're more likely thinking, in a very private way, of their own experiences.

They probably recall long days of hot sun by the swimming hole, minutes idly passed lying under a tree and watching clouds float overhead, the quick excitement of a plunge and race in the water, the forest quiet as they walked a path between big trees, the taste of clean air almost twinkling in the morning sun, the song of the cicada on breathless afternoons, the subdued and strengthening period of devotion about the evening camp fire—of a dozen experiences and incidents that make camp.

They're pitching in now, preparing for next summer in the belief that these are things young boys here should enjoy, as they enjoyed them in earlier years.

It's a pretty good belief, and a pretty good reason for giving their time to the camp committee.

UN CORRESPONDENCE — By STANLEY BURKE

Genius by Force

NEW YORK—What's the explanation for German missile genius? Why were there 110 German scientists heading up the team which launched the American Explorer satellite? Why are Germans perhaps equally responsible—in spite of Russian denials—for Soviet successes?

This isn't the sort of information you might expect to be coming out of the UN but the fact is that disarmament specialists must also be well informed on weapons.

They tell me that the Germans became expert rocketeers for the same reason as the Russians—they had to.

It all started when the Luftwaffe lost the Battle of Britain, with Berlin making it evident that the Fatherland was not the invincible fortress Goebbels said it was.

Burke

Ultimately the Luftwaffe striking force was destroyed and the Germans had to build again. They decided to abandon bombers, where the Allies had crushing superiority and to try for the ultimate weapon. And, of course, they came frighteningly close to succeeding.

The Russians faced a similar situation when the war was over. They too lacked an air striking force and they lacked worldwide experience in aerial operation built up by Western nations in both peace and war.

LOGICAL DECISION

(It's said that when the Russians were heading for the last Geneva Summit Conference they got lost and had to land to find out where they were. This is possible but the Russians today certainly know where they're going in space.)

In 1945 the Russians seized about half the German rocket scientists and so they made the logical decision to become rocketeers.

The United States and Britain for equally logical reasons, stayed with bombers and got a lot of military mileage, literally and figuratively, out of them. The decisive weapon for 13 years, they'll continue supreme for another year or two and a potent weapon for many years. This is why weapons men say that the public often over-estimates the fearsome, awe-inspiring missiles and under-estimates the old bomber plodding along at 800 or a thousand miles an hour.

The fact is that the U.S. Strategic Air Command can destroy all major targets in Russia several times over. Their bases could be Pearl Harbored, of course but some of SAC's bombers are in the air day and night and of course new bases are being built to make the force less vulnerable to surprise attack.

SAC will remain potent until Russian air defence have become almost 100 per cent effective. A 10 per cent "chop rate" was considered high in the Second World War and to the layman it seems almost inconceivable that anything like 100 per cent would be possible but militarists say it is. It's worth noting that the Russians already have several times as many air defence radars in operation around their long borders as the United States has.

Getting back to missiles, the defencemen tell me that the most astonishing procedure of radio monitoring must be undertaken before each missile is launched. This is necessary because a chance transmission on one of the missile's frequencies might have disastrous effects. Presumably a missile could even be detonated by some radio operator hundreds of miles away.

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

Frogs in Full Cry—Sure Sign!

Tuesday night the frogs were in full cry, so sure a sign of spring that housewives will do well to rush the annual upheaval called spring cleaning.

Hilda

There will be so much to do in the garden during the next three months that the house will then have to take care of itself, but during the ordeal of cleaning and planting, it is pleasant to know that a few moments break may be spent in the garden at a small useful task.

A number of shrubs need pruning now, among them the hardy fuchsia, southernwood (Artemisia abrotanum), Spiraea bumalda Anthony Waterer (the pink summer flowering spiraea), shrubby hypericums (St. John's Wort), Leycesteria formosa (which has a host of pet names such as Chinese Honeysuckle, Granny's Curls, Flowering Nutmeg) and Nandina domestica (the Sacred Bamboo).

The fuchsia may be cut to within a few inches of the soil. Remove all dead or weak growth.

Southernwood may be kept to a low growing well-shaped shrub by cutting back all growth to about one foot. Abundant new shoots grow from the lower part of each stem.

The summer flowering spiraeas which are usually pink in color, may be pruned drastically now, also remove all weak twiggy growth. Flowers come on new stems grown during spring and early summer.

The lovely yellow flowered hypericums which put on their show around midsummer also benefit from having the end of every stem cut.

New York State on Emergency Basis From Snow, Hunger, Cold

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The entire state of New York was on an emergency basis today following an appeal by Governor Averell Harriman for federal aid to the cold, hungry and sick stranded across snowbound wastes.

The weather began to cooperate today, too, as winds slackened and temperatures crept up into the 20s.

The discovery of an asphyxiated family of five on a farm home, sending the state's death toll in last weekend's storm up to 44, added emphasis to the governor's call for help for uncounted marooned residents imprisoned by snowbound roads.

In a telegram to federal defence officials, Harriman asked for military helicopters for food drops and for army and air force snow-removal equipment.

CRAWL TO FOOD

Many people "are in desperate condition," he said. "Their fuel and food supplies are near exhaustion. They are without feed for farm animals. All state and local snow removal equipment is being used."

Meanwhile, marooned families were told by radio to stamp distress signals in the snow to attract attention from planes flying over today.

In the Ginger Lakes region, the Red Cross, the air force and police teamed to organize a gigantic rescue effort. Drifts were reported piled to the second-storey windows of some homes.

A helicopter pilot who dropped food packages to isolated farms Thursday said "people scrambled out of their homes like ants — some crawling on their hands and knees — and ripped open the sacks to devour the food on the spot."

LAING CHARGE:

Gaglardi Let Road Builder Double Price

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Liberal Leader Arthur Laing accused Highways Minister Gaglardi Thursday night of allowing a contractor to double the estimated price on a piece of road work.

Mr. Laing, speaking at the Vancouver - Quadra Liberal nominating convention, said Mr. Gaglardi "implored" the contractor to get started on the job.

"The contractor couldn't handle it because he was loaded with work from the highways department. So he just looked up the old estimate, made in 1956, and doubled it. Within 12 hours, Mr. Gaglardi had given him the go-ahead."

The Liberal leader refused to name the contractor, but he told reporters later facts of the case are "all over town and may be used publicly soon."

LIFE OF PARTY?

Man, You're Sick

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Want to be the life of the party?

Dream of tossing off uproarious quips?

If you do, man, you're sick.

That diagnosis comes from a psychiatrist, Dr. Martin Grotjahn of the University of Southern California.

"A wit," says Dr. Grotjahn, "is an angry man in search of a victim. A witticism is his way of releasing repressed hostility. If he doesn't find a victim, he will probably suffer from a migraine headache attack.

"A witticism starts with an aggressive tendency or intent — an insult - like, shocking thought. By clothing the insult with the veneer of laughter and the convention of a joke, the wit brings his bottled-up hostilities to the surface in a manner acceptable to society.

"If the wit didn't have this outlet, a headache might occur. Thus, a thought murder (the witticism) a day keeps the doctor away."

VLC BACKS PARK PLAN

A resolution asking that Craigflower peninsula on Portage Inlet be purchased by the provincial government for park development, was endorsed unanimously Thursday by the Victoria Labor Council.

U.S. Oil Import Cut Held 'Favor' To Be Reconsidered After Check

WASHINGTON, (CP) — U.S. officials take the view that the United States actually may have done Canada a favor by restricting imports of Canadian oil on the west coast.

That view isn't spelled out in the diplomatic note released late Thursday in Ottawa and Washington, in which the U.S. rejected Canada's protest over the restrictions, but it does form part of the background thinking that went into the American decision to include Canadian fuel in the oil curb.

The note said the U.S. feels the restrictions will have "relatively little impact" on imports from Canada. Officials here said they estimated the curbs would reduce by only 4,000 to 5,000 barrels a day the amount of Canadian oil U.S. west coast importers had planned to take from Canada in the first half of 1958.

In Ottawa Finance Minister Donald Fleming said the government is "naturally disappointed" that restrictions applying to Canadian oil have not been lifted.

The American note, however, said Canada's views will be further considered after figures are available on U.S. import levels for the second quarter of 1958.
